REVISION OF OLD PRUSSIAN TREATIES SPURNED

GERMAN OVERTURE TO WASHINGTON IS WHOLLY REJECTED

Plans Have Been Made to Take Care of German Subjects in United States If War Comes.

TROUBLE-MAKERS WILL BE INTERNED

Washington, March 24.—The United States has formally refused Germany's request to modernize and extend the old Prussian-American treaties of 1799 and 1828.

The state department has replied through Dr. Paul Ritter, Swiss minister here in charge of German interests, refusing to accept the protocol sent through him to this government.

The reply states that the United States, considering the treaties in force in their original form, is entirely unwilling to accept Germany's interpretation of them as provided in the protocol which expanded the exemption from seizure of "merchants and their effects" in case of war into a general efemption, including enemy ships in port at the outbreak of war which, must either be left free or given safe conduct for their home ports, even through a hostil blockade. Moreover all enemy nationals would be free from internment and able to go about their business, without the slightest hindrance, during the whole course of the war and not in the restricted way mentioned in the original treaties. The question left unanswered is the status of the million and a quarter of German citizens in this country. While the United States has refused to agree to the blanket exemption sought in the German protocol it nevertheless will follow the spirit of the old treaties and not interfere with Germans here who comply with the law.

The government will undoubtedly in case of war cause Germans to register and possibly restrict their travel with-

FRENCH ADVANCE GRAVE MENACE TO HINDENBURG LINE

Paris, March 24.—The allies continue to forge ahead on the center and extreme right and made substantial progress yesterday in the direction of St. Quentin and La Fere in the teeth of German determined resistance. Notwithstanding the efforts of the Germans to destroy the roads as they retired, the allies have managed to bring up a good force of all but their heaviest artillery and the guns are again busy after a long rest.

The pressure of the French from St. Quentin to the Aisne is so powerful that it begins to seem doubtful, in the opinion of the French military critics, as to whether the Germans will be able to hold on to the so-called Hindenburg line.

The invaders have opened the sluices at La Fere, apparently feeling that their chances of holding the town are not good now, that the French have got a footing on the high ground in the Jussy region, northeast of Tergnier. If General Nivelle is able to establish himself in this position his guns will command La Fere.

Further south the French are making solid progress against the five-mile salient covering St. Gobain and formed by the lower Coucy forest. The columns here are working hand in hand with columns operating northeast of Soissons, in the direction of Laon. The latter made continuous progress today and their advance exposes the left extremity of the German line at St. Gobain to the risk of being outflanked and driven back on Laon. It is evident that the German staff is alive to the growing danger and they are making desperate efforts to check the French advance and the fighting is fiercest here than in any other section.

RUSSIA DECIDES TO HAVE A DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC FOUNDED

London, March 24.—12:35 p. m.—The central committee and the parliamentary representatives of the constitutional-democratic party at Petrograd voted today in favor of a republican form of government for Russia, according to a Petrograd dispatch. Prof. Paul N. Milukoff, the foreign minister in the new government, is leader of this party.

Foreign Minister Milukoff has outlined the attitude of the new Russian government in foreign affairs to a number of Petrograd and Moscow journalists. A Reuter dispatch from Petrograd quotes the foreign minister as saying: "We shall remain faithful to all past alliances; similar to that with our allies, which will be still further strengthened and become still more cordial and sincere. The change in regime will disperse the distrust our allies had a right to feel toward the late government. It is Russia's duty to continue the struggle brilliantly both for her own liberty and that of all Europe.

"By the change in regime we definitely won the sympathy of neutrals, especially Sweden, while Finland, thanks to the restoration of her constitution, has become our sincere friend. Our allies came into touch with the new regime without an instant's delay, understanding that the old regime was a serious hinderance to that organization of the Russian people which is necessary for a final triumph.

"Today Russia is no longer a dead weight in the coalition of allies. She is a productive force. Henceforth all rumors of a separate peace must be banished once for all. It would be anti-national for freed Russia to come to an understanding with reactionary Germany."

Tornadoes Sweep Over State Taking Half Hundred Lives and Spreading Costly Ruin

Indianapolis, Ind., March 24.—The tornadoes which swept through Indiana yesterday, killed about fifty persons, including New Albany, it is estimated from incomplete returns to day and caused property damage of about $2,000,000.

Striking the state in Sullivan county, after crossing the Wabash river from Illinois, the most destructive of the several storms swept through scattered areas and left the state northeast of New Albany.

About the time that was sweeping through the southern part of the state high winds were demolishing buildings and injuring the occupants in Hendricks, Wells, Jackson, Harrison, Delaware, Randolph and Grant counties. For the second time this month wire service was crippled by the storm. The greatest damage was at New Albany. In Sullivan county two are dead and more than twenty injured.

BELGIAN AID WORKERS OUT

Washington Orders Minister Whitlock and Relief Force Away.

AMERICAN RELIEF THROUGH HOLLAND

No Use Keeping Americans in Territory Ruled by the Germans.

Washington, March 24.—American relief workers in Belgium and American Minister Brand Whitlock have been formally withdrawn from Belgium. Official announcement to this effect was made at the state department this morning.

The American relief commissioners will be replaced as far as possible by members of a joint neutral commission largely under the supervision of Dutch military authorities. Brand Whitlock will go to Havre, France, resuming his duties as minister at the temporary Belgian capital.

Secretary Lansing at the direction of President Wilson, sent a note to the Netherlands accepting its offer to take over the work of the commission.

Nothing to Gain by Remaining.

The action of the president in ordering the Americans out was based on the belief that nothing was to be gained by keeping Americans longer in territory occupied by German troops in Belgium and northern France. It is desired for humanitarian reasons that the work of the

GERMANS GAIN ON THE FRONT IN ROUMANIA

Berlin, March 24.—(Via Sayville.)—German forces under command of Archduke Joseph yesterday stormed the Russian position on the Rumanian frontier ridge between the Solyomtar and Czobanos valleys, according to today's official German statement, and captured 500 Russians.

PETROGRAD ADMITS IT.

Petrograd, March 24.—(Via London, 3:40 p. m.)—Under pressure of German attacks against the Russian positions between the rivers Silcha and Chvanich, on the Rumanian front, says the official statement issued today by the Russian war department, the Russian troops withdrew to the next line of defense about two-thirds of a mile to the eastward.

ABDICATION OF THE KAISER PREDICTED BY GERMAN WRITER

Paris, March 24.—The abdication of the German emperor is forecast by the former German magistrate who wrote the celebrated book "J'accuse," in an interview published in Oeuvre. He says:

"The kaiser is obsessed by the thought that he is responsible for the war, a thought which poisons his whole existence. He feels that he is menaced by three enemies at home, without counting those abroad: First is the crown prince, the real author of the war; second is the junker pan-Germanist—you cannot imagine the smouldering hatred of the emperor for those whom he believes to be the

WASHINGTON WILL NOT STOP AT ANY HALF-WAY MEASURE

Washington, March 24.—The United States government is getting ready to put into effect measures of the most far reaching and aggressive character in the event of war wth Germany. It will not be satisfied with mere attempts to protect American merchant vessels. Its preparations will be designed to meet any eventuality—a long war—if necessary. There will be no half way measures.

This program was agreed on at a long cabinet meeting yesterday and it guided the council of national defense when it met with its advisory commission. The program decided upon includes military, naval, industrial and financial measures. The question of sending an army abroad will be left for future consideration.

Whether political alliances with the entente allies will be formed is not known, although military as well as naval co-operation is possible and the government will furnish both money and supplies to the allies without stint.

Suggestions before President Wilson today included the possibility of floating a war loan of $5,000,000,000 for the entente.

When President Wilson goes before congress soon after it meets in extra session on April 2, he is expected to make it clear that the government and people of the United States will not be prompted by hostility toward the German people, but only by acts of the German government. So far the president has given only preliminary consideration to his address to congress.

TWO PERSONS ARE SLIGHTLY INJURED

Children in Monmouth School House Have Narrow Escape.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Decatur, Ind., March 24.—Damage to the extent of several thousand dollars was done late yesterday afternoon by a cyclone that visited the northern part of Adams county. Houses and barns were blown from their foundations, trees were uprooted and fences were razed. The damage, it is estimated, will easily aggregate $50,000.

The roof of a new brick school house at Monmouth was torn off and the children escaped possible injury by rushing to the basement. The homes of Floyd Baker and Charles Burr were demolished, while the house of Mart Markenke was blown from its foundation. The roof was blown from the barn of S. S. Magley, and the windows and dishes were shattered in the house. The kitchen

TEN YOUNG MEN WILL GO TO SEA

Ten young men have signed up for naval service at the local navy recruiting station during the past week. Five of the youths were enrolled on Saturday. Three of the number will ga as skilled mechanics.

Party of five, recruited on Saturday, were sent to Indianapolis Saturday afternoon. If they pass the rigid test of the central Indiana station they will be transported to San Francisco for further training.

EVANSVILLE TO HAVE SHAKE-UP OF POLICE

Evansville, Ind., March 24.—Chief of Police Edgar Schmitt today forecasted a general shake-up in the local police department following information placed before him that patrolmen have accepted "gifts" from proprietors of establishments in the restricted district. Two officers were suspended last night and the chief said the investigation would be continued.

Summary of the Day's War News

Increased peril to the so-called Hindenburg line of the Germans in northern France, running through Cambrai, St. Quentin, La Fere and Loan, is indicated by today's Paris official statement.

The French are continuing their strong pressure from St. Quentin to the Aisne, and have driven through the Oise river, directly north of La Fere, at some points. Apparently they have gained control of the high ground in this region and are able to command the city with their guns.

That the Germans were despairing of holding La Fere, a key point in the new line, was indicated by last night's announcement that they had opened the sluice gates and flooded the city. The new French advance to the Oise can hardly fail to make the place still more difficult to hold. Further progress also has been made by the French further to the southeast, on the east bank of the Ailette river, west of Laon, where the Germans, while still falling back towards their new line, are apparently offering

WALKED IN PATH OF AN AUTOMOBILE

Mrs. Harry Drabenstat, of Huntington, was hurled to the pavement, sustaining a badly strained and bruised left arm ,when she was struck by an automobile at the corner of Holman and South Calhoun streets, Saturday morning. The driver of the machine was H. C. Parkson, of Ossian. He reported to the police that Mrs. Drabenstat started across the street and then turned back when directly in front of his car.

DEMANDS NEW DOCTRINE BY THE ENTENTE

London, March 24.—The promulgation of a new allied doctrine against Germany is demanded by Carlyon Wilfroy Bellairs, unionist, in a resolution laid on the table of the house of commons for debate next week. The resolution provides that "in view of the murders and the shocking violations of international law on the high seas by the German government, this house, recognizing that Germany has placed herself in the position of an outlaw, declares that the time has come to enforce the new European doctrine that no supplies may come out of or go into Germany or her allies, that prize court procedure was devised to meet conditions of civilized warfare which do not exist; that consequently supplies for neutral European countries must now be rationed on the basis of an entire cessation of their trade with Germany."

BULGARIANS AT MONASTIR NEAR REVOLT

London, March 24, 10 a. m.—Semi-official dispatches from Serbian headquarters in the last few days have reported serious trouble among the Bulgarian troops around Monastir.

Several regiments are reported to have deserted in a body as the result of friction over supplies and their relations with their Teutonic allies. According to these reports it has been necessary to rearrange several large units of the Bulgarian army, distributing troops of suspected loyalty to places where they could do the least harm.

GERMAN U-BOATS FED FROM SPAIN AND PORTUGAL

Madrid, March 24.—An elaborate organization by which a far flung cordon of German submarines stretching around the Spanish and Portuguese coasts has been maintained in provisions and supplies has been unearthed by the Spanish authorities. A rigid censorship has been established, but it is known that at least four men have been arrested, one of whom was supposed to have been an American, but later proved to be a German. It was reported that other suspects have hailed from the United States, but this was later shown to be due to the fact that they had used many aliases and had found American names to be the most useful.

A most ingenious method was used in getting the supplies and provisions to the submarines. Lines of automobiles were run from Madrid to certain coast points, in order to avoid using the regular train service. At designated points floating depots were established beyond the limits of Spanish waters. These depots consisted of a series of small, stout wooden floats, about the size of a fisherman's dory. Each float formed a good-sized receptacle built to protect the contents against water. Under cover of night small boats loaded these floats with provisions of all kinds, grease and fuel oil and any other articles required by the submarines.

A coast guard patrol boat discovered one of these depots as a number of men were busy restocking it from some of the small sailing craft used by the coast fishermen. The coast guards used their revolvers and captured several prisoners as well as a large quantity of supplies and considerable correspondence. Later investigation showed that one or more members of the coast guard itself was implicated.

KAISER AND CHANCELLOR ARE ROASTED

London, March 24.—The German emperor and Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg were denounced in the reichstag by the socialist deputy, Kunert, as the originators of the war, according to a Berlin dispatch to Reuter's, by way of Amsterdam. The incident occurred Thursday during a debate on the public health estimates. Vice Chancellor Helfferich, referring to Herr Kunert's remark, declared that a German who spoke in the same breath of Russian and German conditions insulted his fatherland. The socialist deputy retorted, amid socialist applause: "Because I compared German reactionaries with Russian revolutionists you say I insulted the fatherland. I should be proud if such progress were made in our country as has been made in the Russian empire."

Socialist Deputy Hoch, criticizing the statistics of the president of the board of health, declared that they did not allow the formation of a conclusive judgment and that the president should not have painted such a rosy picture of the health of the people when "under-feeding is almost terrible and bound to affect the public health."

Another socialist stated that in many establishments workmen had collapsed from hunger.

TWO ATTEMPTS TO REACH HEAVY GUNS

Portland, Me., March 24.—Two attempts within a week to approach the big guns mounted at Fort Williams, on Cape Elizabeth, caused extraordinary precautions last night by the garrison. Extra sentries were posted and searchlights criss-crossed the country outside the fortifications.

Private John Poor of the Third company, coast artillery corps, died last night of a bullet wound inflicted by one of the two strange men detected near the battery. The prowlers escaped and have not yet been found. Poor was a son of Robrt O. Poor, of Clarksdale, Ill.

of the Charles Johnson brick house was almost completely wrecked.

Considerable damage was done at Preble, where the barns of Fred Scheuler and Chris Selking were blown down, burying a number of horses and cattle beneath the debris. The new brick house on the Charles Cook farm, two miles northeast of Preble, was badly damaged. In one of the rooms in the house on the Chris Selking farm the carpet was lifted from the floor. Much damage was done to the house.

The large barns belonging to Peter Helmrick and George Reppert at Magley were blown down.

Two Persons Hurt.

Otto Hildebrand, who was in the Helmrich barn at the time of the storm, and Elmer Reppert, a brother of George Reppert, whose barn was razed, were slightly injured.

The Decatur-Fort Wayne interurban was hard hit by the storm. Many poles and wires were blown down. Traffic was delayed for some time.

Came From Southwest.

The cyclone came from the southwest and swept northeast and was several hundred feet in width. A grave yard east of the school house at Monmouth was laid in ruins, large monuments being overturned and crushed. The home of George Schieferstein, in Monmouth, was wrenched and twisted, the interior being torn and damaged beyond restoration.

TORNADOES SWEEP OVER STATE TAKING HALF HUNDRED LIVES

In Delaware county the damage consisted of destruction of property and injuries to persons none of which is expected to prove fatal. Adams county reported property destruction at Magley and Monmouth, two small villages, but no one seriously injured. The property damage in Hendricks county was estimated to day at $50,000, with only one woman injured.

From Harrison county came a report that two women were injured seriously. Much live stock was killed and many buildings damaged or destroyed. The list of injured in Jackson county numbered five.

High winds between Tipton and Kokomo interrupted interurban traffic. In Howard county two men were injured and several farm buildings were wrecked.

RED CROSS HURRIES AID.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 24.—Officers of the Red Cross Society of Indianapolis, headed by J. J. O'Conner, of Chicago, director of the central division of the Red Cross, who was recalled from Newcastle, where he was superintending the relief work among the victims of the tornado which swept that city less than two weeks ago, departed early today for New Albany to assist in relief work among victims of the storm which left death and destruction in its wake in Ohio river town late yesterday. Eighteen nurses accompanied the party, and more were to follow today.

An offer of the aid of the Indianapolis Red Cross was followed by an appeal for immediate aid from an emergency committee formed at New Albany. The appeal recited briefly the devastation wrought by the tornado and emphasized the need of immediate assistance.

Indiana guardsmen, recently called out for similar duty at Newcastle, were rushed to New Albany last night to aid in the relief work and to guard against looting. Company K, Second Indiana infantry, of Seymour, and field hospital No 1, of Indianapolis, arrived at New Albany early today on special traction cars. Company I, of the Second Indiana infantry, was ordered to proceed from its post at Tell City to New Albany this morning.

A relief fund, which was started here as soon as the extent of the disaster was learned, met ready response and today mounted into the hundreds of dollars.

Mayor Leb Watkins, of Newcastle, informed of the disaster, said he would go to New Albany at once to learn what the citizens of Newcastle could do in return for the generous help that has come to them in the last two weeks. He stated that if additional nurses were needed, some of those on duty at Newcastle may be released.

Major P. A. Davis, of the Indiana national guard who went to New Albany last night as the representative of Adjutant General Harry B. Smith, reported to General Smith this morning that forty were known to have been killed in New Albany. He was to report later on the advisability of sending additional troops to the stricken city.

night in the region south of St. Quentin in which heavy fighting has been in progress for several days. They reached the west bank of the Oise north of La Fere and gained additional ground east of the Aillette river.

HEAVY ENTENTE LOSSES.

Berlin, March 24.—Via Sayville—British and French advancing forces and German rear guards are battling daily on both sides of the rivers Somme and Oise in northern France, says the official statement issued today by German army headquarters staff. In these engagements, th eannouncement adds, the entente forces have suffered heavy losses.

French attacks against the German outposts west of La Fere and along the Aillette lowlands as well as near Neuville and Margivat, it is officially announced were repulsed yesterday.

RUSSIAN GAIN IN PERSIAN.

Petrograd, March 24.—The capture by Russian troops of the Persian town of Kerind, in the sector west of Kermanshah, about forty miles from the Mesopotamian border, is reported by the war office. Pursuit of the Turks toward the Mesopotamian border continues.

der the debris of wrecked buildings. The search of the ruined structures in the devastated sections of the city is going forward under military supervision and all persons except those actually engaged in the work of rescue are being kept out of the stricken districts.

Early this morning a cordon of state troops was thrown about the storm-swept parts of the city and these sections were cleared. Thereafter only those persons bearing military passes were admitted within the lines established by the soldiers.

Ruin is Vast.

Approximately three hundred residences, industrial plants and other buildings were badly damaged or destroyed. In some instances houses had been so torn to pieces and the wreckage intermingled with that from other structures that those who had lived in them were unable definitely to locate the sites upon which they had stood.

Houses had been picked up bodily apparently and then thrown to the earth with terrific force smashing them into kindling wood. Other house appeared to have been flattened out as if some tremendous hand had been laid upon them. Small outbuildings and sections of roofs were carried for blocks, and trees were torn bodily from the earth by the roots.

The work of searching the ruins began immediately but has not yet been completed. Direction of the work of relief has been assumed by the chamber of commerce and a fund of several thousand dollars has been subscribed. Members of the board o trade of Louisville have also made substantial contributions and an appeal has been made by that body to Louisville citizens for further funds.

Caring for the Injured.

Nurses and physicians from Louisville were still busy today helping to care for the injured. The most seriously hurt were taken to St. Edwards hospital and at noon the number reported had grown to sixty-five. Probably ten or more are expected to die, it was said by attaches at the hospital. About 1,000 persons have been rendered homeless, it was said at the chamber o. commerce headquarters. Many of these have lost all their belongings.

The work of clearing away the wreckage of ruined houses probably will take a day or two and not until this is completed will the number of dead be accurately known. The property damage was estimated today at approximately $1,000,000.

The Devastated Area.

The storm swept almost entirely aruond the northern part of the city, moving generally from southwest to northeast.

The outline of the devastated area bears a general resemblance to a gigantic paw with the talons outspread around the northeastern section. Not all of the area included within the outlines of the paw suffered the full fury of the wind, however, for wreaking havoc in the southwestern side of the city where it entered, the storm lifted, doing comparatively little damage until it struck again nearly a mile away on the northeastern side. The majority of houses wrecked were workingmen's homes, though a number of larger buildings were leveled. In one instance a large brick house had been swept from its foundations and on the site it occupied there stood today, leaning all awry a small cottage which the wind picked up half a block away.

Work of the Storm.

In many instances only the front of houses had been torn away. In others all the windows and doors had been blown out, leaving the structures otherwise uninjured. Probably one hundred dwellings were lifted from their foundations and scattered over the neighborhood. Telephone, telegraph and electric light poles were snapped off at the ground. A negro school building in which several school children were killed, was demolished. Its brick walls collapsed on a large proportion of twenty-five or thirty occupants.

State troops from Indianapolis arrived here at 2:30 o'clock this morning to take charge of the situation. Darkness hampered the search during the night, all the electric wires in the devastated sections of the city being down, and the work of rescue proceeded slowly.

This morning the work of clearing away the wreckage of several buildings in which a number of persons are thought to have been caught had not been completed.

Dead in Razed Schoolhouse.

One of these was a school. Several children in the building when the storm struck are thought to have escaped, the bodies of others have been recovered and possibly as many as twenty others are thought to be still buried under the ruins.

Every precaution was taken by the city authorities to prevent looting and Mayor Robert W. Morris ordered that vandals be shot on sight.

Policemen and firemen from Louisville just across the river and Jeffersonville, only three miles away, together with officers from the Indiana state reformatory, assisted in maintaining order.

Citizens Prompt With Relief.

The chaos which came in the wake of the storm was quickly succeeded by organized efforts to assist those in need of help. A large relief fund was raised at a hurriedly gathered meeting of cit-manshah, about forty miles from the izens at the city hall and committees appointed to undertake the work of relieving those whose houses had been destroyed. This fund was increased by a contribution from the board of trade of Louisville, and today further subscriptions were being added. The injured soon overflowed the one public hospital and others were taken to the Young Men's Christian Association and to private homes. Every available physician in New Albany was called into service together with others from Louisville and Jeffersonville. Members of the staffs of Louisville hospitals were surrendered to the service and the facilities of the institutions themselves were offered.

Damage in the Country.

Damage done by the wind extended several miles into the country, particularly along the Corydon pike. Many houses and barns were unroofed or demolished and several persons were injured. Along the Charleston road the damage was also heavy.

An unidentified young man and woman driving toward New Albany were hurled over a fence into a nearby field and killed.

No accurate estimate of the property damage in and about the immediate vicinity of New Albany has been possible, but it is expected the loss will be upwards of a million dollars.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY'S WAR NEWS

a stiff resistance. Paris military critics also point to a German peril here, where the left end of the German line at St. Gobain, is threatened with outflanking.

Last reports from the British end of the line also indicated strong German resistance, but recorded also further advance for Gen. Haig's forces, notably in the region southeast of Arras.

In part, at least, the German retirement in France may be explained by an official statement of the new Russian war ministry, in which it is announced that the Germans are concentrating great quantities of munitions, supplies and men on the northern end of the Russian front. A Teutonic offensive in the near future in this important, but long neglected war area, is thus indicated.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg, who is credited with establishing the new line in the west, is classed as a believer in the theory that a decision in the war can best be gained by a campaign on the eastern front against Russia.

Meanwhile the Russian provisional government renews its efforts to strengthen the offensive measures of the nation.

One of the most important of the constituent parties of the new government, that of the constitutional democrats, led by Foreign Minister Milukoff, has just voted, through its committee and its parliamentary representatives for a republican form of government for Russia.

maniacs driving him into an abyss; third are the people, not the socialist people's party, but the people who are starving and who he feels are growing in number and rising little by little against those who organized the war.

Struggle Over Ruthlessness.

"The other day at the meeting of the parliamentary presidents and the ministers of the federal sovereigns, at which the submarine war was decided upon, the struggle between the kaiser's party and that of von Tirpitz was most bitter. The majority against the emperor was so great, however, that he was obliged to submit and prtend that he was convinced. In particular he was personally opposed to a break with President Wilson, but he was forced to consent. Documents will be published one day which will prove that secretly he did everything not to bring America down upon him and he considers that the rupture was an irreparable mistake. The failure of the submarine war will soon show that he was right, but it will be too late.

Fears Anti-Militarists.

"The people he fears most are the anti-militarists, anti-Prussian, liberal republicans, who want the reichstag to be based on universal suffrage. That is why Wilhelm is so anxious to convince the nation that he did not want war. All his protestations are made to appease the liberals and his famished and ruined subjects, whose murmurings are growing stronger. He wants to continue popular at any price and that is why he spoke the first word of peace. The people were grateful for it, but the submarine war came and spoiled everything.

"It is hard to realize how this emperor, who enjoyed a popularity unexampled in our epoch, suffers in his pride. He alone perhaps in Germany, knows the whole truth, since he alone has in his possession the elements for forming a judgment on the situation as a whole. How can he resist morally and physically under such a crain- Certainly he hopes some times, but less and less, for the success of the unrestricted submarine warfare which he opposed. He sees the isolation of Germany become more and more complete.

A Knockout Blow.

"Once he tried to initiate peace negotiations and failed. To try again would be to admit and proclaim to the whole world, but above all to the German people, which he fears most, Germany's real situation. If the allies solemnly declare, as they did with Napoleon in 1815, that they would refuse to treat for peace with the Hohenzollerns, it would be a knockout blow. Our German people, who still believe in him would abandon him, for peace at any price will soon be the unanimous hidden thought of tortured Germany.

"What recourse is left to him but a dramatic abdication in order to retain the sympathies of the German people and save the political future of Prussia. He will say: 'I sacrifice myself to make peace. Without me those are only responsible who desired savage war and the complete isolation of Germany, those who took at the beginning my son as their party leader and forced me to mobilize, a measure I hesitated to take.'"

HORSE AFRAID OF AUTO; UPSETS RIG

Mrs. Charles Beard, living seven miles from Fort Wayne, on the Aboite road, was slightly injured Saturday morning, because she was driving a horse which is still afraid of automobiles. Mrs. Beard was driving towards the city when she met an automobile driven by E. A. Truman, of Columbia City, at the intersection of the Huntington road. Horse driven by the woman attempted to turn around. The buggy was upset in the ditch. Mrs. Beard was thrown out and received minor hurts.

commission be continued and the government of the Netherlands has been asked to communicate with the commission's Rotterdam office to take over the work and determine how many Dutch citizens would be needed for it. It is understood here a large number of Dutch students will be called upon to assist. Arrangements for the return to America of a large number of Americans are now being made.

The United States will be henceforth able to participate in the relief work by financial contributions. Chairman Herbert C. Hoover on leaving New York for Europe recently said that America's work of supplying the means of relief had only just begun. About forty-five Americans are affected by the new order.

Complications Likely.

Complications over the shipment of food stuffs for distribution to the Belgians by the Netherlands may result from the fact that it is considered that Great Britain's extension of the North sea danger zone virtually constitutes a blockade of the coast of Holland.

The Netherlands at this time is said to be in urgent need of food stuffs which it is unable to secure because of the detention in British ports of Dutch ships and the danger on the seas from German submarines. The new danger zone declared by Great Britain does away with a lane twenty miles wide in the North sea, through which Dutch ships heretofore have passed to and from their home ports. The lane was between the German submarine zone and the old British danger zone. This lane having been closed Dutch ships have available to them only the territorial waters of the Netherlands, which generally are of insufficient depth to accommodate a large portion of Dutch shipping.

It is regarded as certain that if the relief work in Belgium and northern France is to be continued by the Netherlands, some arrangement for the safe passage of ships carrying food stuffs and supplies will have to be made with Great Britain and Germany.

The Formal Announcement.

The announcement given out by the state department follows in part:

"By direction of the president, the minister at Brussels has been instructed to withdraw from Belgium with foreign diplomatic and consular officers and take up his official residence at Havre.

"After consultation with the commission for relief in Belgium, Mr. Whitlock has also been instructed to arrange for the departure of the American members of the commission. This step, the seriousness of which is fully appreciated by the government, was taken only after careful consideration and full consultation with all the interests involved.

"Immediately after the break in relations the German authorities in Brussels withdrew from Mr. Whitlock the diplomatic privileges and immunities which he had up to that time enjoyed. His courier service to The Hague was stopped; he was denied the privilege of communicating with the department of state in cipher and later even in plain language. The members of the relief commission were placed under great restrictions of movement and communication which hampered the efficient performance of their task.

Relief Ships Attacked.

"In spite of all these difficulties the government and commission were determined to keep the work going to the last minute.

"However, a more serious difficulty has arisen. In the course of the past ten days several of the commission's ships have been attacked without warning by German submarines in flagrant violation of the solemn engagements of the German government. Protests addressed by this government to Berlin through the intermediary of the Spanish government have not been answered. The German government's disregard of its written undertakings causes grave concern as to the future of the relief work. In any event it is felt the American staff of the commission can no longer serve with advantage in Belgium. Although a verbal promise has been made that the members of the commission would be permitted to leave if they desire, the German government's observance of its other undertakings has not been such that the department would feel warranted in accepting responsibility for leaving these American citizens in German occupied territory."

Disfiguring Growths of Hair Entirely Removed

(New Method Removes Roots and All)

If you are afflicted with a growth of superfluous hair, go to your druggist at once, get a stick of phelactine, follow the simple instructions—and have the pleasantest surprise of your life! The new immigration bill, providing that all males between the ages of sixteen and sixty must be able to read in order to enter the United States, was passed over the president's veto. This is the first bill to become a law over President Wilson's vero. The literacy test, as the provision for ability to read is called, had been vetoed by Presidents Cleveland and Taft. President Wilson vetued it once before.

MILITARY TOURNAMENT WILL ATTRACT CROWDS

Tickets Are Ordered by Out-of-Town People for Exhibition.

The fourth annual military tournament of the Concordia college cadets is to be held in the college gymnasium on March 30, as was originally planned, and not on April 30, as was inadvertently stated in one of the city papers. The attendance at these tournaments has been steadily growing larger year by year and last year a crowd of over a thousand were thrilled as the cadets stepped through their various drills to the tunes of the brass band.

Bigger and Better Than Ever.

This year's tournament will be even bigger and better than last year's, although this is well nigh an impossibility, according to the opinions expressed by last year's spectators. Not only will this event be witnessed by local people, however, for hundreds of tickets have already been ordered by out of town people. Such cities as Huntington, St. Joe, South Bend, Detroit, St. Louis, Cleveland and Chicago will be well represented and special cars have been chartered. Many of the almuni as well as ex-Concordians will arrive, and although the big gymnasium has been stretched to its full capacity of 1,500 it will by no means be able to hold all of the throng sure to arrive. Before the tickets were ever placed on sale over nine hundred had been spoken for, and it came as a most unwelcome surprise to many of Concordia's friends that it will be unable to hold the tournament on two successive nights as was originally intended.

Patriotism is Kindled.

Many events of a military nature have been given in the last few months to fire the imagination of all and kindle the patriotism of all true Americans. The sending of American troops to the border; their return; the present strained relations with a certain set of belligerents, and the profuse displayal of the flag has given rise to many patriotic demonstrations. The Concordia tournament will, however, no doubt, exceed anything, from the military point of view, ever attempted in the city during the last few years.

Captain Byroade has his cadets drilled to the minute in all forms of close-order and fancy drills, setting up exercises and butts and silent manuals and much attention has been given not only to precision but also to the practical things of warfare which might be necessary in case of hostilities.

The cadets will, as usual, appear in their regular dress uniform, consisting of the nobby coat, with white webbing, breast-plate and white duck trousers. The tournament will open prompt at 8 p. m. with a band concert till 8:30 p. m. when military events proper will start.

The tickets have just been placed on sale and may be purchased at Miller's drug store, at 2128 South Calhoun street, and at Lauer's cigar store, while all mail orders will receive prompt and careful attention if addressed to Mr. Carl Strodel, Concordia College, City.

out special permits to certain limited. General internment is not being considered as yet, as officials maintain that America's only object in the war would be to curb the German government and not to injure its citizens here. It is assumed on all sides that great masses of Germans will respect their obligations as guests in this country but it is known also that some few will make trouble which will react more to the disadvantage of the rest than otherwise.

The war department has already secured full details of all the various exemption, including enemy ships in fect in other countries and is prepared to carry out any plan that may be ordered. So far the only one that has met with any favor is the Canadian plan which leaves all Germans free as before, subject to restrictions on travel and obligation to register and interne those only, known to be enemies of the state. So far only about 6,000 out of 80,000 have been so held.

Naming Cities for Dates.

What is, perhaps, the oddest of all ways to select a name for a city or street is to name it for a certain date, and yet this has been done in Brazil for hundreds of years. It was on January 1, 1531, that a Portuguese captain, Alphonso de Souza by name, entered the mouth of that marvelously beautiful bay, on the shores of which now stands the capital of the vast republic of Brazil. Thinking that he was sailing into a great river, he named the stream Rio de Janiero, or January river, and all through the centuries the name has remained.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS IN RECRUITING RALLY

Patriotism Rules Supreme in Meeting of Lawton Camp Friday Evening.

Displaying all the old vim, pep and enthusiasm, members of Lawton camp No. 35, United Spanish War Veterans, held a recruiting rally in the assembly room of the court house Friday evening. Patriotism reigned supreme and many men who followed the Stars and Stripes during the four years, beginning in 1898, became members of the camp.

John A. Johnson, chairman, announced shortly after the meeting had been called to order that Wolf & Dessauers had presented the boys of '98 with a marching flag eight by twelve feet. He also announced that other friends had donated seventy dollars for the purchase of a standard or banner.

The following donations were given: Klaehn & Melching, $15; Chalfant & Egley, $10; J. C. Peltier & Son, $10; Schone & Ankenbruck, $10; Mungovan & Ryan, $10; Getz & Cahill, $10; Fred H. Wellman, $5; Wolf & Dessauer, $10 (flag delivered.)

Patriotic addresses were made by Frank Hilgemann, A. D. Zuber, Capt. O. C. Meyers, E. R. Lewis, Major W. W. Barnett, Capt John C. Capron, J. Pitman, Peter A. Thompson, Sergt. John O. Hood and Samuel S. Kelker and D. L. Beaber, of the Lawton-Wayne post, G. A. R.. At the instance of Mr. Hilgemann the camp went on record as against Memorial day desecration and appointed a committee consisting of Messrs. Hilgemann, Pulver and Lewis to draw up resolutions.

MYRON DESSAUER'S FATHER PASSES AWAY

M. E. Dessauer, of Montrose, Pa., father of Myron Dessauer, of this city, passed away at his home Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, following a brief illness. Mr. Dessauer was called to his father's bedside last week and was there at the time of his death. The deceased had been a prominent merchant of Montrose for fifty-three years. Besides Myron Dessauer he is survived by the following children: Samuel and Harold Dessauer, of New York city; Mrs. Koch, of New York, and Miss Jennie Dessauer, of Montrose. Funeral services were held Friday.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS FOR THE HOME

John 8:31-37; 56-58.

31 Our fathers did eat manna in the desert; as it is written, He gave them bread from heaven to eat.

32 Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Moses gave you not that bread from heaven; but my Father giveth you the true bread from heaven.

33 For the bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world.

34 Then said they unto him, Lord, evermore give us this bread.

35 And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst.

36 But I said unto you, That ye also have seen me, and believe not.

37 All that the Father giveth me shall come to me; and him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out.

56 He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me, and I in him.

57 As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father; so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

58 This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead: he that eateth of this bread shall live for ever.

SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1917.

Indiana Storm-Swept.

Indiana is getting more than a deserved share of scourgings by storm. The destruction of property and loss of life in Friday's program of phenomena are a hard stroke upon the state. Reports indicate that there were near half a score of fierce storms in Indiana Friday over different and widely separated sections, with loss of life in at least two of them and extensive damage in all.

Earlier accounts indicate that the tornado that swept a path of fury through New Albany was more destructive of property and took a heavier toll of life than the frightful storm that destroyed a considerable part of Newcastle two weeks ago and thought at the time to stand in the record as Indiana's worst experience with phenomena of the sort. The estimate is that at least fifty have perished in New Albany, with hundreds injured and other hundreds rendered homeless.

Fort Wayne again has occasion to contemplate how near to her own situation great storms now and then frequently come, but save the city harmless. The northern part of Adams county, but a few miles south of Fort Wayne, was visited by a highly destructive storm Friday afternoon, in which, most happily, no lives were made a sacrifice, though there was extensive damage to property. Nothing in conditions here gave clue to the destroying fury of the winds but a short distance away. There has been something strange in Fort Wayne's consistent immunity from such terrible visitations, though they have come very near often enough. Why it is that tornadoes and cyclones have not thought fit to lay a path through this city is singular, when such storms have frequently traveled in all directions about Fort Wayne. Escape so far cannot be taken for a perpetual immunity, though it would be pleasant to think so, and Fort Wayne doubtless will some day be severely brushed by a great windstorm.

It appears from the accounts that New Albany has suffered so severely as to be in need of considerable aid from the outside. The agencies that had not yet completed the work of relief for stricken Newcastle can be continued for a similar purpose of benevolence in New Albany, if it be determined definitely that assistance must be sought from the state at large.

Speculation interests itself profoundly with the strategy of the erman retirement on the west front. This newspaper's war expert eclines to commit himself and defers the questions raised to the oard of strategy that can be found about almost any hot stove. We will go far enough to say that always heretofore old man von Hindenburg has seemed to know what he was about. If he doesn't this time there isn't any sign of it yet. The home strategists probably will have to wait for developments, which can be done in patience. The sitting outdoors is getting better every day.

The estimated total wealth of the United States is about two hundred billions. Looking at that and considering the government's examination of plans to extend financial aid to the entente in the event of an American war with Germany, the allies may be led into misbelief that Uncle Sam is ready to do it all and that their money troubles have come to an end. 'Twill be rash thought if it shall become the thought. America will do her proper bit, but expectation of more than that will be rather wild speculation.

It is pointed out as a significant fact of history that all of the wars of the United States—revolution, 1812, Mexican, civil and Spanish—began in the month of April. The national congress meets April 2 confronted again by the unpleasant business. At least there's the consolation that we have won all our April wars, if we must have another adventure of the sort, starting this month, the most fateful for us the calendar clear round.

The glowing hope lights the republican machine headquarters in Indianapolis that Lew Shank can't raise the slush to finance an independent candidacy for the mayor's office. If that's a clue to what's brewing for a machine campaign, probably Lew Shank will know what to look out for. He is a skillful raider and an accomplished political engineer, on whose band wagon a good many seem quite pleased to ride.

Military training is to be established in the Fort Wayne high school. Fine! Perhaps after a term of that it may not be thought altogether so smart to simulate disrespect to authority and to always speak of teachers in a sort of contemptuous familiarity by their first names. There are a lot of useful things a stiff drillmaster can teach some of the lads of the Fort Wayne high school.

These bright and warmer days ought to inspire ready thoughts and longings aside from merely going' fishin'. There is the home garden, for instance, that is to reduce the cost and add to the joys of living. In you does this sap-starting weather find no answer to the call of the soil?

If his portraits do him no injustice, it may be said of the late czar that he does not look like a man who would take a forced job of lame-ducking very painfully to heart.

TABLOID HISTORY OF RUSSIA

Russia Extended to Baltic Under Peter the Great, and Further Extended by the Great Catherine.

(Fourth Chapter of the Daily Sentinel's Tabloid History of Russia.)

Michael Feodorovitch, the first Romanoff czar, found Russia in 1613 in a condition of anarchy and disorder similar to that which obtains in Mevico today. The Don cossacks were ravaging Astrakhan; the Zaporogian cossacks infested the river Dwina region; Polish inroads were constant on the southwest; banditry was a common practice everywhere.

And Michael was a fifteen-year-old boy.

He had been chosen because the Romanoff family represented, in the minds of the noble, all that was best in Russian life.

Nobles soon schemed to use Michael to their own interest.

Patriotism arose, however, and popular support helped end the rule of pillage.

Poland refused to recognize the boy czar. He purchased peace by giving Poland land. Michael ruled till 1645. Hhis son and successor acquired Little Russia by voluntary submissiin of the cossacks, who had rebelled against Poland. In the war with Poland which followed, Russia retook Kiev and extended her domain to the Dnieper.

In 1689 Peter the Great became czar. He worked to extend Russia westward to the Baltic.

He won territories on the Gulf of Finland, and in 1703 laid the foundations for his new capital, which bears his name—St. Petersburg, now Petrograd.

He took Azov from the Turks, and planned to establish a navy on the Black sea, but the Turks reconquered Azov, and this plan failed.

Peter the Great spent years in western Europe learning trades, including shipbuilding. He tried to remake Russia on the lines of western Europe, and only partly succeeded.

Peters' son Alexis died prematurely, and the throne passed to Peter's wife, Catherine I., then to Aexis' weak son, Peter II. Upon his death the privy council set aside all descendants of Peter the Great and gave the throne to Anna, daughter of Peter the Great's imbecile brother Ivan.

Anna was under German control.

Anna's favorite, Biron, on her death, became regent for the infant son of her niece, Anna Karlovna. Anna Karlovna herself overthrew Biron and assumed the regency, only to succumb to a conspiracy that enthroned Elizabeth Petrovna, daughter of Peter the Great. Elizabeth joined Austria in a war against Prussia, showing herself the enemy of Frederick the Great of Prussia.

Elizabeth's death saved Prussia when Russian troops were in Berlin. Her successor, Peter of Holstein-Gottrop, admired Frederick and became his ally. But Peter was dethroned and his wife took the throne as Catherine the Great. Catherine was a lady of many loves, but under her guidance Russia gained much territory, taking 180,000 square miles and six million people with the partition of Poland, and expelling Turkey from the north shore of the Black sea.

Catherine's son, Paul, joined the European coalition against France, and was about to repeat the treachery of the last Peter by leaving the coalition and warring on England, when he was murdered by conspirators.

The story of the accession of the peace lover and humanitarian Alexander I., at the beginning of the nineteenth centry, will be told next.

Short men of Harlem held a meeting recently to protest against the high positions of straps in public conveyances.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Louis A. Centlivre left for Grand Rapids, Mich., this afternoon to establish a branch for the Centlivre company.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Rosser McClure has been brightened by the arrival of a brand new boy. To say that Mr. McClure is proud of his boy is expressing it very mildly.

The new rooms of the Fort Wayne lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F., were thrown open for public inspection today. A public reception to which all are invited will be held this evening.

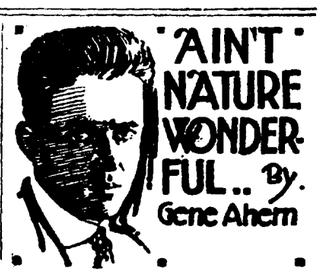
John Lassus, proprietor of the Lake Shore notel, has purchased the lot adjoining his place of business, the consideration being $1,550. He purchased the lot from Mrs. McLaughlin.

L. P. Scherer, the Maumee avenue baker, has let the contract for the erection of a $2,000 addition to his large establishment. Mr. Scherer is one of Fort Wayne's enterprising citizens.

C. B. Fitch, who has been representing the National Life Insurance company of Vermont, has been officially appointed general agent for northern Indiana. The company has opened an office at 46 Pixley & Long block, with Mr. Fitch in charge.

The Standard oil trust, the most powerful manufacturing monopoly in this country and the originator of the trust idea, has nominally passed out of existence. The half dozen multi-millionaires who have so ably built up this great combination of corporations have at last had to bow to the laws which declare trusts to be opposed to public policy.

About $12,000 is the amount raised for the proposed new Congregational church which it is hoped will be erected the coming summer at the corner of Jefferson and Harrison streets. The amount necessary to complete the edifice will probably not exceed $20,000. Metropolitan ideas are introduced in the plans, the exterior having a massive and beautiful appearance, while the interior has an arrangement that is convenient and wholly different from anything of the kind in the city. The auditorium will seat six hundred, while the Sunday school room at the rear will accommodate about four hundred.. Sliding doors divide the two.



CHEWING GUM.

Chewing gum is a piece of rubber tire without a backbone flavored with a smell. A good tire will average about 5,000 miles, but the mileage of a stick of gum is unlimited. The original flavor in a stick of gum soon exits and then it's like chewing a chunk of 24-hour boiled tripe.

But expert gum wrestlers never throw away a wad of gum that has all the taste unchewed. Each day they give it a different flavor, such as brass bed flavor, movie seat taste, office furniture flavor, etc. Then, after a month or so of mouth jui jitsu with the gum it can be thrown on the sidewalk or floor for somebody to step on so they can give an imitation of a fly scottisching across a stack of wheats flooded with New Orleans molesses.

The gum landscape on the underpart of movie seats and soda fountain chairs makes the rocky mountain scenery look atter than Mexican beer. The more modern movie houses don't have the wire hat holders under the seats since a Chicago genius got the hunch of letting George Gum do it. Soon they'll have restaurant signs reading, "Not responsible for hats, coats, articles and chewing gum."

The old gag of walking away and forgetting your umbrella now has chewing gum for a teammate.

Chewing gum and talking at same time is worthy of applause. Telephone operators win with this trick. They've got it down so pat a clever linguist can almost make out what they say.

n. y., wensdy—in the skools here they mark report cards A or B or C or D

& 1 kid that goes to skool no. 76 has been pulling down a C or a D rite along, but he wasent worrying haff so much about it as his teecher

so she writes a note to the kid's dad & tells him you had better put a littel pep into yure son or he will be among the also rans at the end of the term, only that wasent the way she rote it for teechers dont know enuff to rite like i do & use snappy words the next day the kid's dad goes to the principle of the skool & says that bonehead of a teecher is balling my boy out & he has been standing at the head of his class all the time the principle looks at the kid's reckerd & says, why your son has been getting a C or D all the time

yep, i know, the man says to him, & you notise that he dident get any A or B dont you, and the principle tels him, yes i see & that is why he shood study more then he told the man what the letters stood for

& the man said my boy tells me D stands for dandy, C for careful, B for bad and A for awful, and as he had more Ds than anything else i thought he was verry smart when last seen the littel kid was going home with his dad's hand on his coat coller, & i'll bet he had an A time of it when his dad got him in the house

Patriotism Lives in Floating Flag

(By a Sentinel Reader.)

A certain old brick house in a certain old part of town symbolizes well the true spirit of Fort Wayne's patriotism.

Down from the second story windows of this time beaten structure drops the billowy folds of the Stars and Stripes. The large flag, still lively with freedom's colors of red, white and blue, is not a new one. It had wafted in the breeze many times before it appeared at the opening of the past week. It is always displayed on the nation's birthday and its texture is not the kind that blends in a mass of drab tints at the end of a dashing shower.

Never did the old flag, dangling before the certain old house, appear more beautiful than in the sunshine and clouds of the week just gone. Hundreds looked from windows of rocking street cars upon the quiet dignity of the big flag, which trailed down over the arched door of the house and softened the weather worn appearance of the dwelling's front.

The house itself is a square, two story structure. It was built for time, in a day when there was no subleting of contracts, and its smoke blackened walls appear to have lost none of their strength through the years of beating spring rains and crashing sleet storms. It is a homely, home-like building. For many years it has been tenanted by one family, whose founders came from the land of Teutons, and the great-great-great-grandchildren are proud of their German ancestry.

This certain old brick house, considered pompous in early Fort Wayne, has passed through three stirring epochs in our country's history. It has stood amidst storms of dissension and rebellion, which swept across the land in darkness that overshadows even the crisis of today.

When Sumpter fell and war trumpets sounded; when martial music was heard in the streets and the drilling of Fort Wayne soldier lads, a son, tall and manly, walked from what is now a dingy front door of the certain old brick house and took his place in the ranks. He marched away with the other Fort Wayne youths to tramp the fields of fire and death that the nation's honor might be sustained.

He came back at the end of that deadly conflict. He ended his days at home. They were days of quiet and upright walking in the avenues of trade.

Today his grandchildren have hanged out "Old Glory" as a silent signal of loyalty. There would be at least one recruit from the certain old brick house in case of a national call to arms. The banner which wafts above that ancient door must not be sullied.

"Show us a sign of Fort Wayne loyalty," say some well meaning people who have been told that the nation looks upon our city with distrust in this moment of stress. "Fort Wayne has been slow in showing its colors and we fear it may lag in at a tragic moment," comes an expression.

Fort Wayne may have been tardy in filling its streets with flags. Maybe its citizens took their loyalty for granted until a moment when they felt that such an expression of devotion to the colors was actually needed. Today there is no city, the size of Fort Wayne, showing a greater number of flags. From her mansions to the most modest dwellings, before the palatial homes along her avenues to the colorless cottages of her hard working foreigners, "The Star Spangled Banner" is tossed to the breeze.

Fort Wayne needs no more staple monument to her loyalty. Her flag bedecked dwellings are her living symbols of patriotism. These are finer than chiseled works to freedom's name. And one of the finest of her signs of unfailing love of country is a certain old brick house in a certain old part of town.

CAN'T FIND DANDRUFF

Every bit of dandruff disappears after one or two applications of Danderine rubbed well into the scalp with the finger tips. Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store and save your hair. After a few applications you can't find a particle of dandruff or any falling hair, and the scalp will never itch.—Advertisement.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

When constipated or bilious give "California Syrup of Figs."

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Advertisement.

LOOK to Foley's Honey and Tar when in the clutches of La grippe.

It quickly stops the hard cough, eases the pain and tightness in the chest, helps the wheezy breathing.

WAS IT CANCER OR ECZEMA?

HELP CAME TO THIS YOUNG LADY AFTER EVERYTHING ELSE FAILED.

Mrs. Chas. A. Siemon, of 1331 Huestis avenue, mother of this young lady, and whose father is the well-known tinner of the Grosjean Hardware store, of South Broadway, says: "Our daughter was afflicted with what four doctors said was eczema. It was an eruption as large as a silver dollar and extended through the entire thickness of her cheek, and was very sore inside and out. Itching and burning was intense and was of four years' standing. It got continually worse. One doctor said it had to be cut out, but I would not consent to it because it would disfigure her for life. I was afraid it was cancer as it had every indication. We spent two hundred dollars trying to get relief but everything failed until she used Miller's Herb Remedy, and the first bottle gave her relief. She used six bottles in all and was entirely cured. She is now a picture of health. I would advise all having a blood disease to give this good remedy a fair trial."

SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hurlbert Poole, of South Harrison street, are issuing invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Irma Lucille, to Mr. James Pomeroy Porter, youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. Miles F. Porter, which will take place in the First Presbyterian church, on Thursday, April twelfth, at 8 o'clock in the evening. After the wedding a reception to relatives and the most intimate friends of the bride and groom will be held at the residence of the bride. Miss Poole is an interesting and charming young woman in society circles. Following her graduation from the public schools Miss Poole went to the Law-Froebel Kindergarten school, in Toledo, O., and finished a course in training there. Since then Miss Poole has taught in the kindergarten department of the city schools and her success in her work has depended upon her adaptibility to it as well as upon her special preparation. Mr. Porter followed his work in the Fort Wayne high school with a four years' course at Williams college, taking an A. B. degree. For several years Mr. Porter has been engaged in business and has just recently taken a position with the Wayne Oil Tank company to take charge of their office in Pittsburg, Pa., his selection for the place being a result of his ability and agreeable personality.

Fourteen members of the Nineteenth Century club enjoyed the annual luncheon of the club at the home of Mrs. Charles Lang, of Spy Run avenue, at 1 o'clock today. Mrs. H. G. Keegan, Mrs. H. J. Bowerfind and Mrs. A. W. Pickard were the committee on the menu. Both decorations and menu expressed the colors of pink and yellow as much as possible, and lovely spring flowers, pink, yellow and white decorated the table and the rooms. A nosegay of flowers lay at each plate. Letters from non-resident members were read during the luncheon.

Mrs. Charles Tyger is spending a few days in Toledo, Ohio.

Mrs. Cecil Max and child, of Muncie, are visiting Judge J. Vesey and family.

Mrs. Louis Frankel, of Chicago, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Joseph Lohman.

Miss Helen Lau, of Washington boulevard west, has returned from a visit in Chicago.

Miss Elizabeth Cole, of Edgewater avenue, entertained the M. A. E. club on Friday evening.

Mrs. H. K. Essig left on Saturday noon for a week's visit in Elkhart with her daughter, Mrs. E. A. Kilmer.

Miss Marguerite Strube has returned home after spending the week in Detroit, visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. Ralph Feagles, of the Hamilton house, entertained a social club to which she belongs on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Kate Hemrich, of 316 Douglas avenue, has returned from a visit with her daughter and other relatives in Spencerville.

Mrs. Harriet Rogers, of Auburn, formerly a resident of this city, who came here to attend the twenty-ninth anniversary party of the ladies' auxiliary to Division Eighteen of a railway organization was entertained by three other charter members on Thursday afternoon at a theater party, an automobile ride and afterwards with refreshments at the Aurentz store. The hosts were Mesdames Somers, Scott and Studer.

Fifteen young girls were delightlightfully entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Wysong, 104 East Creighton avenue, Thursday evening, March 22, at a military "stag" party. In order to show their patriotism the girls were dressed in militia and navy costumes. The home was beautifully decorated throughout with red, white and blue flags and bunting. The evening was spent with music, games, dancing and cards. At a late hour C. L. Wysong escorted the girls to the diningroom, where a table was prettily decorated in harmonizing colors. Refreshments consisting of several good things, including red, white and blue ice cream and cake, were served. Those who enjoyed the affair were Misses Dorothy Mabel Morton, Billie Detro, Helen Heidenreich, Velma and Annette Kennedy, Helen Hendricks, Ruth Wolfe, Doris Reed, Gyneth Detimore, Katherine McDowd, Bert Harris, Viletta Davis, Fern Gray of Pennville, Mrs. Ruth Miller, Mrs. Belle Perkins Morton and Mrs. Hazel Sweet Wysong.

MOTHER GOOSE AND FAMILY

Pretty Operetta to Be Given Next Month for Benefit of Hope Hospital—Many of Fort Wayne's Well Known Singers Will Be Seen in Charming Production.

MRS. HORTENSE REYNOLDS, Director.

MRS. H. H. ROGERS.

MISS RUTH GUMPPER.

Familiar but old friends are coming to Fort Wayne on a visit soon, dressed in quite new clothes and singing many lovely new songs, but at the same time reminding you with merry strain of the long ago. That is if you are grown up, and if not, these friends will still be familiar and dear and will delight you with their pretty ways and sweet music. There will be a lost princess, always a sad affair until the happy ending. There will be Mother Goose and her son, Jack Bo-Beep, Old King Cole and the Queen of Hearts, who is mother to the princess who is kidnapped by the lady villain of the story. The villain hasn't even a name other than the Old Woman. The Old Woman made her home in a shoe and her children were all stolen ones whom she returned when she could get enough pay for doing so. When the Old Woman stole the Princess from her mother, the Queen of Hearts, there was a great ado about it. But the Old Woman had her and around the neck of the Princess she placed a chain and locket, then because a hard storm prevented her from getting back to her house in the shoe with the stolen child, she left the baby on the doorstep of Mother Goose, she of the big, big heart. Mother Goose took the baby and took off the locket and laid it away until the child should grow up. And Princess Hearts lived with Mother Goose for many years and learned to love Jack Goose very dearly, and all the mother's friends, Boy Blue, Jack Horner, Mary who was always contrary, and many others. And after awhile Princess Hearts grows up and Mother Goose believes it is time to give her locket to her. The Princess takes the locket and puts it around her neck and then, because she can't help it and because the locket had been bewitched years before by the Old Woman, she at once forgets all of her friends and hurries herself to the castle where she finds her dear parents, so time passes and many lovers come to see Princess Hearts but for some reason she can't explain, she is always sad. At this time comes in the part of the story that makes for the happy ending of "living happy ever after." The King and Queen of Hearts issue a proclamation offering the Princess' hand in marriage and half this kingdom to whomsoever is able to make her smile. Then again enters Jack Goose upon the scene ambitious for his love and happiness and he persuades the Princess to remove her locket. That has the desired effect for she then remembers all that had happened before she put it on. Thus everything ends as it should.

The music for the story was written by Jesse L. Gaynor with whom Mrs. Reynolds, who is putting on the operetta here, has long been associated. Fort Wayne is giving of her best talent for the production and there are to be a number of the city's favorite singers and dancers who will be heard and seen in tuneful songs and pretty dances. The entire production is under the management of Mrs. Hortense Reynolds, who has had years of experience in the direction of giving operettas and children's entertainments. Mrs. Reynolds directed the choir of an Episcopal church, in St. Paul, Minn., for a number of years and for a good while she was director of music in the Des Moines, Ia., public schools. For the last nine years Mrs. Reynolds has been associated with Jessie L. Gaynor, the famous writer of songs for children.

It has been a tremendous amount of work to get the plan for giving this entertainment to go. Of the workers, Mrs. B. H. Hudson is the chairman and to her untiring efforts and with the assistance of her committees, everything is now moving swiftly. The sudden illness of Mrs. Harry Hogan, who was to take the role of the Princess, was a damper to the spirits of the promoters, but Mrs. Reynolds was able to suggest Mrs. Lincoln Dickey for the role, and she consented to sing it. Mrs. Dickey has already appeared in other cities in this role so it is familiar to her. Mrs. Dickey has a beautiful voice. The operetta will be given in the Majestic theater soon after Easter.

ROBERT MANTEL AT MAJESTIC.

Finished Acting and Beautiful Settings With Splendid Support.

Robert Mantel opened a two days' engagement at the Majestic theater on Friday night, in "The Merchant of Venice," with a splendid company and with beautiful costuming and stage equipment. Mr. Mantel's Shylock is a great delineation of character, enlisting the sympathy of the audience without palliating the Jew's desire for revenge or adoration of his ducats. Miss Genevieve Hamper, the leading lady, is a beautiful and refined young woman who has the intelligence and ability to act the role of Portia without a flaw. The entire company is an excellent one and the noble lines of the great poet are read with discriminating judgment and with admirable dictation. The company gives "Macbeth" this evening and the performance should have a large audience. Mr. Mantel was called before the footlights again and again last evening, his superb work being well recognized and appreciated by the audience.

WITH THE STUDY CLUBS.

The Bay View Study club will meet on Tuesday with Mrs. George Henry, 1808 Spy Run avenue. The class will continue its study of Milton and there will be readings from "Paradise Lost."

The South Side Reading club is a recently formed organization in study club circles. Mrs. G. F. Wise, of Holton avenue, will be the hostess. A paper on the political history of Indiana will ber ead by Mrs. George Feustal. Mrs. Ed Meyers will lead the discussion. The club numbers twenty members.

There will be a meeting of the Shakespeare club Monday with Mrs. William Hackney. Russia will be the study topic of the club, though the present conditions in that country will likely be considered rather than its former government, the subject designated.

The annual meeting of the Duodecnual meeting on Monday with Mrs. Corey.

The Current Literature club will meet on Tuesday with Mrs. Hadley, Mrs. Burch and Mrs. Ransom as hosts. Great pictures in America is the subject to be considered.

The annual meeting of the Duodeimo club will be held with Mrs. C. C. Schlatter, with Mrs. O. E. Richard as assisting hostess, on Wednesday afternoon.

The Thursday Afternoon Shakespeare club will meet the coming week with Mrs. Van Arnum. Miss Helen O'Rourke will read a paper on "The Ring of the Nibelung."

The Twentieth Century club has a meeting scheduled for Thursday afternoon. The social standing of women in South America and in Mexico will be discussed by Mrs. Hartt and Mrs. Ford. Mrs. W. W. Knight will be the hostess at her home, 326 Brackenridge street.

A postponed meeting of the Morning Musical society will be held next Friday morning in Elks' hall. Miss Ethel Doud, Miss Edith Geake, Mrs. S. L. Morris, jr., and Mrs. F. E. Stouder have the program in charge.

DECATUR NEWS.

Decatur, Ind., March 24.—Clara Eloise is the name of the girl baby born to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Leonard.

The burial of John Barrone, who died March 26 and whose body was placed in the vault in Maplewood cemetery until the return of a daughter, Mrs. Emil Cappaert, from a Fort Wayne hospital, will be held Sunday afternoon.

County Recorder Aaron C. Augsburger left this morning for Elida, Ohio, where he was called by the death of his brother's wife, Mrs. D. C. Augsburger.

John R. Parrish and W. F. Beery were appointed by the school board to take the school census.

Samuel Bailer had his right wrist broken when he cranked his automobile.

Ida Liby and Frances Heller returned to Monroe after a stay at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Simon Moore, who was operated upon at the hospital in Fort Wayne Tuesday, her condition being serious.

The J. S. Bowers family and Miss Alma Bowers were at Kendallville, where they attended a banquet and reception given by the Oak club, where Ralph Wilks announced his engagement to Miss Gladys Bowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Bowers, of this city.

Mrs. J. C. Polhemus arrived from Upper Sandusky, Ohio, for a visit with her mother, Mrs. E. Woods.

C. L. Meibers and family will probably move to Fort Wayne during April. Mr. Meibers is a motorman on the Decatur-Fort Wayne interurban and when the schedule is changed in the near future will have his headquarters in Fort Wayne to be able to leave on the early morning trip south.

Mrs. Drayton Hill and daughter, Mrs. John Scheumann, and children have gone to Grabill to visit with relatives over Sunday.

Mrs. B. E. VanCamp went to Geneva to visit with a daughter, Mrs. W. H. Wheeler, and from there will go to Vera Cruz to visit with relatives.

Mrs. Ferdinand Bleeke received word from Miss Blanche Harshbarger, a nurse well known here, of the death of her mother, Mrs. Milo Harshbarger, of near Columbia City.

Miss Margaret Moran went to Fort Wayne for a visit over the week-end.

Men who want the Best Clothes for a reasonable price must go to PATTERSON-FLETCHER CO.

Reserve your table at the Anthony hotel tonight; dancing and music.

At the annual school shrub and seed sale last week orders were given to the amount of $25.72. It looks as though the boys and girls of South Wayne were going to do their part to beautify their homes and have fresh vegetables for their tables.

Our school received next to the highest mark in the city in writing last term. O. L. Rogers, supervisor of penmanship, graded the papers.

The teachers of our school have asked the pupils to collect newspapers and magazines for two weeks. The papers are to be sold and the money used to buy a first aid medicine and surgical cabinet for the school. Yes, we believe in preparedness; the kind that helps to relieve pain and suffering.

Very soon we will miss James Stephen and Mary Hillis Miles, as they are going to the country. Mr. E. E. Miles has bought Mr. W. A. Johnson's farm of fourteen acres and will take his family there to live.

An evening meeting was held by the parent-teacher club in the auditorium of our school on March 16, 1917, 8 p. m. Mr. H. H. Rogers gave a talk on eyes. The auditorium was decorated with flags. The audience sang patriotic songs, "America," "Star Spangeled Banner" and "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean." Miss Jacobs accompanied on the piano.

There will be a bird talk at the public library by Miss Margaret Hanna, April 7, at 10 a. m. She will imitate all the calls of the birds.

In all the rooms in our school we are learning the flag salute.

HAMILTON SCHOOL.

(Neva Davis and Malcolm O'Day, Editors.)

7A-6B Grades.

Two new grades were opened at the Hamilton school at the beginning of the February term, the 7B and the kindergarten.

The kindergarten is prettily decorated and a pleasant, sunny room. The number of pupils is forty-two. Perhaps more will come soon.

Beautiful American flags have been purchased by the 7B, 6A and 6AB grades.

6AB Grades.

The 6AB ranked 56.4 per cent first class writers for February. This entitles us to the penmanship pennant for the next month.

Robert Crosby expects to move to Seattle, Wash., Wednesday. We will miss him very much.

We have just finished reading a book called "Sure Pop and the Safety Scouts." We think that the book has taught each of us a lesson in "Safety First."

5A Grade.

Irene Cheer is going to Toronto, Canada, the last of this month.

The average of our spelling last week was 87 per cent. We have a spelling contest each week to see which rooms are the highest. Neither Miss Winters nor any of us were satisfied with our mark, so we decided to do something to better it. We selected a committee with Paul Agnew as chairman. He chose Irene Cheer, Marjorie Gessler, Margaret Lamb, Lana Schaaf, Dorothy Bennet and Miller to help him. The work of these pupils is to help the weaker ones and raise our grade. So far we have gone from 87 to 98 per cent. This committee will look after the spelling for the rest of the term.

4A 5B Grades.

While studying the salmon industry in Alaska, the following question arose: "Why is a piece of tin usually found in salmon cans?" As there were many and various answers, the class decided to write to different canning companies for information. The following letter is one which was sent to the Alaska Packing association in California:

Alaska Packing Association, San Fransico, California.

Dear Sirs:—A few days ago in our geography lesson we were talking about salmon canning. The following question was asked, "Why is there a little piece of tin in every salmon can?" We asked out fathers and mothers and other people that we thought would know something about it. They all gave us different answers so we thought we would write to you and find out the real reason. We shall thank you very much if you will please write and give us some information on this question.

Respectfully yours,
IRA L. BROWN.

The class was more than pleased to receive the following reply together with an interesting pamphlet on "Salmon Canning."

IRA L. BROWN,
3632 S. Barr Street,
Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Dear Sir:—

Replying to your letter of January 30, 1917: The small piece of tin in soldered salmon cans is placed there to keep the vent in the center of the top clear of fish to enable the air to escape from the can when going through the hot solder bath. The heat of the melted solder causes the air in the cans to expand and if this vent was not kept open, the can could not be properly closed as the expanding air would blow through the solder and cause a leak.

This was customary in what are now called the "old style" or "soldered" cans. Most all salmon, and practically all other hermetically sealed canned goods, are now packed in a double seamed or so-called "sanitary can"—a can on which no solder is used for sealing the ends, closure being made by turning the tin in a double seam and rolling it tight.

In processing these cans, the can is pre-heated to expel the air and the top afterwards double seamed on.

We are sending you a copy of a booklet "Interesting Facts About Canned Salmon," which was printed in 1908, but the article "The Process of Canning Salmon" may interest you.

Yours very truly,
ALASKA PACKERS ASSOCIATION.

4A Grade.

The Portable Opera Company.

The pupils in charge of the opening exercises of the 4A grade this week have been giving very good plays. The one we have enjoyed most is Cinderella.

The characters were:
Cinderella, Virginia Bleck.
Prince, Richard Van Etta.
First Sister, Veda Stevens.
Second Sister, Virginia Hebert.
Fairy God Mother, Mabel Spath.
King, Albert Millhouse.
Minister, Charles Brubaker.

The minister made everyone laugh so much that he almost broke up the play when he married Cinderella to the prince. He opened a book and we all thought he was going to read the marriage service, but instead he read, "After four days and nights of exposure both of them froze in the middle of the sea."

4B Grade.

Our Portable.

We had a little portable;
Its name was Woody Brown.
We lent it to some friends of ours,
Who live in Lakeside town.
The carpenters did come
With saws and hammers large.
They pounded it;
They broke it;
They hauled it through the streets.
So you see, we wouldn't lend our portable now
For any kind of feat.

3A Grade.

We have two spelling pennants in our school; one for the upper and one for the lower grades.

The class which has the highest average in spelling for the week is given the pennant. We are very proud to think that we have had the pennant every week this term, but one.

The boys and girls in our class are racing for the most hundreds and so far the boys have had the highest score.

We are working very hard with our reading, trying for "the praise card" to be given by Miss Calmerton to the best readers in 3A classes throughout the city.

3B GRADE.

The Room of Smiles.

Do you like to see people smile? Of course you do. We like to see people smile, too, because it makes us happy. We called our room "the room of smiles" because we try to keep smiling all the time. In our room, if any children look cross, we smile and smile until we make them smile. If anyone smiles at us, we smile back.

We have our boards decorated to help us remember to smile. We have two little verses. They are:

"Smile, smile, all the while,
Sweet contentment show;
Keep a sunny face,
Everywhere you go."

The other one is:

"Smile!"

Perhaps there may be a better cure than a smile, but there's no cheaper one. Then, too, we have a calendar of bluebirds, with borders to match. Bluebirds stand for happiness. We think happiness and smiles go together. What do you think?

BUTLER NEWS.

Butler, Ind., March 23.—Mr. and J. W. Lamm left Saturday morning for Danville, Ill., where they were called by the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. S. Q. Lamm, who is suffering with pneumonia.

Mrs. Cyrus Ollinger, of Auburn, came to Butler Friday to visit her daughters, Mrs. O. A. Clay and Mrs. Frank Gregg and families.

Mrs. Edgar Squires and granddaughter, returned home from Waterloo, after a short visit with her sister, Mrs. Miles Hallett.

Mrs. Levy Nelson spent the day at Waterloo with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Clarence Nelson.

Mrs. George Campbell returned from Waterloo where she visited her sister, Mrs. Delbert Crooks.

Mrs. D. McDonold and Mrs. Wilbur McCann, returned home from Kendallville where they went to see the later's husband who is a patient in the Lakeside hospital. He had his leg broken last Wednesday while working on the section helping to clear the wreckage from the New York Central lines near Waterloo.

Mrs. Thomas Rudd, of Auburn, came to Butler Friday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Charles Potter a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Rudd are preparing to move to Butler in a few weeks.

Miss Dorothy Torrence, of Bimidji, Minn., who is a student at Oberlin college, is expected in Butler in a few days to visit her grandmother, Mrs. W. C. Webster.

Attorney F. H. Ritter and wife took their baby to Fort Wayne the first of the week and Dr. Bulson removed a penny from the child's throat.

The members of the Butler High School alumni will meet at the Butler public library Thursday night, March 29, at 8 o'clock, to make arrangements for their annual meeting and banquet.

Mrs. Nellie Yarlott, who is spending the week in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Huntington, reports her mother improving from her recent illness.

Charles Ordway, of West Franklin, is moving from the Taylor farm to a farm east of Butler.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Bert Huntington, of Constantine, Mich., March 8, a little daughter.

Rev. John Imhoff is home from the west visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Imhoff, in Franklin township.

Beginning April 1, Butler will have free city delivery of mail. Luther Bryant and Charles Oberlin have been selected for this work. Their new uniforms are on exhibition at the William Knisely & Sons store window, on Broadway.

Attorney F. A. Brink has moved his office into the rooms formerly occupied by Dr. Foutz, just above the Home bakery. The rooms formerly occupied by Attorney Brink will be remodeled and used by the Mountz bakery firm.

D. H. Knisely is packing his household goods and preparing to move into the rooms now occupied by Miss Ellen Rook. Repairs will be made on these apartments. Mr. Knisely has sold his home on West Main street to Daniel Brown, of near Butler, and Mr. Brown expects to move to Butler about the first of April.

The Butler postoffice is undergoing some changes and repairs. New desks are being added to accommodate the new carriers, and the boxes will be moved out farther into the main building.

The business men of Butler gave a lunch at the Hotel Butler Friday night in connection with the community institute which is in progress this week.

STUDENTS DROP FINAL TO PENNVILLE OUTFIT

Season is Closed With a Defeat for High School Team.

Following the successful spurt made lately the Fort Wayne high basketball team suffered a defeat at the hands of Pennville high last night by a score of 33 to 24. Inability to locate the cages defeated the Fort Wayne team in the second meeting betwen the two schools. The Pennville floor is much larger than that used by the locals and detracted from the team play considerably.

In the opinion of Coach Wright of Fort Wayne the Pennsville team was considerably strengthened in comparison to their playing here in January. They were at home on the large floor and were able to work the floor to a decided advantage.

The line-ups and scores:

Fort Wayne.		Pennville

Invention of Spirit Influence Causes Legal Fight Between Father and Son.

Machine materialized under direction of spirit influence, according to its inventors—Dr. Sarah K. Greene, the medium who says she received spirit communications explaining the details of the Invention—E. H. Alvord, who went to court against his father as a result of the ghost-made contrivance.

Settle, Wash., Mar. 23—Advice from the "spirit world" by a German professor who died 400 years ago" has left wealth, bitter dissension and law suits in its wake here.

A weirder case probably never reached the courts.

E. H. Alvord and his father, T. M. Alvord, claim to be beneficiaries of a mystic influence thru which detailed plans for an automatic wood pulp compressor were conveyed to a trance medium.

"It was the "Professor," a German pedagogist long deceased, maintains Dr. Sarah K. Greene, the medium. "I got all my information from him.I know nothing about merchanics myself."

Communicating with her by telephone, the younger Alvord claims he was able to sketch and perfect a diagram for a compressor, today a commercial success. The spirit control not only corrected mistakes and offered suggestions in constructing the contrivance, he said, but also in marketing the patent.

It was at this stage that the "Professor" brought a peck of trouble into the mundane sphere for those upon whom he bestowed his genius.

According to court testimony, the ethereal inventor persuaded the elder Alvord to borrow $4,700 on his insurance policy to help finance the sales company. Then the son failed to issue him a promised amount of stock in return for the loan, and the father's faith in the "Professor" dwindled almost to the vanishing point.

In court the son justified his course by saying he was implicitly following the dicates of the spirit world not to let "the old gentleman" get control of the stock.

The court ruled that Alvord, senior, had not received a square deal from the ghostly regions and ordered the son to make restitution of the $4,700, "spirits or no spirits."

The "Professor," however, has not been shooed away. In fact he's promised Alvord, junior, that he has only begun to reveal to him many mechanical wonders still to come.

"He told me," said Alvord, "that he had trained me thru my youth, and that among other inventions to come was one to harness the sun and one by which it would be possible to travel from Seattle to San Francisco in one day. I get all my ideas thru Dr. Greene who is advised by the 'Professor' while she's in a trance."

At present, however, the ideas seen to be somewhat gummed up by a very material court which places earthly square dealing above the "Professor's" astral business code.

OCEAN CURRENTS CAUSED CYCLONE

So Say Eighth Grade Pupils in Huntington County Examination.

Cyclone which nearly destroyed Newcastle, was caused by ocean currents, wrote one of the bright Eighth grade pupils, who took the Huntington county common school examination last week, according to the Huntington Press.

Other humerous answers gathered from the manuscripts follow:

Question. Write a brief biography of Benjamin Franklin.

Answer. Franklin discovered the lightning rod by seeing a kite in the air. Franklin invented the fireless cooker and sewing machine.

Q. Has the purchase of Alaska proved a wise transaction?

A. If we got into war Alaska would be a good place to shoot the ships as they go by.

Q. Who was the first governor of Indiana, civil war governor and the present governor?

A. The first governor was George Washington. The civil war governor was Abraham Lincoln. And the present governor is Woodrow Wilson. Another answered that Milton Cross is the present governor of Indiana, referring to Congressman Milton Kraus.

Q. What battle was the turning point of the civil war? Give an account of this battle.

A. You could track Lee's men by their crimson tracks in the snow. (The pupil was evidently referring to the battle of Gettysburg, which was fought on July 4.) Another replied that the turning point of the civil war was when they wouldn't trade prisoners any more.

Q. What effect do ocean currents have upon the climate of lands touched by them?

A. The cyclone that nearly destroyed Newcastle was caused by ocean currents.

Q. What is a harbor?

A. A harbor is a city or country along a large river.

Q. Give the plural of ash?

A. Cinders.

Q. Give the plural of sheep?

A. Sheap. Lambs.

Q. Give the plural of Miss Jones?

A. Mrs. Jones.

Q. Why should we eat slowly and chew the food well?

A. Chew your food good because your stomach has no teeth.

Q. Define smut?

A. Smut is a breed of ducks.

Q. A cow gives 8,500 pounds of milk in a year. If the milk tests 3.42 per cent. butterfat and the butterfat is worth 34 cents per pound, what is the income from the cow?

One boy answered: $9,883.83. Another found that the cow produced 98 cents worth of butterfat.

Q. What are joints?

A. Joints are ends of two things fastened together. Joints is where you come to the end of the bone. Joints are places where the bones can be bent without breaking.

Q. Describe the different kind of joints found in the human body.

A. Pivot joint is at the upper end of the back bone where the head sets. The pivot joint is in the neck and works just like a turret on a warship.

Q. Who is our Hoosier poet?

A. Our Hoosier poet is Dunn. He wrote a history of Indiana.

Q. What is bacteria?

A. Bacteria is gum that is in the air.

Good Old Home-Made Family Cough Remedy

Much Better than the Ready-Made Kind—Easily and Cheaply Prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you would hardly have in them all the curative power that lies in this simple "home-made" cough syrup which takes only a few minutes to prepare.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 54 cents and gives you a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and sugar syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes that line the throat, chest and bronchial tubes, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaiacol and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, be sure to ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

POLICE SEEK "TANGO PIRATE" IN HOTEL MURDER MYSTERY.

STERNBERG BEING ARRESTED AND WOMAN WHOSE BODY WAS FOUND IN HOTEL.

New York, March 24.—Who killed Mrs. Elsie Lee Hilair?

Police of New York are holding a man they charge knows something about the murder of the Brooklyn woman who gave her name as "Florence Gray, Boston," at the Hotel Martinique, and was found dead the next morning in her room, her jewels, worth $2,500, missing.

But the police are doubtful about the last few hours of her life.

Benjamin Sternberg, the man held, confesses, the police say, to having been with the murdered woman until about two hours beforer it is believed she was murdered.

He was to have gone out with her that night, he says, according to the police, but she broke the engagement when she met a tall man and left Sternberg, walking off with the new acquaintance. A search is being made for this man.

Detectives are searching the cabarets and "tango parlors" in the city, on the theory a "tango pirate" committed the murder.

Sternberg says, according to the police, he met Mrs. Hilair at a theater a week before the murder, leaving his wife and three-months-old child at home. Mrs. Hilair was with her niece, Miss Ira Murray, who says a blond-haired woman was with Sternberg.

A nod was followed by a meeting in the lobby and two appointments on other evenings, before the murder, Mrs. Sternberg says her husband pawned her large diamond ring for $200 about the same time.

The solution of the mystery, police say, will come when the missing jewels are found and the tall stranger whom Sternberg mentions, appears.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Robert Mantell Tonight in "Macbeth."

On the only broken week of time in a season of thirty-five weeks, extending from coast to coast, Mr. Robert B. Mantell, the eminent tragedian, is at the Majestic theater this evening for a nengagement, presenting the classic play "Macbeth." The performance will be presented with the same care in scenic equipment, costuming and casting as is observed when the organization plays engagements in New York, Chicago and Boston.

In selecting the repertoire for Fort Wayne the local management was careful to choose what was being studied in the public schools of the state.

Mr. Mantell's company this year represents the study and care of years on the part of William A. Brady, the manager, in the selection of the best available talent on the classic stage and among the well known names are those of Fritz Leiber, John J. Burke, Frank Peters, Guy Lindsley, Albert I. Barrett, Geoorge Wilson, John Wray, Geoorge Westlake, John Alexander, Genevieve Reynolds, Virginia Bronson, Teresa Larkin, Marion Evensen, Ethel Mantell, Lila Dell-Frost and Genevieve Hamper, the leading woman.

Rose Melville in Sis Hopkins.

Rose Melville will be seen at the Majestic next Thursday in "Sis Hopkins," a rural comedy drama of enduring fame. This play, so rich in its quaint humor, has been a source of merriment to countless thousands, and its clean and wholesome story is one of lasting appeal.

Miss Melville is making a special tour in her original characterization of Sis in the now famous rural comedy drama, "Sis Hopkins." It is quite a fact that Rose Melville and "Sis Hopkins" are almost household words.

When one stops to consider the simplicity of the story of "Sis Hopkins," its clean comedy, its pathos so deftly blended, telling in simple fashion the comedy and the tragedy in the life of a simple country girl, its purity and sweetness being presented in such a way as to teach a lesson without seeming to preach a moral; when a play continues to amuse, entertain and impress season after season there is no further proof needed that it has the intangible something that strikes the right chord, and there is little left of doubt as to its millions of stanch admirers. Of the plot of the play it is needless to speak, it has been told many times; suffice to say that it is the old, old story told in a simple fashion that one never tires of hearing, and the auditor is at once convinced of the sympathy existing between Sis and the audience, hence the continued success of charming Rose Melville and "Sis Hopkins."

AT THE PALACE.

"SUNNYSIDE OF BROADWAY."

Max Bloom's Famous Revue at the New Palace.

"The Sunnyside of Broadway," with Max Bloom and his famous horse, Becky, and a company of stars, the long looked for and widely heralded attraction for the first half of the coming week at the New Palace, is in its tenth consecutive year of record-smashing success. Of course each year a new edition of the revue is published, Mulgrew and Woolfolk having collaborated in the construction of the 1917 version. Alice Scher, of the exquisite form and elaborate wardrobe, again is the principle feminine attraction, wearing another group of stunning gowns, such as only the lovely Alice dares to don. There are six scenes in the 1917 edition closing with the Army and Navy club at Washington. These piping days of war talk are reflected in the martial setting given some of the scenes. Among the 1917 song hits are "The Girl You Ring is the Girl You Get;" "I Love an Automobile;" "The Circus Queen;" "When Uncle Sam Does the Cake Walk Down in Mexico," and others.

The Princess Kalama assisted by William Dao, will present a touch of Hawaiian revelry in song and dance as one of two special added attractions on this bill. Bill Robinson, that dark spot of joy, who has delighted New Palace audiences before, is to tell some of his funny stories and sing some of his best parodies on this bill.

Last Time for Slide.

The final opportunity to witness the sensational bill given a startling climax by the thrilling slide for life done by one of the Royal Tokio troupe, is to be afforded this evening. This slide for life is a spectacular piece of daring and acrobatic skill in which this Jap walks a tight rope out over the heads of the audience, striding up, up, up to the very peak of the balcony and then standing erect slides back to the stage like a flash. It's a thriller that would startle a war airman.

Among the other acts on this bill are the DePace opera company of six voices in popular operatic selections; James Thompson, the black face comedian and company in "An Affair of Honor;" William Armstrong assisted by Maude Smith, in the skit, "The Baggageman;" Cook and Lorenz, and Orville Stamm, the prodigiously powerful Boy Hercules.

PREPARING TO GO INTO NEW HOME

Punch Press Department of General Electric Moves Next Week.

Next Monday the work of moving the punch press department, of which Joseph Schwarzkopf is the foreman, from its present quarters in the old factory building at the General Electric works to the first floor of the big new factory building on Wall street, No. 26, will commence. It is proposed to move the heavy machinery, which has individual motors, first and put them in operation just as soon as the transfer can be effected, and follow up with the smaller machines. There are forty of these big individual motor-driven machines and possibly sixty of the machines which will be driven by line shafts. This will be the heaviest move made yet in the transfer of the departments at the General Electric works. The department has about 150 men at present, but will have many more when the facilities for handling them are provided. It could not be learned what department will go into the vacated rooms in the old factory building.

FIFTY YEARS IN CAB.

Wabash Engineer M. Maloney Completes Half Century.

Michael Maloney, the engineer on Wabash local freight trains 72 and 73, between Fort Wayne and Peru, rounded out the fiftieth year of his service in the cab last Wednesday. He was a passenger engineer prior to the St. Louis World's Fair, in 1904, but because of advancing years he requested an easier run and he was given the Fort Wayne-Peru local freight, one of the most deesirable runs on the Peru division. He resides in Peru and is at home all days Sundays and on alternate nights during the week. Concerning him the Peru Chronicle says: "Mr. Maloney is rather modest about his self-accomplishments and it is only through hard pressure that he speaks of his career. His fellow-workmen recall that to their memory he has not met with an accident of any importance during his long period of service. Practically all his railway life has been put in on the Wabash, he beginning as fireman and working himself up to the best run on the road. He has three sons, all engaged in service on the Wabash out of Peru. The eldest, George, is running a locomotive. The second son, William, is an extra freight conductor, and the third son, Frank, is a bold and fearless brakeman. Mr. Maloney is one of the most popular men on the Wabash, not only among the employes, but among officials, and he bids fair to round out many more years of service before giving up the throttle."

THE F. C. HOY FUNERAL.

The funeral of Brakeman Frank C. Hoy, of the G. R. & I., who lost his life in an accident at Portland Friday morning, will be held Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock from the house, 920 Lake avenue, and at 10 o'clock from the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, where a requiem mass will be celebrated. The interment will be in the Catholic cemetery. Those who survive are his widow, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoy, ten brothers, Joseph, Alvin, Arthur, Alfred, Robert, Walter, Harry, William and Charles Hoy, of Muncie; also one sister, Miss Mary Hoy, 1118 Lake avenue.

OUTLIVED THEIR USEFULNESS.

Two engines, 9235 D-10-A pattern, and 7247, of the H-2 type, a switch engine, were "scrapped" at the Pennsylvania erecting shop during the week ending today, they having outlived their usefulness. Two Grand Rapids engines, Nos. 101 and 102, figured in the output of generally repaired locomotives at the erecting shop this week. Pennsylvania engines repaired were Nos. 7238, 7459, 7499, 9013, 9089, 9935 and 9949. There are a number of engines awaiting to get into the shops for general repairs, and there is lots of work ahead for the shopmen.

SHOPMEN HAVE STAG PARTY.

A few of the comrades of Charles D. Laubscher, in the toolroom at the Pennsylvania shops, enjoyed his hospitality at a surprise party last night and at the same time presented him with a handsome chair as a token of the esteem entertained for him. Yesterday was Mr. Laubscher's thirty-first birth anniversary. Among the guests were T. J. Erington, Archibald Cassel and Russell Arter. Mr. Laubscher resides at 2027 Hanna street.

WERE TWELVE IN THE CLASS.

Twelve young fellows aspire to positions as apprentices at the Pennsylvania shops, as indicated by the number who appeared at the piece work department office this afternoon for examination. L. S. Trachsel, foreman of the department, who was to make the examinations, is east on important business for the company and the examinations were made by George Zimmer, of that department.

F. E. MORE TO SANITARIUM.

After a visit of three or four days with his family, Frank E. More has returned to the sanitarium at Cincinnati to resume treatment at the hands of Dr. Reid. Mr. More has been taking treatment for nearly three months and, while he is improving, the progress is slow. He is an assistant road foreman of engines of the Pennsylvania.

ALBERT TIEMANN RETURNS.

Boilermaker A. E. Tiemann, of the Pennsylvania, has returned to the city from Philadelphia, where he inspected locomotive construction work for the company. He was there about ten months, but will not return unless the company places another order for engines with the Baldwin company. Mr. Tiemann expects to resume his old position in the boiler shop Monday.

HOMER MOSES WITH BOWSER.

Homer P. Moses, who spent the winter at Flint, Mich., has returned to Fort Wayne and will take an important position with S. F. Bowser & Company, Monday. Before going to Flint, Mr. Moses was employed as a salesman by L. F. Curdes, the real estate man. Mr. Moses resides at 819 Columbia avenue.

MOVING IN NEW HOME.

Machinist C. W. Berning, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, who has just completed a handsome dwelling at 115 Lexington avenue, has taken a lay off from the shop to assist the family in moving into the new home. It is said to be one of the prettiest cottages on that street.

WILL BE RUSHED THROUGH.

The work of weighing the mails carried by the railways of the country, which will begin next Tuesday, will not consume the customary 105 days. Instead it will be rushed to a finish in thirty-five days. The mails were weighed four years ago, and at that time 105 days were devoted to it.

TELEGRAPH LINES REPAIRED.

The G. R. & I. has completed repairs to its telegraph line which was damaged by the storm yesterday afternoon. Three poles, with their wires, about 500 feet, were prostrated between Decatur and Hoagland, at 2:55 o'clock.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

E. Strahl is a new man at the Pennsylvania machine shop.

Boilermaker J. L. Miller, of the Pennsylvania shops, is sick and off duty.

A. Wolf, of New Haven, has taken employment in the Pennsylvania power plant.

Erwin H. Fritz and George Scheizinger, of the Pennsylvania, will visit in Chicago tomorrow.

Pennsylvania Fireman E. C. Murray has recovered from an illness and resumed his duties on the road.

The Wabash wage checks were distributed among the yardmen, the office force and the shopmen today.

Arthur Stemlar is at work again in the Pennsylvania tin shop, after a sojourn of several weeks in Oklahoma.

A Kelly automatic printing press has been added to the equipment in Pittsburg district for S. F. Bowser & Co.

D. E. Guy, chief clerk of the Wabash division storekeeper's office, was in Detroit yesterday on business for the department.

C. E. Meyers, apprentice in the Pennsylvania erecting shop, has gone to Bucyrus, Ohio, for an over Sunday visit.

New employes in the office department of S. F. Bowser & Co. are the Misses Lucile Alleman and Ercie Owen and H. P. Moses

Cecil Vaughn, clerk to Master Carpenter D. C. Zook, of the Pennsylvania, was at Upper Sandusky, Ohio, yesterday checking up some material.

Foreman Joseph Romary, of the labor department at the Pennsylvania machine shop, is off duty on account of sickness.

C. R. Branson, who was sick a week or more with the grip, resumed his duties in the Pennsylvania motive power offices this morning.

Miss Florence Pack, local representative of the Ice Machine company, has gone to the home office in New York on business connected with her duties.

F. H. Lauer, Pennsylvania painter, is off duty on account of the funeral of his uncle. J. C. Vorndran, of the same department, is off looking after private business.

E. L. Milliron, a salesman in the iPttsburg district for S. F. Bowser & Co., has been in the city a few days, consulting the officials on matters connected with his duties.

F. A. Weiss, a painter at the Pennsylvania shops, went to Chicago this morning on business connected with his naturalization papers. He wants to be an American citizen.

A. J. Sewing, general storekeeper of the Wabash, with headquarters in St. Louis, was here this morning on business with Division Storekeeper G. T. Owen.

Miss Mary Leonard, who attended the funeral of her uncle at Paulding, has returned to her duties in the billing department of the General Electric works. She is a stenographer.

Frank Dale, who had been off duty several days because of the serious illness of his baby, who has greatly improved, resumed his duties in the store room at the Wabash shops this morning.

A. Cox and H. F. Hess, helpers at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, resigned their positions today. Mr. Hess is a house builder by trade and it is said he will resume that business at his former home in Avilla this spring.

Machinist John Raidy, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, is sick and off duty. F. T. Davis, of the same shop, is disabled by an injured eye, a piece of metal lodging in the optic yesterday.

Foreman Harry Emmerson, of the lathe department of the Pennsylvania machine shop, with Mrs. Emmerson and their two boys went to Chicago this morning to spend the day with friends.

Mrs. Kate Barthold, who spent the winter months with Fred C. Schultz, her brother, and other relatives in this city and county, is making preparations to return to her home in California in a week or two.

Engineer D. D. Miller reported for work on the Pennsylvania this morning. He returned from the east yesterday, having been there as the representative of the Pennsylvania brotherhood of firemen at the wage conferences.

Kenneth Gnagy, an inspector at the General Electric works, left for Hamilton lake today to spend Sunday with his wife. He expects to bring his family here to reside as soon as he can secure desirable accommodations for housekeeping.

Blacksmith J. C. Doehrman resumed work at the Pennsylvania round house this morning after an illness of a few days. William Wartenbee, who had charge of the round house blacksmith department, has returned to his old position in the down town shops.

F. O. Sallee is assistant to A. S. Bowser, head of the Michigan office of S. F. Bowser & Co. He was formerly assistant manager of the Louisville office. Another new man at the local plant is W. B. Barks, who has taken a position as artist in the printing department.

All of the division storekeepers of the Pennsylvania Northwest system have been summoned to this city for a conference on matters connected with their work. The meeting, which will begin Monday morning, is not expected to continue over one day. C. P. Cherry, material inspector of the system, will preside at it.

Lieutenant E. S. Alexander, of the Pennsylvania police department, headquarters at Dunkirk, Ohio, has resumed his duties, after spending two or three weeks at the sanitarium at Martinsville for treatment for rheumatism. He was completely relieved of the malady. Lieutenant Alexander has just completed a trip over the division with the Pennsylvania pay car.

Russ. Harruff, assistant foreman of the testing department of the General Electric works, accompanied by his wife and son, Russell, jr., went to Decatur this afternoon to spend Sunday with his mother and other relatives. Mrs. L. E. Beard, of Fremont, Mich., sister of Mr. Harruff, who came here yesterday, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Harruff to Decatur and will remain there several days.

Handsomely bound and printed booklets containing the names of the members of the General Electric Quarter Century club, a brief sketch of the association and its aims and extracts from the speeches made at some of the banquets, were distributed among the forty members of the club in Fort Wayne yesterday. The club now has a total membership of 892, according to the list given in the book.

Miss Bessie Maxwell, who retires next week from a clerical position in the meter department of the General Electric works, to become a bride, was the recipient of a number of presents and a large and beautiful bouquet of roses from her associates this morning. Miss Maxwell is a favorite with her companions at the works and much interest is being displayed in the coming wedding. She has worked for Roy Knoll, the foreman of the department, for some time.

NEW WORLD'S MARK IN BOWLING MEET

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 24.—A new world's record in the doubles was made at the American Bowling Congress tournament here today by Gus Satorius and William Hokschuh, of Peoria, Ill. Their score was 1,346.

McCaughan and Peachey, of Indianapolis, recently made a record for the bowling congress when they turned in a score of 1,314. The former tournament record for all classes of competition was 1,343. It was scored at Chicago recently by the Berndach brothers, who were competing at the Knight of Columbus tournament. Each of the Peoria stars had one error today. Satorius had a total of 688 and his scores were 254, 214 and 220. His teammate bowled 186, 237 and 235.

RAE TANZER JURY FAILS.

New York, March 24.—The federal jury trying Rae Tanzer, accused of perjury in her breach of promise suit against former Assistant District Attorney James W. Osborne, was unable to reach a verdict after deliberating sixty-seven hours and was today discharged by Judge Van Fleet. Another trial will be necessary.

The alleged perjury was committed at the trial of Franklin D. Safford, a hotel clerk, who at the time Rae Tanzer brought her suit identified James W. Osborne as "Oliver Osborne," which was the name signed by a man who accompanied Miss Tanzer to the hotel.

FLOOD OF DRAFTS TO EL PASO.

El Paso, Tex., March 24.—Payment of large sums of money to Germans on drafts from New York, received by the local banks, continued here today. This money, in the form of American gold, is being taken to Juarez, according to government agents. One draft received today from New York was exchanged for $6,000 in bold. More than twenty other drafts were said to have been paid to Germans by local bankers during the past week.

NEW STATE FIRE MARSHAL.

Indianapolis, March 24.—H. H. Frieedley, of this city, has been appointed state fire marshal by Governor Goodrich to succeed William E. Longley on April 1. The salary is $4,000 a year. Friedley has been in the insurance business.

Fred Brandt celebrated his seventy-second birthday by giving a dinner for a number of relatives.

WEATHER FOR THE COMING WEEK

Washington, D. C., March 24.—Weather predictions for the week beginning Sunday, issued by the weather bureau today, are:

Ohio Valley and Great Lakes Region—Fair weather and moderate temperature until Wednesday or Thursday, when weather will become unsettled with probably rain and be followed by considerably colder temperature.

CENSORSHIP OF WAR NEWS FOR PRESS PUT ON

Washington, March 24.—Regulations for the guidance of the press of the Uinted States in handling news in the presence emergency, framed by officials of the state, war and nevy departments and approved by representatives of the principal associations, were made public today. The regulations are as follows:

In view of the desire of the press of the country to refrain from the publication of information harmful to the public interest and with the intent of securing the maximum publicity with the least injury thereto, the following regulations are hereby issued for its guidance, which it i searnestly required be closely observed.

Regulations: 1.—No information, reports or rumors should be published which tend to disclose the military and naval policies of the government of the United States. This regulation is directed against the publication of any news or comment which might reveal the strategic disposition or operation of armies or their sub-divisions or the fleet or its sub-divisions; any measures which might be adopted in consonance with the department of state, for the furtherance of American defense and, in general, any plans for the use of the army and navy during the existence of a national emergency.

2—No information, reports or rumors should be published which tend to disclose :(a) movements or employment of armies and their subdivisions, fleets and their subdivisions. (b) Movements of vessels of the navy or their arrival or departure from any port. (c) Departures of merchant vessels should not be mentioned and it is desired that the name of the port of arrival be omitted. (d) Assignment or movement, whether as groups or individuals, of officers and men of the military and naval establishments. (e) Transportation of mails, supplies or munitions. (f) Information of any designs, inventions or test thereof; or of manufacture transport or distribution of implements of war. (g) Concentration of military or naval supplies or location of such supplies. (h) Activities in or about arsenals, fortifications, army posts, naval magazines, navy yards, naval bases and radio stations.

3—Publication of maps, diagrams or photographs which in any way might seem of military or naval value.

4. No moving pictures should be displayed which are of military or naval value.

5. Any doubtful matter should be submitted to the authorized representatives of the department concerned who shall give an immediate decision thereon and keep the inquiry made strictly confidential.

6. It is requested that no information, reports, or rumors attributing a policy to the government in any international situation not authorized by the president or a member of the cabinet be published without first consulting the department of state.

Note—The above regulations shall not be enforced in any matters officially given to the press by properly authorized officials.

RUSSIA GLOWS IN FELLOWSHIP WITH AMERICA

Petrograd, March 24.—Warm appreciation of the cordial feeling shown by the people and government of the United States toward the new regime in Russia was expressed today by Froeign Secretary Milukoff in a statement to the Associated Press.

"The old degime was a heavy drag, not only on Russia's relations with her allies, but on all foreign relations," he said. "Thousands of telegrams of congratulations and good wishes are coming from the United States, not to speak of the formal recognition of the provisional government by the Washington government. This has served to show that it is only the old regime which has been standing for a long time in the way of entire solidarity between the United States and Russia."

Prof. Milukoff emphasized particularly his satisfaction at the attitude of the American ambassador, David Francis, toward the political change in Russia.

"There is no doubt," he continued, "that the addition of Russia to the ranks of the modern democratic countries will strengthen the adhesion of the United States to the case of the allies. Free countries may have confidence in Russia, especially as we now find all free countries allied for the same aims."

RAIDER MOEWE CARRIES 600 INTO GERMANY

Copenhagen, Friday, March 23.—Via London, March 24.—The return of the German raider Moewe to a German port having on board about 600 sailors, the crews of merchantmen captured during the last part of the cruise, may give rise to a new Yarrowdale case, as it is probable a number of Americans who were serving on armed merchantmen, were captured by the raider. According to the German rule, such men would be treated as prisoners of war. Among the British steamers destroyed after the Yarrowdale was sent to Germany, the Governor, 5,504 tons gross; Demerton, 6,408 tons; Otaki, 9,575 tons, and Brecknockshire, are specifically mentioned in the official account of the Moewe's return as having been armed.

ONE AMERICAN ABOARD.

Washington, March 24.—Sinking of the Norwegian steamer Ronald, with one American on board, by a German submarine, was reported to the state department today by Ambassador Sharp at Paris. The vessel was warned and there were no casualties.

ST. PETER'S GIRLS WIN.

The St. Peter's eighth grade girls' team won from St. Paul's Lutheran eighth graders by a score of 25 to 0. This was the last game of the season for the St. Peter's team, which has lost but one game during the entire season.

BANK DYNAMITERS START SERIOUS FIRE

Brazil, Ind., March 24.—The state bank of Carbon, Ind., six miles north of here, was dynamited and badly damaged by fire which followed early today, when robbers attempted to break into the safe.

The robbers first stole three mattresses from a furniture store and bound them about the safe to deaden the sound of the blast. The safe door held and the mattresses took fire. The robbers then stole an automobile belonging to Charles Mooney and escaped. They were traced as far as Rosedale, where the trail was lost. No one heard the blast, and when the fire was discovered the interior of the bank was in flames, the fixtures and furniture being destroyed and the concrete blocks of the structure cracked and bulging. The damage is estimated at about $2,000, covered by insurance.

Monarchs no longer ride forth crowned in battle as did Richard III to his fatal fight on Bosworth field. Nevertheless, even today crowns figure in the spectacular side of war more often than is commonly supposed. The king of Italy, for instance, although he does not, of course, always wear it, carries his crown with him wherever he goes, and frequently dons it when he reviews his troops.

The Greatest Time and Money Saver

We think of railroads, telephones, the telegraph, the wireless,—but how about WANT ADS?

They are in the same class. It used to be when a man wanted help he had to ask among his friends where he could get a good stenographer, bookkeeper, etc. Today he puts in a WANT AD and tomorrow he has only to choose from a dozen or more.

He has furniture to sell—a WANT AD brings many buyers.

He has a house to rent—a WANT AD rents it—he has a house to sell—a WANT AD sells it.

They're a great convenience, aren't they?

WOMAN GOT HIM INTO ALL COURT TROUBLES

Says Al Gaines, Who Got 90 Days at County Farm for Child Neglect.

"This here woman," said Allen Gaines, colored, referring to his former wife, "is the person who has got me into all this trouble. I have lived in Fort Wayne for fifteen years and you can't find a person who will tell you that Al Gaines is not a person who pays all his debts as soon as he can. I want to take care of my children because I love them just as any father would." He told this between sobs, and after he had heard his sentence he began anew.

After hearing the evidence Judge Eggeman said that as long as he was sitting on the bench no person could bring children to this world and not take care of them. In summing up the evidence the judge said that during the year 1916 he had only paid $53 towards the support of his three small children. One of Gaines' sons was sent to the house of correction a few months ago.

The judge fined him one dollar and sent him to the county farm for ninety days. Twenty dollars a month of the wages which he makes at this institution will be given to the children for their support.

MORTGAGE REDEMPTION.

Lady Applies for Exemption Certificate, But Misnames It.

A lady applied at the county auditor's office Friday afternoon and asked for a mortgage redemption. She wanted a mortgage exemption, but misnamed it. Property owners who have a mortgage on the property are coming into the offices thick and fast filling out the necessary papers. Friday afternoon in the auditor's office over 150 certificates were made out. The rush continued Saturday morning and afternoon.

MUST BUILD OWN DRIVEWAY.

Farmers Must Not Obstruct Waterways in Building Approaches.

County and township highway superintendents have been troubled during the past few weeks with farmers who have asked that the county or township pay for the cost of building approaches and driveways to the county highways. The officials state that according to section 22 of the last road bill passed by the state legislature farmers must pay for and build their own approaches to highways and must also be careful not to obstruct the waterways in doing so. A heavy fine can be imposed for violation of this law.

FURNISHES $1,000 BOND.

Nora Keefer Promises to Abate Nuisance in Bloomingdale House.

Nora Keefer, who was found guilty of maintaining a nuisance in Bloomingdale, posted a bond of $1,000 with the county clerk Saturday morning. She has been instructeed that if she is found guilty within the next year of maintaining a nuisance at this property the bond will be declared forfeited. She was given a month's time either to sell the property or to post a bond. She chose the latter.

PLAN RECREATION FOR OLD AND YOUNG

Arrange for Five Tennis Courts in Enlarged Weisser Park Area.

Rollicking play for laughing children, active recreation for young men and women, fine amusement and shady rest for housewives and elderly folks is the aim of park officials, who are planning the arrangement of the enlarged Weisser park, in the southeast part of the city. There will be five tennis courts, two base ball diamonds, slides, swings and many comfortable benches on the twenty acres of land now owned by the city.

Houses along Eckart street, which strip was purchased for the park use, will be sold by park commissioners on April 15. The houses will be removed and battery of tennis courts and a juvenile ball diamond will occupy the site.

In center of the park tract will stand the proposed refractory with a large open balcony as its second floor. Large sand box will be installed and tables for picnic parties.

Weisser park, standing in the center of an industrial district, is considered the "home park" of the city. More women and children spend their summer afternoons in the cool shade of its sylvan oak grove than in any other park in the city, it is claimed.

WANTS GARBAGE.

Rending Company Would Use Waste of the City.

A proposition to care for the garbage accumulations of the city was presented to the board of works in writing by the Fort Wayne Rendering company, Saturday afternoon. The Rendering company proposes to consume garbage, free of charge to the city, providing the waste product from hotels, restaurants, boarding houses and residences is delivered to the plant, at the eastern limits of the city.

A ten-year contract, beginning may 1, is asked by the company which manufacturers fertilizer. The company does not propose to share in expenses of collecting garbage and hauling the refuse to its plant.

The plan will be seriously considered by the board of works. The system, if adopted, would not mean that the present crematory would be abolished. The present refractory would be used for caring for rubbish, waste from wholesale houses, refuse from groceries of the city, which class of garbage the rending company does not propose to consume.

More motor trucks or wagons will be needed if the city garbage is to go to the plant at the eastern limits of the city. The haul would be much longer than to the present crematory. Two classes of collection wagons would have to be maintained. On the other hand there would be no cost of consumption of the refuse. The Rendering company asks the right to renew its contract at the end of ten years.

The city does not care for garbage from hotels and eating houses under the present plan. Arrangements would have to be made whereby the city would take over the collection of waste from such institutions, if the proposed plan is adopted. This would mean use of more wagons.

REAL MIXER.

Grace Company Purchases Nine Ton Concrete Mixer.

A nine-ton concrete mixer, largest ever appearing in this part of the state, will be delivered in Fort Wayne for the Grace Construction company Monday. The big stone shuffler will be sent at once to Warsaw where it will be used for six weeks on a job of paving several squares of city streets. Then it will be rteurned to Fort Wayne for use here during the remainder of the summer.

The mixer, which prepares concrete especially for paving use, is the largest turned out by the Smith company, of Chicago. It mixes three-quarters of a cubic yard of concrete at each loading of the revolving barabout by its own tractor power.
rel. It is steam driven and is moved

Grace company will also ship their steam shovel, No. 1, to Warsaw next wek, for excavating work in connection with the paving job. The shovel will be used there for three weeks.

NO SALARY RAISE.

Councilmen Will Ask That Old Ordinance Be Maintained.

Councilmen, meeting as a committee of the whole in company with the board of works, decided not to grant a salary increase for employes of the waterworks department Friday night.

Waterworks men had asked for a raise along with firemen and police several weeks ago. The matter was deferred at that time on grounds that the waterworks employes had been granted an increase during the summer.

The committee report will be to maintain the old ordinance governing waterworks wages because the present rating seems fairest to laborers and clerical workers of the department alike. Clerical employes are now getting the maximum rate for their services and the increase does not seem justified to council members. A raise in pay of laborers in the department may come later, the councilmen say.

SET BOND DATE.

April 10 Will Bring Purchase of City Coliseum Certificates.

Bids for the $225,000 worth of city coliseum bonds will be received by the city controller on April 10, the works board determined Friday. The bonds will be non-taxable. All sealed bids must be accompanied by a certified check of 2 per cent. of the amount bid for.

The bonds will be sold in allotments as follows: $42,500 non-taxable bonds, bearing 4 per cent. interest, 100 of these bonds of the face value of 100 and 65 of the face value of $500, each to be payable five years from date, April 15, 1917, at 3 p. m., he will receive sealed bids for 150 bonds of the face value of $500 payable ten years from date of issue, and 215 bonds of the face value of $500 payable twenty years from date of issue, April 15, 1917.

BANK CLEARINGS

For Week Ending Saturday, March 24, Reach Large Total.

Bank clearings for the week ending Saturday, March 24, amounted to approximately a half million dollars than they did for the corresponding week last year. The total this week was $1,706,214.76. Last week the total was $1,853,370.90. The clearings per day were as follows: Monday, $278,-344.81; Tuesday, $250,339.57; Wednesday, $805,928.06; Thursday, $312,-961.95; Friday, $268,493.61; Saturday, $290,146.76. The balance was $241,-201.83.

ONE SURVIVOR IN BOAT FROM THE HEALDTON

London, March 24.—There was only one survivor out of thirteen men in one of the American steamer Healdton's boats which was picked up by the trawler Ocean, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to Reuter's quoting the Handelsblad. The survivor was a Norwegian, who clung to the boat after it had been upset and his comrades drowned. The boat righted itself later and the Norwegian tried to move it, but was so overcome by cold that he had to let it drift. When the Ocean appeared on the scene the sailor was still clinging to the mast with his legs completely frozen.

SOCIETY

Miss Lela Smuts, of Huestis avenue, entertained the H. O. H. B. girls on Wednesday evening. All enjoyed a pleasant time. Miss Eula Scott, of Hom eavenue, will be the next hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rose are hosts for an evening bridge club to which they belong, Saturday evening. There are a dozen young married couples who form the club membership.

A number of boys and girls enjoyed a celebration of the fourteenth birth anniversary of Rozetta Polack, on Friday evening. Music, dancing and games were enjoyed. Herbert Koehlinger furnished music. At half past 6 o'clock a bountiful luncheon was served. A birthday cake with green candles was pretty to see and good to taste. Mrs. Polack and her daughter-in-law served the youny people, with Miss Erin Bennigan assisting. The guests were Audrey Miller, Martha Tomkinson, Helen Jackson, Dorothy Johnson, Lorena McVay, Doris Parsona, Hazel Jessup, Agnes Pulver, Roland McCurdy, Litsher Steinman, Donald Smith, James Bennigan, Ray Cassidy, Herbert Koehlinger, Russell Stein, Wayne Pulson, Arthur Szink.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Graeter entertained the T. T. P. club at dinner and cards on Friday evening.

One of the many delightful parties which have been arranged in compliment to Miss Marie Monroe, whose marriage to Don E. Martin will take place early in April, was given Friday evening by Miss Jessie Armstrong, at her home in South Broadway. About a dozen girls were invited to spend the time quite informally. Miss Monroe was showered with a collection of miscellaneous gifts which were presented by Master Jess Laurie, a nephew of the hostess. The little fellow had a tiny red wheelbarrow daintily decorated with American flags in which he wheeled the gifts to the guest of honor. Refreshments were served at a later hour.

MRS. MARIAH GERKE, PIONEER, IS DEAD

Former Resident of St. Joe Township, Dies Suddenly.

Mrs. Mariah Gerke, 82 years old, widow of the late J. F. Gerke, died suddenly at 12:30 o'clock Saturday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Hannah Bartels, 311 West Lewis street, where she had been making her home for the past two years.

Mrs. Gerke had been ill for six weeks with pneumonia. Saturday she was feeling so much better she attempted to sit up. The exertion is believed to have overtaxed her strength and within a very short time she fell over in her daughter's arms unconscious and in a few minutes was dead. Death was directly due to an attack of heart trouble.

The deceased was born in Germany and at the age of 11 came to this country with her parents. During practically all of her married life she lived on what is known as the Gerke farm in St. Joe township and remained there up to two years ago when she came to this city to make her home with her daughter.

Mrs. Gerke is survived by the following children: Mrs. Hannah Bartels, Mrs. Mary Koester; Henry Gerke, Portland, Ore.; Mrs. Louis Burg; J. Fred Gerke, jr., St. Joe township; Mrs. Anna Burg and Miss Clara Gerke. Two brothers, Henry Meyers, of Indianapolis, and Bruno Meyers, of this city, together with thirty-one grandchildren and seven great grandchildren survive.

Funeral arrangements will be made later. Interment will take place at Goeglein cemetery.

SUMMERS.

Mrs. Catherine Summers, aged 74 years, died Friday at her residence, 219 Douglas avenue, following a prolonged illness. Her condition had been serious for some time. The deceased was one of the best known pioneer residents of Fort Wayne and was the widow of James Summers, to whom she was married in 1862. Mrs. Summers was born in Tralee, County Kerry, Ireland, but came to America when she was ten years old with her parents. The family first located in Ohio, moving later to Columbia City. She came to Fort Wayne in 1860.

The deceased was a member of the Cathedral, the Rosary society, Sacred Heart League and the St. Vincent de Paul society of that congregation.

Surviving she leaves five children: Mrs. Thomas F. Butler, of Indianapolis; Mrs. Clem J. Weber, Miss Elizabeth Summers and Frank Summers, all of this city, and Sister Mary Cecilia, of the Order of Providence, St. Mary's-of-the-Woods, Vigo county, Ind. There also survive two brothers, Michael Nelligan, of Chicago, and John Nelligan, of Tacoma, Wash., and two sisters, Miss Mary and Miss Ella Nelligan, of this city.

KINSEY.

Mrs. Katie Kinsey, aged 51 years, died at 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning at the Lutheran hospital where she had bee na patient for the past few days. The deceased conducted a grocery store at the Wabash railroad tracks and Anthony boulevard for many years and whose sudden disappearance the forepart of the week caused much excitement in the neighborhood. Death was due to paralysis. Mrs. Kinsey was born in Iowa, but had resided in this city for the past fifteen years. The husband died five years ago. She was a member of St. Paul's M. E. church. Surviving she leaves two children, Clinton Kinsey and Mrs. J. H. Scherer, of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Laura Meel and Mrs. Minnie Martin, of Nebraska, and one brother, John Matty, of Wisconsin.

Funeral services Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of the daughter, Mrs. Scherer, 1513 Anthony boulevard, Rev. Krider officiating. Interment at Prairie Grove cemetery.

GARVER.

Franklin Garver, aged 86 years, a resident of Allen county for sixty years, died last Tuesday at Madrid, Mo. The remains were sent to New Haven for burial at the Odd Fellow's cemetery. He was a member of the West Jefferson street Church of Christ and was also a veteran of the civil war, having served as a member of Company H, Ninety-first regiment of Indiana volunteer infantry. His wife preceded him in death fourteen years ago. He is survived by the following children: Charles Garver, whose whereabouts are unknown; Mrs. Fernando Smith, of Allen county; Richard Garver, of Union City; Mrs. William Ort, of Hartford City; Alfred Garver and Mrs. Franklin Strain, of this city, and twenty-seven grandchildren.

ALTMAN.

Rev. Joseph B. Altman, aged 55 years, died Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Kneipp sanitarium in Rome City, where he had been a patient for the past two months. Death was due to valvular heart trouble and dropsical complications. The deceased was assistant to Rev. Father Weisner, pastor of St. John's Catholic church at Lima, O., and was a capable and zealous priest. Oscar Ankenbruck accompanied the remains to this city, where they were prepared for burial. The body was shipped to Lima, Saturday.

FAST OUTFIELDERS IN VANDY'S RAILROADERS

Three University Men Under Contract With Fort Wayne Club.

If ever the outer garden of a minor league club was well protected, that of the Fort Wayne outfit will be this year or a bunch of old heads are fooled. Carl Vandagrift and John Essig have twenty-six men under contract at the present time and of these five are outfielders. Three of the latter are university players who have been out of school for a short time and who are given as the real stuff by wise ones who have seen them play.

Fred Wassen is an old friend of Vandy's and Vandy knows that he has class. He comes from Petoka, Ill., and has played professional ball for five years, since leaving school. Two of these were in the Southern league and three in the South Atlantic. Vandy has watched him play and vouches for him as a fielder and bat wielder of class. Unless he has taken an awful slump since last season he will make good here.

Sam Robinson graduated from Ohio State university last June. For three years he played on the 'varsity at State and the last two captained the eam. During his three years of college ball he was picked for the center garden on the all-conference nine each year. Sam is big and fast and is certain to make good.

The other college player is Plaxico, who graduated from the University of South Carolina two years ago. Last year he played with Baltimore until June and was then farmed to Piedmont, in the Potomac league, where he stayed until August, when the circuit went under, leaving him a free agent. During his time in the Potomac he batted over .400 and led the league in stolen bases by more than 20. He is said to be the fastest man who ever tried out for a Central league job. During his time in school he burned up the track as a speed merchant and still has several records.

The other two aspirants to the outer garden are Hoosier boys without league experience. Elder hails from Rensselaer and has just been honorably dismissed from Army. He played on the U. S. Regulars Pacific coast team for some time. Kyle, of Bluffton, a semi-pro player of class, is the other. He is fairly well known around here, having appeared here several times. Both look to be comers when they get the needed seasoning.

Down South in Dixie.

Warm Breezes from Major Training Camps.

Mineral Wells, Tex., March 24.—Another norther hit this rockbound country Thursday night and consequently there was only a short practice for the White Sox Friday, as Skipper Gleason feared for thee joints of his athletes. This, however, did not prevent Major O'Neill from putting the boys through the regular military drill.

Although rain has not interfered with the work on the ball field for a minute since the team arrived, the cool weather has had a tendency to make prize stock out of the players, as several, instead of losing flesh, have put on a pound or two. This, however, has been to the advantage of the majority, as only a few were overweight at the start.

It was discovered yesterday morning that there are only three pitchers on the staff, but Manager Gleason thinks this will be enough to trim the Brewers at Wichita Falls Sunday.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 24.—After the local Texas league club had taken the lead in the first inning and held it until the eighth, the Detroit Tigers tied the score and won in the eleventh, 8 to 6. Three double plays were made by each team. Batteries: Flannigan, Jones, Couch and Yelle for Detroit; Simms, Redford, Applegate and Bernson for Fort Worth.

Houston, Tex., March 24.—By batting Dick Kerr for twelve hits, including a home run and a three-bagger, the Houston Texas league team defeated the second squad of St. Louis Browns 5 to 3. Stellbauer, Houston left fielder, got four hits, one a home run, in four times up. Batteries: Kerr and White for St. Louis; Moore, Glenn and Noyes for Houston.

Birmingham, Ala., March 24.—Doubles by Leonard and Smith and a single by Rice in the eighth gave the Washington Americans two runs by which they defeated Birmingham, 4 to 2. Batteries: Hill, A. Johnson, Black and Haworth and Toland for Birmingham; Shaw, W. Johnson, Jamieson and Ainsmith and Henry for Washington.

A safe proposition—that the store with the largest business sells the best goods for the least money. Foster's.

FOUR MORE DAYS OF BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Milwaukee Pinmen Will Try to Better Record of Chicago Team.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 24.—Milwaukee and Cincinnati tonight will send their strongest teams against the record of 3,061, which now promises to win for the Birk Brothers of Chicago, the five-man championship of the American Bowling Congress tournament here. The tournament is nearing its end, only four days more remaining. Among the strong clubs to compete tonight are the Chestlines, Moerleins and Mabley and Carewi, of Cincinnati, the Henry Kadins of Chicago, the Roghan and Speers and the Langtry-McBrides of Milwaukee. Some famous bowlers will play in the minor events today, also several of Chicago's star northwest side players being scheduled to conclude their games.

The present tournament will go down in bowling history as the fastest one ever held, world's records being made in every event but the singles and all events. Even in the all events the record is claimed for Grand Rapids, as Ed Herrmann, who holds the record with 1,972 made his mark with a loaded ball, which is now barred from organized bowling.

J. F. Garrett, of Kokomo, Ind., established a new high mark for three games in the American Bowling Congress when he scored 721, two pins under Herrmann's record, however.

EXHIBITION GAMES.

NINE INNING TIE.

San Antonio, Tex., March 24.—The St. Louis Americans' first team played a nine inning tie with the local Texas league club, 1 to 1. The game was called to allow the Browns to catch a train for Waco. The hitting of Flynn for the local club and of Severeid for the Browns featured. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
San Antonio	1	8	0
St. Louis	1	6	3

Batteries—May, Jost and Cook; Rogers, Hamilton and Hale.

Dallas, Tex., March 24.—The St. Louis National league team No. 1 defeated the Dallas Texas league club yesterday, 5 to 4. In the fifth inning, with the bases full and two out, Scroggins threw the ball to the center field fence in an attempt to catch a runner off second and three Cardinals scored. Dallas outhit and outfielded the visitors. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	5	6	4
Dallas	4	9	1

Batteries — North, Hortsman and Roach; Sewell, Scoggins, Compere and Coleman.

Birmingham, March 24.—Doubles by Leonard and Smith and a single by Rice in the eighth gave the Washington Americans two runs, by which they defeated Birmingham 4 to 2 in an exhibition game here Friday. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Birmingham	2	4	3
Washington	4	6	1

Batteries—Hill, A. Johnson, Black and Haworth, Toland; Shaw, W. Johnson, Jamieson and Ainsmith, Henry.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 24.—After the local Texas league club had taken the lead in the first inning and held it until the eighth, the Detroit Tigers tied the score and won in the eleventh 8 to 6. Three double plays were made by each team. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Detroit	8	13	6
Fort Worth	6	10	4

Batteries—Flannigan, James, Couch and Yelle; Simms, Redford, Applegate and Bernson.

Miami, Fla., March 23.—Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Boston Nationals	2	4	0
Philadelphia Americans	1	6	5

Batteries—Barney, Crum and Gowdy, Tragressor; Bush, Johnson, Conwell and Haley.

MAYBE THEY'LL FIGHT.

Darcy May Have to Scrap Dillon in New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., March 24.—While Governor Pleasant could not be seen to get an official statement from him, close personal friends Thursday night declared it to be their belief that he would not interfere with the proposed Les Darcy and Jack Dillon fight which will be staged here during the first part of May, if plans materialize.

Billy Hanck, Memphis promoter and referee, has Dillon's signature for a twenty round bout here with the Australian, and Fred Gilmore, said to represent Darcy, has accepted the offer. Darcy himself has not signed, but reports say that the bout is practically assured. Darcy will fight on a percentage basis, it is said.

STRANGE WHIM SWITCHED SPORT CAREERS OF TWO MEN WHO HAVE SINCE FORCED AHEAD TO CHAMPIONSHIPS.

BY M. BALTHASAR.

San Francisco, Cal., March 24.—Strange things frequently have altered the careers of men, but in the history of athletics there is no case so strange as the one that sent one man into a world's championship and the other to at least an equal claim with his fellow contenders to a world's championship in another line of sport.

The men are Mike Gibbons, conceded to be one of the greatest, if not the greatest, middleweight in the world today, and Walter Miller, holder of the world's middleweight wrestling championship.

Back in St. Paul, when both were youngsters, just breaking into the athletic game, they were boon companions, each with a burning desire to become great. For his line of endeavor, Gibbons chose wrestling, while Miller shied his castor into the boxing arena.

The boys appeared occasionally in smokers in the Minnesota capital and were getting along fairly well, when something happened to bring about a change in the course they had laid out and sent both to the top of the ladder.

Gibbons was matched with a tough young wrestler, who gave him the time of his life and after he had slammed Michael to his heart's content, thoughtfully pinned his shoulders to the mat.

The result of that bout disgusted Mike. Never again would he try any more of the hammerlock and half nelson stuff. He'd go to work, he would, and be just a common citizen.

About the same time that Mike met with his reverse, Miller also ran into a snag and arrived at the conclusion that he, too, had picked the wrong game. But he was sore over the manner in which Mike had been treated in his last wrestling match and issued a challenge to the conqueror on behalf of himself. The challenge was accepted, the men met and, much to the surprise of Miller as well as everybody else, he threw the man who had manhandled Mike.

That settled it with Miller. He would become a wrestler. He did and has been at it ever since, doing so well that now he is the proud possessor of the $25,000 Richard K. Fox belt, emblematic of the world's middleweight wrestling championship.

Miller's switch and the success that it brought gave Gibbons a "hunch." He took up boxing and today is a rich man with ring honors galore.

Miller, in addition to being the world's champion, holds what he believes to be the record for long distance wrestling matches without a fall. His longest bout was with Ed Adamson, neither man scoring in four hours and twenty-seven minutes. In their second match they went 3:10 without a fall. With Mike Yokel, the champion went three hours and five minutes, with Henry Gehring, three hours and seventeen minutes, and with Otto Suter, three hours and five minutes.

Miller won the championship from Joe Turner, but the belt was not at stake. Turner sought a return match, but to get it he had to put up the belt. Once more Miller defeated him and has had the belt ever since.

Miller's home is now in Portland, Ore.

HILLMAN REPRESENTS A. A. A. IN CHICAGO

Will look After the Association Interests at Speedway.

Chicago is the first city to have an A. A. A contest board representative, Richard Kennerdell, chairman of the national automobile racing tribunal, bestowing this signal honor upon the middle western metropolis by the appointment of L. R. Hillman, a member of the Chicago Automobile club and local branch manager of the Hess-Bright Bearing company, to serve in this capacity.

Hillman's appointment as contest board representative for Chicago was made at the request of David F. Reid, president of the Chicago Speedway, who believed that the prominence of this city in the motor racing world entitled it to a representative all its own. Heretofore all races run on the tamarack course have been held under the direction of Clifford Ireland of Peoria, a member of the contest board, and W. C. Barnes of Peoria, the state representative for Illinois.

With the appointment of Hillman as Chicago representative, both Ireland and Barnes will be relieved of many of their duties. Ireland cannot be as active in automobile racing this year as formerly, having been elected to congress and going to Washington this week to make his debut as a statesman at the special war session. Barnes may accompany Ireland as the latter's secretary, consequently it was thought imperative to have a representative in this city where more speed meets are promoted than in any other city, five being staged here last season.

Hillman will look after the interests of the A. A. A. contest board connected with the third annual auto derby of June 9, and the other events to be held on the Chicago speedway this season and will be in charge of the Elgin road races if the watch city promoters are successful in reviving that classic. As Hillman is a resident of Chicago, local speedway officials can confer with him with less trouble than heretofore when they were forced to communicate with Ireland or Barnes at Peoria or take up matters with Chairman Kennerdell direct at New York. This will be to the mutual advantage of the race promoters and the A. A. A. contest board.

In addition to being a consul of the contest board, Hillman is the representative of the A. A. A. technical committee for the middle western territory, succeeding F. E. Edwards about a year ago, and has proven himself a most efficient executive in the supervision of automobile and accessory tests.

CHANGING BATS GETS .370 MARK

Waxahachie, Tex., March 24.—Changing the style of his bat turned Ed Spencer, Detroit catcher, from a .220 hitter to a .370 hitter last year.

Spencer used a slender handled bat until Rube Schaller, now in the coast league, figured Spencer was using too light a bat and swinging too soon. He induced Spencer to use a huge wagon tongue with a thick handle.

COULON SAID TO HAVE CHANGED HIS TACTICS

Will Meet Mason With Speed Instead of Punishing Blows.

Since Johnny Coulon lost the bantamweight title of the world to Kid Williams several years ago, he does not use the old punishing blows with which he used to batter down his opponent and win by the kayo route. In fact he has used the kick so seldom lately that he has been accused of having lost it. This is not the case however, but he has found a better way of fighting and one which will take him farther toward his lost title than any other.

Coulon now fights for points, fighting a fast and clever sort of scrap which has made him one of the most popular members of the gloved gentry. His wicked punch is reserved for any chance which offers and in which he can lay an opponent away without wearing himself out. At these times he never fails to come across with the sleep-producer.

It is hard to imagine anything better in the fight line than an encounter between Frankie Mason and a fast opponent. Coulon is the man who is going to try to better the local bantam at his own game. It is the opinion of all followers of the game in this city as well as in many others that the fight at the Majestic is going to be one of the best exhibitions seen in this part of the country for some time.

IT'S ALL OVER.

The Terre Haute club has disposed of its last player and all that is left of the franchise is a scrap of paper. The last of the Terriers to go was Pitcher Guy Gregg, who followed Mathes and Mitchell to Grand Rapids. Gregg had been sold to the Boston Braves, but he didn't like the salary offered him, so stayed out, for which he was shunted back to Terre Haute. This peeved him and he wouldn't play ball at all, but he has changed his mind and says he will report to Grand Rapids and be glad of the chance.

DISMOND RUNS FAST QUARTER IN TRIALS

Van Aken Looks Like a Sure Winner in Half at Northwestern.

Chicago, March 24.—Preliminary trials in the quarter and half mile events of the seventh annual indoor track and field meet of the Intercollegiate Conference association were held yesterday at Patten gymnasium. Finals will be held tonight at the same place.

As expected, Dismond of Chicago made the best time in the quarter mile trials. He won his heat in the fastest time, footing the distance on the ten lap track in :52 4-5. Williams of Northwestern was a good second. Smart, the La Grange product, who is competing under the colors of Northwestern, was an easy winner in the second. Smart negotiated the distance in :52 2-5. The third heat was won by Feuerstein of Chicago, with Pendarvis of Illinois in second place. It was the slowest heat, the time being :54 1-5.

Two Heats in Half Mile.

Because of scratches at the last minute, when drawings were made for positions, it was decided to run only two heats in the half mile, the first three in each race to qualify for the final event. Van Aken of Purdue, the former football player, won the first heat. He traveled the distance in 2:04 and won off by himself. Somers of Illinois was second and Clark of Chicago third. The second heat, with only four starters, was won by Hammond of Northwestern. Spink of Illinois, who could have won the race hands down, did not care to exert himself on the final lap after he had led from the start and was content with second, which qualified him for the final. Greene of Chicago was third. The time was 2:05 4-5.

Every college in the Big Nine was represented and all indications point to an interesting meet tonight. Chicago rules favorite, but the best laid plans of Coach Stagg and his assistants may go wrong and either Illinois, Wisconsin or Northwestern may be the leader in points after the final race is run.

Summaries of Trials.

440 yard run, first heat—Won by Dismond, Chicago; Williams, Northwestern, second. Time, :52 4-5.

Second heat—Won by Smart, Northwestern; Field, Wisconsin, second. Time, :53 3-5.

Third heat—Won by Feuerstein, Chicago; Pendarvis, Illinois, second. Time, :54 1-5.

880 yard run, first heat—Won by Van Aken, Purdue; Somers, Illinois, second; Clark, Chicago, third. Time, 2:04.

Second heat—Won by Hammond, Northwestern; Spink, Illinois, second; Greene, Chicago, third. Time, 2:05 4-5.

Football coaches and athletic directors of the Big Nine colleges will meet this morning at the Auditorium hotel to select football officials for the fall games.

Wives of Stars Are in Training

Shreveport, La., March 24.—Mrs. Hal Chase and Mrs. Tom Griffiths are training with their husband ball players here.

Dressed in outing suits, they walk to the ball park, three miles from the hotel, every morning, pass the medicine ball, then walk back to the hotel.

"I wouldn't miss my morning practice for anything," says Mrs. Chase. "I am developing as big an appetite as Hal has."

FAMOUS ATHLETES WILL COMPETE THIS EVENING

Five Hundred Entered in Big Louisville Athletic Meet.

Louisville, Ky., March 24.—More than 500 entries, 150 from outside the cities, will compete tonight in an athletic meeting to be held here under the auspices of the Louisville Amateur Federation. Among the contestants will be a number of record holders. Among the individuals who are taking part are Irwin Mahl, of the Columbia Athletic club of St. Louis; Joe and Frank Loomis, of the Chicago Athletic association; Joie Ray, of Illinois, and Robert Simpson, of the University of Missouri. One of the feature events will be an eighty yard dash which will bring together Joe Loomis and Irwin Mahl, and several other entries numbered among the best athletes of the Kentucky colleges and the University of Indiana. Another event which is attracting attention is the open relay. Chicago apparently has this race at its mercy, both the Chicago Athletic association and the Illinois A. C. having powerful teams entered in this event.

HAL STEWART GIVEN DECISION AT MUNCIE

Hess is Also Winner After Staging an Uphill Fight.

Muncie, Ind., March 24.—Hal Stewart earned a decision over Ford Munger in a ten round bout here last night. After four rounds of even fighting, Stewart had the better of the encounter all the way. In the sixth round he drove his opponent to the ropes repeatedly. Munger killed himself with the crowd by trying to stall his way through.

In the semi-windup Battling Hess was given the decision over Eddie Mullen after having been floored three times in the second round. He came back strong and walked all over the Muncie boy. Mullen claims he broke a thumb in the fourth round.

RELATIVES PUNISHED By NATION To FORCE ENLISTMENT

THE BOHEMIAN WAR NURSES

MISS JULIA HALAMICEK

LAST TAKEN TO COLORS

Young Woman Arrives in America from Austria to Marry a Fellow-Countryman, but Refuses to Let His Name Become Known Because of Her Fear of Reprisals Abroad.

JUST what will be the outcome of the marriage of Miss Julia Halamicek to "someone" in the United States after completing an 8000-mile journey through the fighting and neutral countries in Europe is a grave question to her. Through the influence of an uncle, a high Austrian official in Moravia, she obtained passports to the United States. If her passports were other than for the purpose of marriage, that constitutes a high political offense in her country.

Should the Austrian Government be so informed through its secret service agents in the United States her relatives and those of her fiance will be punished for her offense. The penalty in some cases is death and in others life imprisonment.

Fear that some harm may result by her marriage has prompted Miss Halamicek to withhold the name of the man she is to marry, though she states that his home is in Chicago. The rules of her country are strict, she said, and especially in case of war, and they will go to any means to punish for a political offense.

When and where Miss Halamicek and her childhood sweetheart will be married also will remain a strict secret and only immediate relatives in their country will know, but they will not be allowed to attend the wedding.

They will elope to a small town, get their license, and be married very quietly, after which they will reside in Chicago where her fiance is in business. There will be no wedding celebration, such as most often follows an Austrian marriage—that is not until after the war is ended and, then she said, "we intend to have a great affair."

Stories of Hardships.

MISS HALAMICEK arrived in St. Louis the week of February 25, and is with her uncle, Ernest Halamicek, a tailor, residing at 2821 Miami street. He is assisting her in preparing her wedding clothes, which will consist of simple traveling suits and dresses.

Stories of the hardships of the wrecked Austria, the establishment of dog butcher shops and tricks used by the ill-fed population in getting food supplied by the government have been brought to this country by Miss Halamicek.

Following is her own narrative of the conditions in the war-ridden country, and of the manner in which she obtained the necessary passports to reach the United States:

"It is awful how strict the Austrian justice is. The trials had and experienced in getting my passports makes me shiver. I was under a constant strain for fear that I would be stopped at any minute. They punish with years in jail for the least political offense.

"For instance, when John Chumchal, a countryman of mine, living at Holland, Tex., wrote at the beginning of the war to his parents that America is 'too proud to fight,' and that not a single American-Czech would be so foolish to return and fight for the kaiser, the censor, who opens all of the foreign mail, immediately delivered the letter to the police instead of to whom it was addressed.

"As a punishment for the letter written, the small property Chumchal owned in Austria was confiscated, and the reasons for this was published.

"There are thousands of citizens employed in the secret service of the Austrian Government in the United States. The same exists in the old country. Everybody is watched, especially in our own town, which is near the Russian border and is known to be strongly in favor of Russia.

"The government already has proofs of its loyalty to Russia. After the first clash of the hostile armies in Poland, a number of Russian war prisoners were brought to Moravia to work in the fields. Soon after, some of them disappeared. Later on it was discovered that they escaped with the help of 'some' members of the population of our little village. Since that time it has been forbidden, under penalty of death, to give a deserter a meal or refuge, or to render him aid. But the Bohemians do only as much as they are forced to do, not a bit more."

Paper Under Government Control.

THE Austrian press is under absolute control of the government, and all the journals have been reduced in size. This is due to the scarcity of paper. Many have been suspended, others cease to appear. The lack of paper illustrates excellently the confiscation of all Bohemian school-books, which the government found harmful on account of them containing the history of the nation, or dealt with other subjects tending to the nation's desire for liberty.

"The Department of Kultur had failed to produce new school-books to replace those that they had confiscated and the pupils in the schools are now being taught without books. There is also a lack of teachers, and for this reason the government does not want its women to leave the country for good."

Students in the high schools, universities and the ward schools have been forced to colors, she said, and out of eight classes in a high school in Brunn there remained only one for the examinations.

"The government had recruited practically all of the male population," said Miss Halamicek, "between the ages of 17 and 55. The youths were put in separate regiments, but these proved a failure. The boys, almost children, wept in the trenches, according to stories brought back from the front by the wounded soldiers

"When the first faced the terrific cannonade of the enemy, they became panic-stricken, threw down their guns and ran. Later they were captured, and then the officers distributed them among the older and trained soldiers, thinking that then they could be controlled.

"The boys are physically unfit for the rough life of the soldiers. A good many have gone insane from fear. But the Austrian Government, which already is short of human stock, spares not even children. It is seldom that you meet a healthy young man on the streets in civil clothes. One sees only the blind, sick, wounded, old, or those in uniforms on leave of absence.

Mourning Is Prohibited.

YET the patience of the suffering people was not broken, and one often hears jokes of the terrible facts. When, for instance, the first contingent of troops was about to be summoned for service, an unknown joker placed a big sign on the entrance of a cemetery, which read: 'FIFTH CONTINGENT OF RECRUITS READY FOR THE GRAVES.'

"Because there are so many Austrian dead the government has issued strict orders that no widows shall wear mourning of any sort. This is punishable by imprisonment. The widows are allowed 40 cents a week, but as the army headquarters' reports are often late and uncertain, she is never sure that her husband is dead.

"I have known several cases when the army headquarters have reported certain men dead, their 'widows' have remarried, only to be greeted later by the appearance of their 'dead' husbands at the doors, returning from the front on leaves of absence. Court trials have resulted, but they have been in vain. The government encourages marriages to insure future population, and takes no action in the cases, which are dropped and the man is left to remain a widower or remarry some other 'widow' whose husband had been reported dead.

"The food condition is critical. Tickets have been issued by the government for everything that you buy, bread, meat potatoes, salt, beer and tobacco. Every town receives from the government a certain amount of provisions. These must last a certain length of time, as there are no more to be had. The distribution of the food and the selling of the meal tickets is trusted to the mayor of the town. Without the tickets you can get nothing. There always are crowds waiting to get their foodstuffs. Often the people bring chairs and even sleep there for hours that they might be in the first division when the distribution starts.

Love Overcomes Patriotism.

PREPARATIONS to come to the United States were made by Miss Halamicek about three years ago The great war started. She felt that her duties were to her country. She worked in the preparations, which were fast advancing. But something called to her to come to America.

"Finally I yielded to the wishes of my sweetheart and made plans to leave the war-ridden country," she said. "I confided in my uncle, who is high up in the political world in Austria. He felt sorry for me and informed me of a way by which I might obtain leave from my country and come to America. I did as he told me. I filed an application at the Circuit Court. They all were the closest friends of my uncle. My application was granted after all kinds of questions were asked me, but I did not let it be known to the authorities that I intended to marry and leave my country for good.

"I furnished the court with three of my photographs. On each of these they made a print of my fingers. From the District Court my application was sent to the governor. He examined it and demanded certain details. These were sent and the governor approved the application. This procedure took just three months, thanks to my uncle who pushed it along as fast as possible.

"Then I received three passes, one for use in Austria, one for Germany and one for Holland.

"Yet the matter was not over. Having obtained the permission of my government I had to obtain the signatures for the other two passes by Holland and German consuls at Brunn. As I heard that the German consul would not sign passes to America after the new year, I hurried to see him. At that time Germany, I was told, was preparing for a break with the United States.

"While I was entering the consulate my heart throbbed. I had heard that the consul was very nervous and feared that he would not sign my pass. His only son, an aeronaut, had been killed recently, in action, and his daughter, hearing of her brother's death, became insane. I pitied him. He signed my pass.

Instructions for Departure.

I THEN went to inform the District Court of my readiness to depart. There I received instructions in regard to my travel. These were. That I should leave immediately; that I must take provisions for four days, and that if I were found in the country within eight days after the granting of the leave by the court I should be returned. You may well imagine that I packed and was off in a hurry. That was December 9.

"I went via Prague-Bodenbach and through Germany via Dresden and Hanover. As I was an undesirable person in Germany I progressed rapidly. I never was allowed to leave the train. During my travel my train never passed through a German fortification in the day time. I did not care to see them. I wanted to get away from all war scenes. They recalled too much sorrow.

"My travel was without thrilling adventure, except when my train reached Hanover, where I changed trains at night time. I became confused and took the wrong train and instead of going to Emerich I went to Bentheim.

"How minutely the German secret service system works I soon realized. While I was sitting in the train, unaware of the wrong route, a man in civil clothes entered the car and walked to where I was sitting. He ordered me to get out and take another train, which was en route to my destination. They had missed me on the other train, and had telegraphed ahead.

"All the way through Austria and Germany I was dependent upon the foodstuffs that I took with me, and, having no meal ticket, was unable to purchase anything at the stations. The only thing that could be purchased without a meal ticket was coffee. This was not fit to drink and was 20 cents a cup.

"On December 14 I reached Rotterdam. And there for the first time in more than two years I ate as much as I wished to. I never shall forget the appetite I had then. The first evening, following an oath and pledge that I was not breaking the neutrality of Holland by carrying secret plans or information. I was allowed to board the Nieuw Amsterdam, a vessel of the Holland-American line. The next day we sailed.

Sympathizes with Allies.

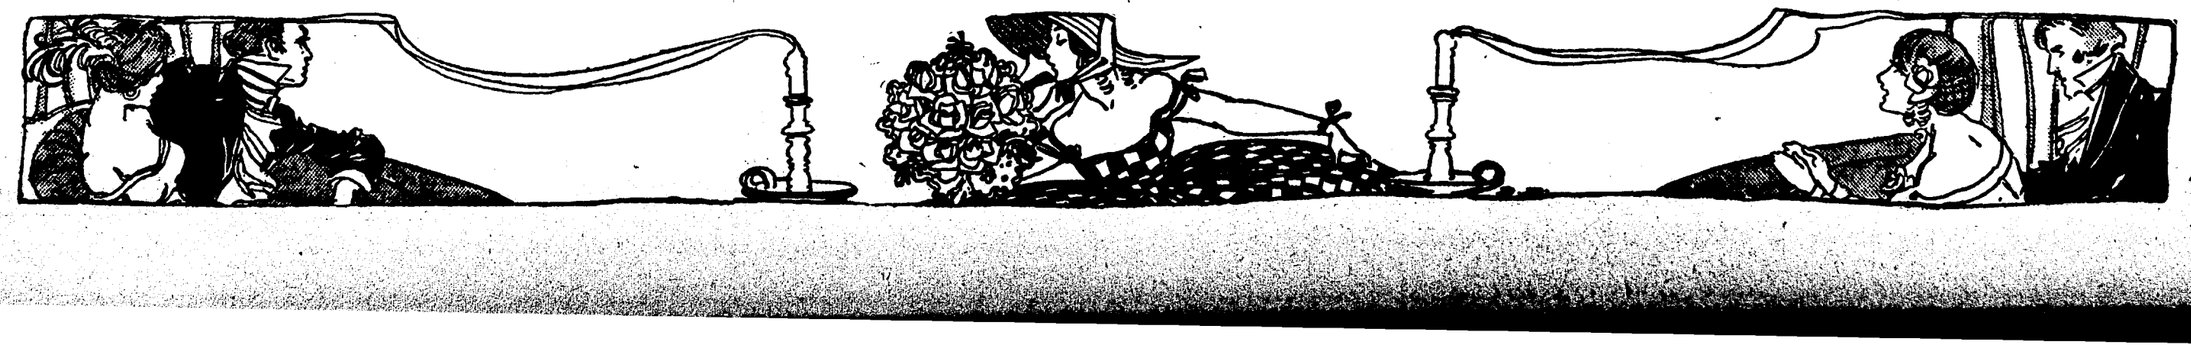
THE second day out we passed the huge English dreadnaughts and destroyers which were patrolling the sea. On the sixth day the ship steamed into Plymouth Harbor and anchored for two days, being examined by the British authorities. Being a Bohemian, I had no trouble. It is a well-known fact all over the world that we sympathize with the allies and that my nation's place is with their side, where right and freedom are.

"On the evening of the second day we lifted anchor and steamed out of the harbor. We passed a small passenger steamer beached near the shore. Members of the crew told us that a half hour before it had been torpedoed by a German submarine. We happily got through the danger zone and into the Atlantic. Then we felt relieved.

"We were approaching New York on January 2, and at dawn we passed the Statue of Liberty. The high skyscrapers of the city were plainly visible as we slowly steamed into the Hudson River. After a brief examination I was permitted to land on American soil.

"I then proceeded to Chicago, where I spent several days. I met my fiance and we made arrangements for our marriage. Then I came to St. Louis to prepare my wedding clothes with the assistance of my uncle. My dream will soon be realized."

Miss Halamicek is 32 years old. She is slender, with light, brown hair and blue eyes. She has lively and natural manners. Her voice is clear and musical, however, while she was narrating of the poor conditions in her native land, and of the oppressed people, it often trembled, and the writer noticed that her eyes often were filled with tears.



RELIGION, TEMPERANCE AND HEALTH

(By A. Spangle.)

What is revealed concerning the first verse of the bible?

"In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." Gen. 1:1.

What contrast is repeatedly drawn in the scriptures between the true God and false gods?

"Thus shall ye say unto them, the gods that have made the heavens and the earth, even they shall perish from the earth, and from under these heavens. * * * The portion of Jacob is not like them: for He is the former of all things; and Israel is the rod of His inheritance: The Lord of hosts is His name." Jer. 10:11-16. See Jer. 14:22; Acts 17:22-29; Rev. 14;6-10.

Through whom did God work in creating all things?

"In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by Him and without Him was not anything made that was made." John 1:1-3.

Through whom is redemption wrought?

"But God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Much more then, being now justified by His blood, we shall be saved from wrath through Him." Rom. 5:8-9.

In what scripture do we find that Christ, the active agent in creation, is also the head of the church?

"For by Him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by Him: and for Him: and He is before allthings, and by Him all things consist. And He is the head of the body, the church: who is the beginning, the first-born from the dead; that in all things He might have the pre-eminence." Col. 1:16-18.

What scripture shows that the Creator is also the Redeemer?

"But now thus saith the Lord that created thee, O Jacob, and He that formed thee, O Israel, fear not: for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art Mine." Isa. 43:1.

Who is declared to be the source of power to the weak?

"Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of His understanding. He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might He increaseth strength." Isa. 40:28-29.

What prayer of David shows that he regarded redemption as a creative work?

"Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." Ps. 51:10.

Who keeps the heavenly bodies in their places?

"To whom then will ye liken Me, or shall I be equal? saith the Holy One. Lift up your eyes on high, and behold who hath created these things, that bringeth out their host by number: He calleth them all by names by the greatness of His might, for that He is strong in power, not one faileth." Isa. 40:25-26.

What can the same Holy One do for the believer?

"Now unto Him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy, to the only wise God our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen." Jude 24:25.

What is the measure of the power which is available for the help of the believer?

"That the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give unto you the spirit of wisdom and revelation in the knowledge of Him; the eyes of your understanding being enlightened; that ye may know what is the hope of His calling, and what is the riches of the glory of His inheritance in the saints, and what is the exceeding greatness of His power to us ward who believe, according to the working of His mighty power, which He wrought in Christ, when He raised Him from the dead, and set Him at His own right hand in the heavenly places." Eph. 1:17-20.

How great was the deliverance of Israel from Egyptian bondage?

"Ask now of the days that are past, which were before thee, since the day God created man upon the earth, and ask from the one side of heaven unto the other, whether there hath been any such thing as this great thing is, or hath been heard like it? * * * Hath God assayed to go and take Him a nation from the midst of another nation, by temptations, by signs, and by wonders, and by war, and by a mighty hand, and by a stretched out arm, and by great terrors, according to, all that the Lord your God did-for you in Egypt before your eyes?" Duet. 4:32-34.

Note—The great deliverance of Israel from bondage and oppression in Egypt is but a type of the power of God displayed in the deliverance of man from the bondage and slavery of sin. In both is seen a manifestation of creative power.

What scripture plainly states that is creative power which transforms the believer?

"For we are His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them." Eph. 2:10.

Of what is the Sabbath both a memorial and a sign?

"Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labor, and do all thy work: but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God; in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy man servant, nor thy maid servant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates: for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath day, and hallowed it." Ex. 20:8-11.

"It is a sign between Me and the children of Israel forever: for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, and on the seventh day He rested, and was refreshed." Ex. 31:17.

Inasmuch as creation and redemption are both wrought by the same creative power, of what besides the original creation was the Sabbath given to be a sign?

"Moreover also I gave them My Sabbath to be a sign between Me and them, that they might know that I am the Lord that do sanctify them." Eze. 20:12.

Through whose agency is the material universe sustained?

"And He (Christ) is before all things, and in Him all things consist." Col. 1:17.

What statement shows that all things, both material and spiritual, are sustained by the same personal agency?

"But to us there is but one God, * * * and one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all things and we by him." 1 Cor. 8:6.

Why is God worthy to receive glory and honor?

"Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honor and power; for thou hast created all things, and for Thy pleasure they are and were created." Rev. 4:11.

Note—That comparatively modern view of creation known as evolution, which rests upon human research, rather than upon divine revelation, and which substitutes an impersonal force for a personal Creator, overthrows the very foundation of the gospel. Redemption is simply the new creation, and the Creator is the Redeemer. The head of the original creation is the head of the new creation. The original creation was wrought through Christ by the power of the word.

DRINKING IS COWARDICE

Dr. W. A. Evans, former health commissioner of Chicago, conducts a "How to Keep Well" column in the Chicago Tribune. In a recent issue of that paper he discusses the booze question from a new angle. He says:

"Here is a new way to look at the man who drinks. He drinks because he is a poor, weak-minded fool, an insane man or a man headed that way, an ill-balanced moral coward, and in most cases a physical coward as well. When he is definitely and clearly insane and is not insane because he drank.

"To the young man there is something romantic about drinking. It was a badge of manhood to throw down three fingers of booze. Or to look at it from another angle, drink liberated the imagination and carried the mind on poetic flights of brilliant imaginings. Drink is associated with dreams of knights and knight errantry as they were of old and as they can be translated into twentieth century life. There was secret admiration of the moral courage and manhood of the youth who drank.

"But listen to what Dr. W. A. White, superintendent of the United States government hospital for the insane, has to say about it. He gives his talk the title, 'Alcoholism as a Symptom:'

"'The alcoholic is a neurotic. He is incapable of meeting reality efficiently every day. He may be able to deal with a problem of time. The continuity of effort day in and day out is foreign to the alcoholic character. He can stand the strain only about so long, longer in some cases than in others. He drinks because he tries to find safety from his ineffeciency.

"'How frequently we see the alcoholic retiring himself in solitude and in quiet, drinking himself to stupid unconsciousness in an effort to escape a recognition of his own incompetency. He calls it forgetting. It is also cowardice.'

"We have many lesser degrees of escape than the above. We have the jovial, story-telling, tipsy inebriate, who sits up all night, slaps his friends on the back and laughs and jokes and gives the morrow notice that tonight is tonight and let tomorrow take care of itself. Is not this man also escaping from reality by not meeting it efficiently not only by crippling himself so that on the morrow he is unable to face it, but by his very words he abjures it. Goodness! Another of our boyhood heroes not only has his feet of clay but is an out-and-out coward.

"The feeling of inefficiency and flight from reality—the ear-marks of alcoholism—and now we can understand why alcohol has been called a stimulant. Kraepelin proved by the most careful of tests that alcohol is not a stimulant but only appears to stimulate because it quiets the fears of a coward."

Dr. White holds that the man who is helpless as against alcohol is really helpless because he is a neurotic or insane. His use of alcohol is one of the symptoms of his neurosis or of his insanity.

BOSTON HITS BOOZE.

The latest blow at booze in Boston is the order issued on March 9 by the management of the Elevated Railway company forbidding "the use of intoxicating liquors by officials or employes, whether to excess or not, and whether on duty or not, in such a way as to impair their efficiency or render doubtful their fitness for the responsibilities involved in their employment." Disobedience to the order will be considered cause for discharge. "Do you drink?" asked the lawyer of the witness under cross-examination. "That's my business!" hotly replied the witness. "Ah, just so," responded the attorney. "Well, have you any other business?" If things go on as they are going at present, it will not be long before the man who drinks will not have any other "business" and will not be able to find any.

FRAGRANCE.

(Michigan Christian Advocate.)

Once, in crossing a meadow, I came to a spot that was filled with fragrance. Yet I could see no flowers and I wondered whence the fragrance came. At last I found, low down, close to the ground, hidden by the tall grass, innumerable little flowers. It was from these that the fragrance came.

I enter some homes. There is a rich perfume of love that pervades all the place. It may be a home of wealth and luxury, or it may be plain and bare. No matter; it is not the house, nor the furniture, nor the adornment that makes this air of sweetness. I look closely. It is a gentle woman, mother or daughter, quiet hiding self away, from whose life the fragrance flows. There is a wondrous charm in a gentle spirit. The gentle girl in a home may not be beautiful, may not be well educated, may not be musical or and artist or "clever" in any way, but wherever she moves she leaves a benediction. Her sweet patience is never disturbed by the sharp words that fall about her. The children love her, because she never tires of them. She helps them with their lessons, listens to their frets and worries, mends their broken toys, makes dolls' dresses, straightens out tangles and settles their little quarrels, and finds time to play with them When there is sickness in the home, she is the angel of comfort. Her face is always bright with the out shining of love. Her voice has music in it as it falls in cheerful tenderness on the sufferer's ear. Her hands are wondrously gentle as their smoothing touch rests on the aching head or as they minister in countless ways about the bed of pain.

Blind Girl's Optimism.

(Biblical Record.)

To those who are peevish and pessimistic while physically and intellectually normal, there is a standing and stinging rebuke in the optimism of many unfortunates. In one of his magazine articles, the late Ian Maclaren told the pathetic story of a blind girl over in the Scotch High lands. He gave it thus in her own words: "If I dinna see"—and she spoke as if this were a matter of doubt and she were making a concession for argument's sake—"there's naebody in the Glen can hear like me. There's no a footstep of a Drumtochty man comes to the door but that I ken his name, and there's no voice oot on the road that I canna tell. The birds sing sweeter to me than to onybody else, and I can hear them cheeping to one another in the bushes before they go to sleep. And the flowers swell sweeter to me—the roses and the carnation and the bonny moss rose—and I judge that the oatcake and milk taste the richer because I dinna see them. Na, na, ye're no to think that I've been ill treated by my God,for if He dinna give ae thing, He gave me mony things instead. And, mind ye,it's no as if I'd seen once and lost my sigh. that might ha' been a trial, and my faith micht ha' failed I've lost naething; my life has been all getting.

FOR MOTHER

He was only a mite of a boy, dirty and ragged, and he had stopped for a while in one of the city's free playgrounds to watch a game of ball between boys of his own and a rival neighborhood. Tatters and grime were painfully in evidence on every side; but the little fellow attracted the attention of a group of visitors, and one of them, reaching over the child's shoulder, as he sat on the ground, gave him a lucious golden pear. The boy's eyes sparkled, but the glowing eyes were his only thanks as he looked back to see from whence the gift came, and then he turned his face away, too shy or too much asontished to speak.

But from the time on his attention was divided between the game and his new treasure. He patted the pear; he looked at it; and at last, as if to assure himself that it was as delicious as it appeared, he lifted it to his lips and cautiously bit out a tiny piece near the stem. Then, with a long sigh of satisfaction and assurance, he tucked the prize safely inside of his dirty blouse.

"Why don't you eat it, Tony?" demanded a watchful acquaintance.

"Eat it? All meself? Ain't I savin' it for mother?"

The tone, with its mingling of resentment and loyalty, made further speech unnecessary. Whatever Tony lacked—and it seemed to be nearly everything—he had learned a beautiful lesson. He had another dearer than self, and knew the joy of sacrifice.—Wesleyan Christian Advocate.

HARMONY.

(Christian Observer.)

A beautiful incident is told by a traveler of his visit to the cathedral of Pisa. He stood beneath its wonderful dome, spacious and symmetrical and gazed with awe upon its beauties. Suddenly the air became instinct with melody. The great dome seemed full of harmony. The waves of music vibrated to and fro, loudly beating against the walls swelling into full chords like the roll of a great organ, and then dying away into soft-drawn, far-reaching echoes, melting to silence in the distance. It was only the guide, who lingering behind a moment, had softly murmured a triple chord. But beneath the magic dome every sound resolves into harmony. No discord can reach the summit of that dome and live. Every voice in the building, the slamming of seats, the trampling of feet, the murmur and bustle of the crowd are caught up, softened, harmonized, blended, and echoed back in music. If a dome, the work of men's hands, can thus harmonize all discords, can we doubt that, under the great dome of heaven, God can make "all things to work together for good to them that love him?"

Four Boys "Cleaned Up."

(F. M. Richardson in Border Work.)

"These beans are raw!" "These spuds are half cooked!" "Let's can the cook, he's rotten!" "I could beat this layout and I have never cooked a meal," were the doubtful complaints passed upon the work of the cook of Company ——, First North Dakota infantry in camp on the border.

Some one told the captain and as the private who claimed he could beat such cooking could not do any worse it was decided to try him out. He made good from the start. At home he is a student in the University of North Dakota, but here on the border he is now his company's cook.

He was busy preparing the Sunday evening meal. Two men came to the kitchen in a state of mental distress brought about by an address on "The Marks of a True Soldier," given at the camp Y. M. C. A. building at the Sunday afternoon meeting by the pastor of the local Baptist church.

Wanted to Clean Up.

"Private," said one of the two, "we want to know what you think about the way we have been living and we want you to help us clean up."

"Well, boys," was the cook's reply, "I have already told you what I think about the way you have been living. I am rushing supper now, but if you will come back as soon as supper is over I'll help you find a way to clean up."

Supper was hardly over before the two were back bringing a third companion. The three confessed to a life of intemperance and sin and admitted "We can't quit without help. We have tried it and it don't work. We have got to have help."

Out in the Open.

"Boys," said the cook, "you can get that help in Christ, and you can get it right now. Do you want to do this thing here in the kitchen or out under the fly in the open?"

"We have done our drinking in the open and we will clean up in the open," said the leader as he led the way out of the kitchen into the open camp, stopping under the fly in front of the shack. The cook's helper had also been to the afternoon meeting and as the group walked out he joined them admitting his desire to lead a new life.

Reading a passage in Matthew to the four, the cook asked if they were seeking a way out of sin by the help of Jesus Christ; if so, that they kneel with him in prayer. The four men dropped down upon their knees in the sand of the border camp with the cook who prayed God to give his grace to these boys now seeking to lead a new life by the power of Jesus Christ.

They Took a Pledge.

The prayer was ended and with the group yet kneeling, the cook addressed the four in these words: "Boys, as a pledge of your desire to lead a Christian life, and as a means to help you in realizing that desire, I am going to ask you to take a pledge with me. If you desire to be a Christian, and keep free from drink and sin, you will place your right hand upon the open Bible, here before us, and repeat after me."

Four hands were placed beside the cook's upon the open book and this was the pledge they took upon bended knee in the presence of God and men:

"By the grace of God, from this day on, I will endeavor to abstain from all intoxicating liquors, and all other things that tend to hinder a man in developing a Christian life.

"I will put forth every effort to keep my body and soul clean, and thus be a good soldier for God, as well as for my country."

In the Presence of Witnesses.

As they rose the cook grasped each by the hand, and then for the first time noticed that the group had been surrounded by a number of men who had silently crowded around to witness this unusual proceeding under a kitchen fly.

The lieutenant stepped forward, saying as he gave his hand to the four and to the cook, "Boys, I have spent a number of years in the army but I must admit this is the greatest thing I have ever seen occur around the company kitchen."

In telling me of this incident the cook said, "I was about to ask the captain to put me back in the line again, but if I can have a chance to do this sort of thing as company cook I'll stick it out in the kitchen until we leave the border."—F. M. M. Richardson.

A Rich Experience.

Dr. A. C. Dixon in a recent sermon in the Metropolitan Tabernacle, London, gave the following experience which came to aboy preacher.

A young man who was preaching at a little country church for a few months before going to college began to pray that God would enable him to baptize just 100 people in that village. "Lord," he prayed, "if thou wilt give just 100, no more and no less, I shall know that thou dost answer prayer; and I shall never doubt thee as long as I live." Months passed, and the day arrived when he must go to the theological seminary. The day before he left he went to the little church, where ninety-four people had been baptized. A deacon told him five others were waiting to be baptized. He borrowed some clothes and went to a pond two miles away, praising God that the total of ninety-nine had been reached. As the student was conducting the service before entering the water, a man touched him on the shoulder and said, "My wife is being baptized, and I want to go down with her." The young man said, "Oh, but you haven't any clothes." The man said he didn't care, and the young preacher baptized him in his Sunday-go-to-meeting coat, and sent him home two miles wringing wet. So there were just 100, no more and no less; and I know that is true, for that young man who put God to the test in those days of ignorance stands before you this morning.

WHAT 3 JAP MAIDS DREAMED

(Maynard Owen Williams, in the Christian Herald.)

In 1871 five little girls, clad in kimonos of silk crepe and wearing the bright ornaments of girlhood in their hair, left the land of their birth to study in America. They were tiny tots, and only three of them stayed in America for any length of time. Those three became great friends, being the only little maids of their race in America, and, thanks to the way everything in Japan centers in Tokyo, they still see much of one another in the capital of their native land.

Once, when these small girls were lonely for their home in Chrysanthemum Land, they fell to making wishes. One said, "I want to marry for love, according to the American fashion." She met a young Annapolis naval officers from her country, and her wish came true. She is Baroness Uriu, whose husband has retired from an honored career which led up to his being admiral. She lost a son in the Russian war.

Another said, "I want to be a fine lady of power." She returned home and is today the wife of one of the much-maligned Genro, a man who won fame as commander-in-chief of the Manchurian army in the Russian War, in which she also lost a son. Princess Oyama had her wish.

The third had been the daughter of a farmer and had left her native land when only six years old. She had a wish which I think was the nicest of all. She said, "I don't want to get married. I want to help the girls of Japan to become noble women through careful education."

Miss Ume Tsuda is seeing her wish come true with the passing of each day. When I spoke to her about her wish to benefit the women of Japan, she said, "That was really the wish of all of us. But it has been my work. Princess Oyama and Baroness Uriu are both trustees of the school and co-operate in every way in the work we all want to see accomplished. But it so happens that I am the one whose privilege it is actually to direct the work."

I made two visits to her school and both were interesting. After the program which I first attended, Miss Tsuda asked, "How did you like it?" I expressed my sincere delight at the excellence of the work. My years of teaching English in the Orient made it possible for me to appreciate the quality of the recitations and dialogues. But it was the originality and the initiative shown that delighted Miss Tsuda. The program had been arranged by the girls themselves, and some of the features were a surprise even to their director.

"Do tell your American readers," she said, "that the Japanese women are not mere dolls and playthings, but that they really have something in them. That program shows how their personalities can find means of expression if they are only given a chance."

After the Saloon---What?

(By Rev. Charles A. Stelzle.)

Enthusiastic saloon fighters in some cities in which saloons have been closed are gayly declaring that the question of substitutes has settled itself—that "there is no need for substitutes."

One wonders how they know—for they never patronized saloons and of course do not miss them. But what about the average man who formerly found in the saloon certain features which satisfied social and physical needs?

These men have no organized way of expressing their loss, and there's no one who can speak officially for them. And as they do not call mass meetings or write to the papers, it is assumed that they are content.

The only way in which they do protest is when they vote the saloon back. And even after it has been clearly demonstrated that the closing of the saloon is a distinct economic advantage, these unorganized, "voiceless" men, acting as individuals, make the "silent ballot" talk for them. And the other folk wonder what mysterious influence made these workingmen vote for the saloon after they once decided that the saloon was a bad institution.

The closing of the saloon often means that in ending old abuses we create new problems.

Long years ago we were taught the lesson that a house swept and garnished is not sufficient. And this has a most vital relationship to the question of national or state-wide prohibition.

It is true that the evils of the saloon far outweigh the good that is in them—but there is good. The saloon is a social center, a restaurant, a restroom, a "comfort station," a club.

The fact that the saloons are closed does not necessarily prove that the need for these features no longer exists. Let us admit that there is no panacea which may be universally applied to meet the requirements. There is not even a "best" substitute.

There may be many substitutes for the saloon, and yet, for those who found their chief pleasure therein, there is no real substitute. This is another fact which must be frankly faced.

What we need to do is to try to discover what are the really good features of the saloon, and then to incorporate them in existing agencies, or organize new ones which will meet the situation.

Privacies of Family Life

(The Watchman-Examiner.)

With respect to many homes the phrase set at the head of this little preachment may seem mildly ironical. The famous chapter on "Snakes" in a certain history of Ireland is said to consist of a single sentence, "There are no snakes in Ireland." Similarly, thinking of some of the homes we know, possibly of most of them, we are more than a little inclined to sum up our discourse in the one sufficient sentence, "There are no privacies in the average family life."

The home is the place of the closest intimacies and the most inter-penetrating relationships. Nowhere else is the merely conventional and artificial so entirely laid aside, and are we so completely ourselves in recognition of and compliance with the ties and bonds that are basic and fundamental. The tendency of the idea of the family is to eliminate differences and to emphasize unities; to limit such expression of individuality as might prove devisive and to promote solidarity. The family slogan is: "Each for all and all for each." This when carried to an extreme, of course, disparages and discredits the idea of anything like privacy, or withdrawal, or seclusion for the individual, and makes the family a little commune, in which each member really has nothing in particular because theoretically each is supposed to have all in common with the rest.

It is not hard to visualize such a home. It may be your neighbor's; it may be your own. It is a home absolutely without privacy, like an eye without and eyelid. It is as open and defenseless as the unwalled desert, bounded only by the rim of the sky. Sometimes in such a home one feels a curious sense almost of shame. There are grown and growing young men and maidens in that home, as well as little children. Each has need of a thousand privacies, but no place or opportunity for one. Everything is open, shared, communal. The ways are all highways where all the members of the family march together. There are no little, wandering, individual paths where one may walk alone now and then with his own soul. There is no sanctuary with one's name graven over the door, wherein to go for retreat, for the thinking out of individual problems, or for the deposit and safe-keeping of one's particular possessions. Mary and Martha must not only share their room, but all the appurtenances thereof in such a way that neither has a corner distinctively her own in which she may keep what she will hidden from curious eyes and safe from meddlesome fingers. Young John comes home from the party, holding to his lips the wilted rosebud that Nan gave him as he left her at the door. It is precious to him, and he would keep it. But where? To be sure, he can lock it up in his trunk; but "mother and the girls" are forever scolding him for keeping his trunk locked; and besides he has had occasion more than once to suspect that there are other keys than his own about the house that will fit the lock of that trunk. And little Tom and little Sue have a world of treasures all their really own, and not a place in the world all their really own in which to keep them. Even where the right of private possession is granted the place for private possession is often virtually denied. In the ordering of the home we neglect to make provision for individual privacy, and in the living out of the home life we fail to recognize it. We insist upon throwing everything into the open. Sleeping rooms may be invaded at will, and bureau drawers rummaged at pleasure. Mary takes the liberty of wearing Martha's hat or brooch whenever she wishes, and when John looks for a certain necktie not infrequently he finds that Richard has appropriated it. And sometimes we actually plume ourselves on this condition of things. It seems to indicate an unusual measure of family spirit and fellowship. And we are a bit hurt if some member of the family does not quite relish so much promiscuity, and demands a certain degree of compliance with the rule of "Hands off!" in matters pertaining to him and to his. We do not seem to see—some of us—that for the truest family unity there must be the clearest recognition of and the most scrupulous respect paid to the individuality of the different members of the family. Each unit must have its own distinct place in the making up of the sum total.

This is a plea for a reasonable privacy for each within the boundaries of the common and comprehensive family life. Each should have some place, some part, some rights, some privileges which are recognized as distinctively and inalienably his own. Even the smallest child has just claim to this, and is robbed if it is not accorded him. Confidence should never be forced, nor rights invaded or overriden. Wherever possible each should have his own room, which should be his in more than a theoretical sense; but even where this is not possible there should be some part of the room, a closet, or a chest of drawers, or a trunk, of which he should have practically exclusive possession, subject to the oversight of good housekeeping. Whether or not these are locked is not of so much consequence as that the fact of his right to them is recognized and respected. There is an ethical principle underlying the whole matter. One has no more right to rummage the belongings, read the letters, wear the clothes, lend the books of another member of the family without permission than he would have to do these things, and things like them, if the person involved were a neighbor, and not a brother or sister. Rightly understood, one of the wisest and safest rules for the maintenance of the peace and fellowship in family life is, "Hands off!"

Fresh Air As Health Builder

Half of the air is night air. The person who does not make free use of it is laying the foundations for sickness and perhaps early death.

Keep Well

Some people cannot get the proper amount of fresh air in the daytime because of improperly ventilated workrooms or other circumstances over which they have no control. It is different at nighttime. There is absolutely no excuse for not having plenty of air in the bedroom.

When one breathes good air all night he is much refreshed in the morning and is better able to do a good day's work.

No indoor air is as good as the pure life-giving ozone of the out of doors. Damp, foggy air outside is more healthful than stale air indoors.

If you do not get exercise while at work, walk at least part of the way to and from it. Walking is the simplest and at the same time the best of all exercises.

One should also play outdoor games if he can. Now is the time to start tennis, golf or some other sport that takes one out of doors.

Spading and planting of a garden is also good exercise.

One should at all times breathe deeply, slowly and regularly, avoiding breathing through the mouth. Rapid breathing is harmful, but when one breathes deeply he absorbs an additional amount of oxygen, which is needed by the blood to keep us healthy.

Any method of breathing should bring the lungs fully into action, as in those parts that are idle the air stagnates. Microbes of pneumonia and tuberculosis are likely to find lodgment in the idle parts, where vitality is lowest.

Proper breathing demands that you hold yourself erect, with chest arched forward. A sunken chest limits the capacity of the lungs and makes weak points that invite infection.

COLDS ECONOMIC LOSS.

Health experts estimate that the economic loss due to colds each year is greater than the aggregate loss from floods.

Colds sweep through offices, stores and schools and employes will be absent for a day or two or their efficiency will be so impaired that they might as well be absent. There are vacant seats for a week at a time in many schools.

Just a common cold is not a simple matter for more reasons than one. It is no longer considered quite natural and perfectly normal for first one and then another member of a family to have a cold all winter long.

Colds are not to be trifled with, first, because they predispose to so many other diseases. They weaken the body and decrease its resistance, making it easy for ordinary colds to "run into" pneumonia, grip, bronchitis, rheumatism or even tuberculosis. Again there is danger of the cold organism getting into the blood stream and causing fever and other complications.

To prevent colds is more or less a matter of personal hygiene. Keep cool and avoid people with colds are probably the two most general and safest rules one can adopt. Temperance in eating and drinking is also effective.

As much of a cause of colds as are chilling and wetting they are not to be compared with overheating. To prevent colds, keep out of badly ventilated rooms. Rather than stand in a badly ventilated room, get out on the porch.

Dusty air causes colds. Avoid it. Keep the body warm and dry, keep out of hot places, keep out of foul air and your chances of catching cold are very much lessened.

RELIGION MAKES MEN

(By Rev. Charles Stelzle.)

"We have spent $1,250,000 on appliances in these cars to secure your safety," reads a poster in every subway car in New York.

And still they have accidents.

No wonder that they have added the line:

"Won't you help us by being careful?"

Same story with the doctors and sanitariums and chemists and all the other experts who have been working to make us healthy—but chiefly to keep us from getting sick.

"Won't you help us by being careful?"—they are beginning to say to us.

There's a point where these experts must stop—where it's plainly up to us—because after they've found out what's perilous for us and warned us to keep away from danger, their responsibility and principally their power ceases.

They cannot keep us healthy and free from accidents if we do not fight in our own way to avoid the causes of sickness and accidents.

The fight on diseases is chiefly a fight for character.

It's in the development of one's mind and in getting a grip on one's self that the average man will be healthy and free from physical weaknesses.

Because of this religion plays a big part in downing disease and in building up mind and body.

No man can long have a healthy body if his mind is weak and diseased.

And no man can have a healthy mind if his heart is weak and diseased and impure.

Fundamentally, it's a man's heart that makes or destroys him.

The greatest motive power in heart development is religion and all that it stands for.

Therefore, religion is the biggest single factor in making men.

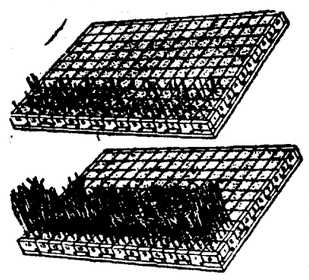
NEWS AND VIEWS OF THE FARMER

Do You Want Poor Crops? Then Plant Poor Seed

By V. W. SHOESMITH.

For the use of the beginner in picking out seed-corn, perhaps the best rules that could be given are as follows:

Select ears of medium size for your locality. The small-eared types which do not utilize the entire growing season will not produce a maximum yield. The large-eared types which are so late that they cannot mature a hard, solid ear also fail of maximum production and yield a product which is inferior both for the market and home consumption.



SEED TESTER.

No. 1. Sand Tray showing corn seven days after planting.
No. 2, Sand Tray showing corn twelve days after planting.

Select ears that are very heavy for their size. The yield seems to be more closely associated with weight of ear than any other quality.

Select ears of bright, healthy color. Ears of a dull or pale color are usually immature or have been exposed to the weather; their seed condition is apt to be poor and the vitality of the plants low.

Select ears with grains of uniform size and shape. Aside from its indication of trueness to type, uniformity of grain is of considerable importance in getting an even distribution of seed and a uniform stand.

To test seed corn for germination is essential to modern methods of corn-production. The poor stand of corn is largely responsible for the low average yield, and it is impossible to get a good stand without good, strong seed.

No one can identify and discard all the ears of poor germinating qualities without the aid of a germinating test.

A familiarity with these points may be had by going over the seed-corn several times and studying one quality at a time. Notice how great a variation may be found in each quality and decide what types should be used as a practical standard.

As a means of selecting the best seed-corn, doubtless the adaptability, maturity, seed condition, amount of grain and uniformity of grain are among the important qualities.

ACTIVITIES OF STABLE FLY MAY BE CONTROLLED BY PROPER CARE OF STRAW STACK

This Tormentor of Live Stock and Carrier of Diseases is Known to Have Caused $25,000 Damage in Just One State In One Year—The Loss In Reduction In the Milk Supply In the Same State May Reasonably Be Placed at $10,000 More and Other Losses Even Surpass These Two Items.

By F. C. BISHOPP.

Besides literally worrying cattle, mules and horses to death and killing them by extracting their blood, the deadly fly also transmits disease from one animal to another. A tropical sickness known as surra is undoubtedly transmitted thus. Fortunately this does not occur in the United States at present, but unless great care is exercised in importing stock it may be introduced at any time and the deadly fly given a chance to spread it. A related disease of cattle, horses and sheep, known as souma, and a malady of hogs and cats are also carried, at least in part, by this same insect.

Investigators consider the fly to be an agent in transmitting glanders, while a disease known as infectious anemia or swamp fever of horses is thought by some to be carried by this fly. A number of years ago it was found to act as a transmitter of a species of roundworm that infects cattle.

Animals weakened by loss of blood are more prone to contract other diseases. "Texas fever" in an acute form often attacks live stock that has become less energetic in fighting with stable flies. The joints of both horses and cattle sometimes become so swollen from standing in water where they sought protection from flies, that they can hardly walk.

Man Not Immune from Attack of Stable Fly.

Even man may be inoculated with disease by this pest. Septicemia (blood-poisoning) is considered to be carried by it and demonstrations of famous physicians have pointed to the possibility of the transmission of infantile paralysis in the same manner. Thus it will be seen that the transmission of a formidable array of diseases is chargeable to the stable fly.

The stable fly is one of the most widely distributed of insects, being common in both tropical and temperate regions where domestic animals are reared. In regions bordering on the Tropics the flies are of importance throughout the entire year. In the extreme southern part of our country there is no month during the year in which flies are not annoying to horses and cattle. In the northern states, the fly is particularly injurious and abundant in the late summer and fall.

Investigations made during recent years showed clearly that the vast majority of stable flies bred in straw stacks. It was also shown that while the fly breeds in pure horse manure, it favors a mixture of this substance with straw.

The fly was found to be breeding in much greater abundance in oat straw than in wheat straw. Rice straw was also found to furnish suitable breeding conditions and there is little doubt that barley and rye also serve as food for the immature stages of the insect. The development of this insect is somewhat slower than that of the house fly and it is therefore quite necessary that the eggs be deposited in rather large quantities of material for it to breed out successfully.

How To Control This Pest.

As with most insects, the destruction of this one when it is actually doing the injury is what is most desired by those concerned. With this species, as with many others, this is the most difficult time to accomplish the desired result.

During a recent outbreak in Texas many different substances were tried with a view of repelling the flies from live stock. Although some materials gave a measure of protection for a time, none had a lasting effect. In addition to the temporary value of these substances, injury was sometimes produced by their application. Many malodorous mixtures, particularly of an oily nature, have some value, but in preparing these care should be taken that they are not made too strong, particularly when animals are being worked in the hot sun. If they are made too strong they are likely to cause overheating of the animal and produce shedding of the hair.

An Effective Mixture To Repel the Stable Fly.

A mixture of fish oil (1 gallon), oil of pine tar (2 ounces), oil of Pennyroyal (2 ounces), and kerosene (½ pint) was found to be very effective in keeping the flies off live stock when

Proper Care of Straw Stacks the Most Important Steps.

Since straw stacks have been found to be the principal breeding places of this insect in the grain belt, the proper care of the straw is by far the most important step in control. The straw should be stacked more carefully than is ordinarily done, by making the sides of the stack nearly vertical and rounding it up well on top in order the better to shed the rain.

All straw not required for winter feed should be disposed of immediately by burning or by scattering it over the land soon after threshing and subsequently plowing it under, or by burning the stacks. The plowing under of the straw is the most advisable method of procedure, as by this practice large amounts of humus are added to the soil.

All stacks not consumed by stock during the winter should be promptly disposed of in the early spring. This may be accomplished in the same way as has been suggested for the fall.

Heavy rainfall on freshly threshed straw, produced an unusual outbreak of flies by rendering the straw largely unfit for food for live stock and thus offering breeding places. In such instances their immediate destruction by burning or scattering is necessary to relieve the condition. The work should be done thoroughly, and when the stacks are scattered all the straw should be completely exposed to the influence of the elements.

It is best to plow under the scattered straw soon after it has become well dried out. In sections of the country where headers instead of binders are used, the straw is much more easily disposed of. The general adoption of the field threshers would completely solve the question of the straw stack. It is reported that this machine reduces the expense of harvesting from 14 to 2 cents per acre and the straw is left standing in the field. The chaff is scattered over the ground and the entire refuse turned under at plowing time.

The use of poisons to destroy immature flies is neither practical nor advisable.

Typhoid Fly Facts.

1. Where do young flies live? In filth and manure.
2. Where do flies first dirty their mouths and feet? In every kind of filth imaginable.
3. Is anything too dirty or bad smelling for flies to eat? NO.
4. Where does the fly go when it flies from the vault, the manure pile or the spittoon? (a) It may wipe its feet upon the clean lips of your sleeping baby; (b) It may carry germs into the open wound on your hand; (c) It may track over the butter, the meat, or take a bath in the milk.
5. Is the fly merely a nuisance? NO. It is very dangerous.
6. Why is the fly considered dangerous? It is man's worst pest. It is more dangerous than rattle snakes or tarantula. It carries deadly infectious diseases.
7. What diseases does the fly carry? It carries typhoid fever, tuberculosis, and various intestinal diseases.
8. How does the fly carry disease germs? The germs stick to its legs, mouth-parts, hairs, wings and feelers.
9. What is the correct name of this human pest? The TYPHOID FEVER FLY.
10. Has it ever caused anyone's death? It killed more American soldiers in the Spanish-American War than all the weapons of the Spaniards. It has killed thousands of soldiers during the present European War.
11. Why is typhoid fever so prevalent during the summer and fall? Because flies are most numerous during those seasons.
12. Why is typhoid fever common in one community and not in another? Largely because the common house-fly is abundant in one locality and is controlled in the other.
13. Where are flies most abundant? Where there is most filth.
14. How shall we kill the fly? (a) Destroy all filth about the house and yard; (b) Put lime into the vault and over the manure; (c) Trap all flies before they enter your home by using wire fly-traps; (d) Kill all flies, large or small, with a "swatter;" (e) Use sticky fly paper or fly poisons around the house or store; (f) Pour a borax solution over manure, filth or other places where the fly may rear its young.

The Fly a Peril in Cities.

In the fight against the deadly house fly the public should understand the odds against which it contends to rid cities of this pest and the vigilance necessary to obtain even a modicum of safety where the insects exist.

Each female fly lays 120 eggs, which hatch in eight hours. Ten days later the new generation is in flight, carrying on the work of death. It is estimated that the progeny of a single pair in one season is ONE SEXTILLION, or, in figures, 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000.

Manure, garage, and other filth are the breeding spots of flies. The department of agriculture in its experiments has found larvae and pupaeria enough in a pound of horse manure to make 1,200 house flies. A single ill-kept stable will supply house flies for a large territory.

There is hope of greatly lessening the pest in cities if the authorities will enforce good ordinances on the subject of removing manure and garbage promptly. The increase in automobiles and auto trucks has already aided in exterminating flies. Horse owners can help the crusade by mixing chloride of lime with the manure in the ratio of a quarter of a pound of the former to eight quarts of the latter. A still cheaper and more effective destroyer of the larvae is kerosene, a pint of which sprayed upon every eight quarts of manure will kill the maggots.

So far as the dwelling house is concerned there are a number of effective ways of destroying the flies. Carbolic acid is one. Twenty drops of this on a heated shovel or anything of the kind will kill the insects by its vapor. But as this is a dangerous thing to have in the house where young children are, it would be better to get something harmless and yet effective.

Buy one dram of bichromate of potash at a drug store. Dissolve it in two ounces of water, add a little sugar, and place the mixture in shallow dishes about the house.

Another good remedy is formalin or formaldehyde. A spoonful of this in a quarter of a pint of water will kill all the flies. As this is a poison, it must be placed where children cannot reach it.

When a room is found full of flies they may all be instantly destroyed by the use of pyrethrum powder. Close the doors and windows and pull down all the shades except one, which leave up about a foot. Take into the room a tablespoonful of the powder on a hot shovel. The fumes will drive the flies in their death struggle toward the foot of light at the window. There they will fall dead and may easily be swept out.

There are various kinds of sticky fly paper, traps, etc. The papers should be burned when they have done their work.

Screen every window and door of your house and keep the screens on till you start up your furnace.

Have separate screen covers for food which must be exposed in pantry and kitchen.

Let Cleanliness, and Cleanliness, and yet more Cleanliness be your motto all summer long.

Important Don'ts.

Don't dine at a hotel, boarding house, or restaurant where flies are tolerated.

Don't allow flies in your house.

Don't permit them near your food, especially milk.

Don't buy food where flies are permitted.

Don't allow them in a sickroom.

Horned Larks Destroy Many Insect Pests

By W. L. McATEE.

Horned larks are small but hardy birds which frequent the open country and never live in forests. They range over practically the whole United States, and are easily recognized by the conspicuous black mark across the breast and the small pointed tufts of dark-colored feathers behind the eyes. These are often erected and cause the appearance referred to in the common name. These birds nest early, often before all the snow has disappeared, and they have a joyous flight song in the mating season.

The food of horned larks, exclusive of those of southern California, consists of 20.6 per cent of animal and 79.4 per cent of vegetable matter. Not quite a sixth of the vegetable food is grain, mostly waste, though some sprouting grain is pulled. This is the most serious charge against the birds and is sustained, but it must be admitted that practically all the complaints were made years ago, when broadcast sowing was the rule. Recent correspondence shows that drilled grain is practically safe from injury.

Weed seeds are by far the largest single component (63.9 per cent) of the food of horned larks, and over 10 per cent of the 1,154 birds examined had eaten them, no fewer than 206 individuals having fed on them exclusively. Conspicuous among the weed seeds eaten are those of the foxtail grasses, smartweeds, bindweeds, amaranth, pigweeds, purslane, ragweed, and crab and barn grasses. Horned larks are among the most efficient weed-destroying birds.

The insect food of these birds includes such pests as May beetles and their larvae, the white grubs, leaf beetles injurious to strawberries, cabbage, melons, and sugar beets, clover-leaf and clover-root weevils, potato-stalk borers, nut weevils, bill bugs, and the chinch bug. Grasshoppers are a favorite food; cut-worms are eaten freely.

EARLY HATCHING BRINGS WINTER EGGS

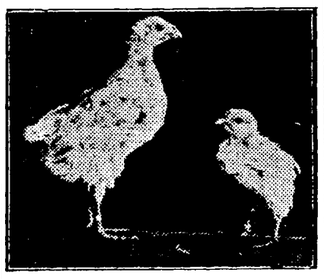
A Simple Way For Poultry Owners to Profit From High Prices in Fall and Winter.

Early hatching is the secret of winter egg production. The pullet that is hatched early matures early and is ready to lay eggs in the fall when the supply is scarcest and prices highest. Chickens that are expected to be revenue producers for their owners later in the year should be out of their shells by April 30th, at the latest. If they are properly cared for thereafter they will begin to lay eggs at the very time that eggs are most wanted.

To a great extent the poultrymen of the country have overlooked this simple fact. For one thing, birds hatched later in the spring or summer are not inclined to become broody until late the following season and thus an unprofitable circle is formed. Each year pullets mature too late to produce in the fall and winter, and they sit too late for their offspring to do any better. The poultryman who wishes to get really good returns from his flock must break this circle.

The growing use of incubators has made this comparatively easier. There is no reason why incubators should not be filled in March and early April and the hatching over before May 1st. If no incubator is available it may be possible to secure broody hens in the neighborhood. That they will repay the trouble and expense necessary to obtain them, is indicated by results at the government poultry farm in Maryland. There it is not unusual to get a daily average of one egg for every five hens throughout the fall and winter, and in some pens the average has been as high as one egg for three birds. If anything like this percentage could be obtained on farms, the ordinary poultry farmer would derive real benefit from the high prices which eggs invariably bring for a period of several months.

The question of the use of incubators resolves itself into this: Do you want the maximum of profit from the number of fowls which you keep? If so, an incubator is a necessity. If the amount of profit is of no importance, then there is no real need for a machine. March and April are the two most profitable months for hatching, and not enough hens will become broody before the last of March to satisfy the demands of the average farm flock. The incubator enables the owner to control the date of hatching and maturity of his chicks—a very important item in the success of the business.



Two White Wyandottes. Both same age and raised, fed and brooded in same way. An example of proper and improper methods of selection and breeding.

One difficulty in setting eggs in spring at selected dates if the natural system of incubation is followed is in finding broody hens at the proper times. If natural incubation is depended upon exclusively it probably will be best for the poultry raiser to disregard dates and make settings whenever broody hens are available. A good nest for setting is made of wood, 15 inches square and about 15 inches high, with a top. The front is open except for a board 6 inches high. Three or four inches of damp earth should be placed in such a nest and on this straw, hay, or chaff should be firmly packed. The hens should be dusted thoroughly with insect powder. It is a good plan, also, to sprinkle a little of the powder in the nests.

KINDNESS.

The farmer, who regards his dairy cattle as dirty machines that thrive on abuse, will never make any money in the dairy business, while the cattle owner who appreciates good dairy cows and treats them with kindness will like farming and will prosper on the returns from his cows.

The automobile and suburban electric lines now bring the farm near to town, where city and village life can be a part of farm life.

FIG TREE COMMON.

The fig tree is common in Palestine. Mount Olivet was famous for its fig trees in ancient times, and they are still found there. "To sit under one's own vine and one's own figtree" was an expression among the Jews to denote peace and prosperity.

Plan your garden so it can be tilled with horse machinery.

The demand for municipal distribution of milk is steadily growing.

Corn Pests May Be Controlled By Proper Plowing

After the corn-root louse, root-worm, grubworm, and wireworm have attacked the corn field, it will be too late for effective control measures. Remedies for these pests must be applied during fall and winter. These insects feed below ground and are most effectively controlled by fall or winter plowing, clean culture, and crop rotation.

The root louse winters as the egg in the nests of the small corn field ant. By winter plowing these ant nests are broken up and the ants, as well as the louse eggs, are destroyed. The eggs of the northern rootworm are deposited by the beetle during fall in corn fields and since the grub on hatching the following spring will feed only on the roots of corn, apparently crop rotation is entirely effective. Some of the grubworms and wireworms require two or three years to mature. They winter in the soil where winter plowing will destroy many. They breed largely in sod. Therefore, if a field of sod is to be used for corn in the spring, plow it in late fall, if possible. Should dry weather permit before freezing weather is over, winter plowing will eliminate a great many of the insects which ordinarily attack corn in the spring.

BEES MUST BE WELL FED.

Sufficient food is essential. Every colony should have at least thirty pounds of honey. White clover honey is best, although any white honey is good. Dark honey should be used sparingly; and honeydew honey not at all, on account of the waste it contains. Bees never deposit fecal waste in the hive, but retain it in the large intestine, where it causes dysentery unless soon passed out. In attempting to rid themselves of this, the bees fly forth on cold days, become chilled and never find their way back.

COLD RAINS INJURIOUS TO COLTS.

The exposure of young horses to the short spells of severe weather which occur frequently during the fall, causes a shrinkage in live weight and is a hindrance to rapid and economical development. Older horses seem to stand this sort of treatment with less loss. It is doubtless true that animals become accustomed to winter weather, but frequent changes from fine fall weather to bad storms retard gains in colts without shelter.

KILLING GROUND SQUIRRELS.

The extermination of ground squirrels from approximately 200,000 acres of Government land was accomplished last year by the Biological Survey.

An Apple Pest

The dock false-worm is the larva of a sawfly found all over Europe and in Canada and the northern part of the United States, from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The larva is a green, wormlike creature, which feeds on dock and related plants; frequently, however, where conditions are favorable, it finds its way at maturity into apple trees, where it bores into the apples to hibernate, making them unsalable.

The dock false-worm has four generations annually, each generation occupying roughly a month, except the fourth, the larvae of which hibernate and complete their development the following spring. Only the larvae of this last generation are known to bore into apples.

A number of parasites have been reared, both from the egg and from the full-grown larva, and while these are valuable in partially controlling the false-worm, probably they will never control it absolutely.

TESTING SOIL.

The most common test for determining if soil is acid or sour is by means of blue litmus paper, which can be obtained at a very small cost from nearly every druggist. A small quantity of moist soil from the field is compacted into a ball, the ball broken into halves, a strip of litmus paper laid across one part and the parts pressed firmly together again. After an hour or so the ball of soil should be again broken apart and the paper removed. If the paper shows a decided pink color the sample of soil is acid. If a deep-rooted crop such as alfalfa is to be grown it will be well to test samples taken from both the surface soil and the subsoil.

THE SOY BEAN.

In 1915 the United States imported more than 3,837,000 pounds of soy beans, valued at approximately $87,000; nearly 6,000,000 pounds of cake, valued at $64,000; and over 19,000,000 pounds of oil valued at nearly $900,000.

Don't plant more than enough apples to supply home use, unless they can be well taken care of.

Chinch-Bugs Are Waiting for Corn and Wheat Crops

The chinch-bug is primarily a pest of grass-like crops. It winters in dry rubbish such as large clumps of grass in fields and along waysides, in leaves, straw, and similar material. The adults fly to wheat fields or other crops in the spring to feed and lay eggs for the spring brood of bugs. These are nearly mature when wheat is cut and will migrate to corn or other green crops where they feed and lay eggs for the fall or winter-over brood. Mr. Haseman of the Missouri College of Agriculture suggests that all favorable wintering places be burned as the best control measure. During summer, dust, tar, or oil barriers can be used to keep the swarms from reaching the corn. The bugs must not be allowed to reach the corn field before the barriers are used.

The best time to use fire control is in the fall when the rubbish in which the insects winter is dry. Farmers have generally neglected to apply the torch, but effective work may still be done, if the weather is dry enough to permit burning winter quarters of the insect. Obviously the most effective control can be had by co-operation and community action.

CARING FOR THE DAIRY HERD.

In winter, when cows are stabled the greater part of the time, they should be watered two or three times a day unless arrangements have been made to keep water before them at all times. The water should, if possible, be 15 degrees or 20 degrees above the freezing point, and should be supplied at practically the same temperature every day. When water well above freezing temperature is stored in tanks and piped directly to the cow, there is probably little occasion for facilities to warm it. When it stands in a tank on which ice often forms, it usually pays well to warm it slightly. This can be done by a tank heater, by live steam, or by hot water from a boiler. If a boiler is used for running a separator or for heating water to wash and sterilize utensils, steam from it can readily and cheaply be used to warm the water.

POTATOES.

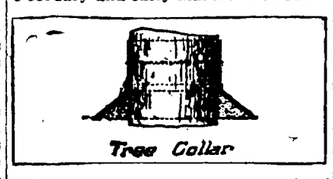
Irish potatoes and most other vegetables and fruits tend to make the body tissues and fluids alkaline, so correcting the tendency of meat, eggs, fish and similar foods to create acid conditions. Since the body performs its work best when it is neutral or slightly alkaline, this function of fruits and vegetables is important, especially to the hearty meat eater.

The farm buildings ever require something done in the way of repairs.

BAND PROTECTS TREES FROM WORMS

To Most Effectually Prevent Damage By Various Pests, Trees Should Be Banded In Early Spring.

Elm and hackberry shade trees may be banded during February to protect them from measuring worms later in the season. The bands prevent the wingless female moths, which are the parents of measuring worms, from climbing the trunk. According to T. J. Talbert of the Missouri College of Agriculture, the moths begin to emerge from their resting stage in the ground, during the first warm days of February and early March. For banding to be effective the work must be done early enough to prevent the wingless female moths from climbing the trees to lay their eggs.



Tree Collar

The under side of this collar is made of gummed paper, which prevents the ascent of insects and worms. The upper side is made of tarred paper or other waterproof material, which protects the gummed paper from rain.

The best results in banding trees is usually secured by placing around the trunk of the tree a strip of cotton batting about four or five inches wide. The cotton is used to fill the cracks and crevices in the rough bark and prevent the moths from crawling under the bands. A band of stiff paper like building paper eight or ten inches wide is then placed over the cotton band and the surface of the paper should be smoothly covered with some sticky substance like pine tar, printers' ink, coal tar or tree tangle foot. The best sticky substance to use, however, is tree tangle foot as it will stay sticky longer than the other substances and is not so stiff. These sticky mixtures may be applied to the bark of the tree but they may disfigure the trees badly for several years. It may be necessary to renew the bands from time to time with the sticky material especially if the tangle foot becomes hard or stiff or covered over with the bodies of dead moths.

The use of bands is especially recommended on very large rough barked elm or hackberry trees that it would be difficult and expensive to spray. Maples and oaks are not badly attacked by the pest.

An apple insect pest (a green worm) which in its attack on the fruit somewhat resembles the codling moth may be controlled by tree-banding. The insect is known as the dock false-worm, and feeds upon certain succulent plants such as the docks, knotweeds, and bindweeds. When these occur in an orchard the worm makes its way up the trunk of the tree and burrows into the fruit, causing it to rot. There can be little or no danger from this insect in clean-cultivated orchards or in orchards where its food plants do not exist. However, where a perennial cover crop such as alfalfa is grown, other control measures must be taken.

Efficient protection may be secured by banding the trees with cotton batting or with some sticky substance. In experiments by the Department of Agriculture an 8-inch strip of cotton batting was placed about the trunk of each tree and tied with a cord about the middle. The upper half of the cotton band was then rolled down over the cord. Good results also were obtained by applying to the trunks of the trees a band of a commercial sticky substance one-eighth inch thick and three inches wide. The lower limbs of the trees should be kept well up from the ground, and any props used also should be banded. Bands should be put on in the latter part of August and left on until after the fruit is harvested.

SHOULD OBTAIN IN ALL STATES.

Compulsory spraying is applied on the Pacific Coast. No matter whether a man "believes" in spraying, or whether he is too lazy to spray, or whether he lives in some distant state and cannot be on the job, his trees must be sprayed. The law requires ... And the law goes still further in some sections and makes it hot for the man who attempts to market codling moths or San Jose scale in the guise of apples.

The garden requires constant care, but it is worth it.

BEES DIE FROM LACK OF PROTECTION.

Lack of protection does not kill directly and this fact has caused some beekeepers to imagine that bees needed no winter protection. Lack of protection causes a loss of heat, consequently more heat must be generated by muscular exertion and more food must be eaten to supply the energy. This overeating causes dysentery and other intestinal disorders harmful to the colony, which may die or come through the winter too weak to produce much surplus honey.

The reserve force is what tells.

"APRILE FOOL" EDDYTORIUL

Being as Aprile 1st (or in uther wds., "All Fools Day") falls on the holy Sabbath this yr. whitch is today, Bingville folks selebrated yesterday (Satterday) as Aprile Fool Day ruthern wait until Monday whitch is termorrer.

Aprile Fool Day was quite a sucksess in our midst according to what we have heerd and quite a number of our most respeckted citizens was made fools of during the day by a few of our practikal jokers who aint got no respeckt for age or ennythink else we mite say.

Wes Woodruff our expert hunter & trapper foold Cy Hoskins turrible and Cys maddern a wet hen about it too. Erly yesterday morning Wes he went to Cy and told him that he had happend to be down Snake Bend way on Friday (whitch was the day before) and had happend to see Malachi Wilkins and that Malachi had told Wes to please tell Cy Hoskins when he got back to Bingville that he desired to borry $1000 from him and would give him a mortgage on his farm as securitty and also that he needed the munny so bad that he would pay Cy 10 perct. intrust on the $1000 whitch as ennybuddy who has enny head for figgers kin calkilate up would amt. to $100 per annum whitch certingly is a handsome rate of intrust.

Well, when Wes told Cy that Cys eyes begin to sparkel and he started in to rub his hands in anticipashion and thankd Wes kindly for delivering the message and said he would make a rangements to get down to Snake Bend before sunset that day or bust fer fear Malachi mite git outen the noshion of paying sitch a big rate of intrust. Cy said it was a opportoonitty that he couldnt aford to miss being as a rule he diddent git moren 7 or 8 percent intrust on morgages, altho he allus got all he could squeeze outen them as he held morgages aginst.

Everybuddy knows that Cy Hoskins has made every cent he has in the world by jest foreclosink morgages on widders & orfans and others who was at his mercy. Everybuddy also knows that Cy Hoskins has the 1st doller he ever ernt in this world and that he will hang onto it like grim deth until he passes into the next world. Cy is so stingy that he begrudges a duck a drink outer the crick whitch runs thru his pastchure.

Well, Cy's old bald-faced mare happend to be sick and being as this mare is the only horse he has poor Cy had to go and hire a horse from Enoch Smiley who charged him a doller for the use of it altho Cy he beat Enoch down to this price from a doller and a haff. Cy hitched up the horse (or ruther mare) to his buggy and he driv licketty split down to Snake Bend and hunted up Malachi and told him that he would be willin to lend him the thousand dollers he wanted perviding Malachi would give him 1st morgage on his farm and pay him 10 perct. intrust as he had told Wes Woodruff he was willin to do.

Malachi lookd at Cy with his mouth open and wanted to know whot in Sam Hill he was talkin about being as it wassent clear to him. Then Cy explained what Wes had told him and Malachi begin to laff right in Cys fase and told Cy that being as he haddent saw hide nor hair of Wes Woodruff for at least a munth he calkilated that Wes was jest putting up a leetle Aprile Fool joke on him. When Cy reulised this was moren likely he got mad, so Malachi says, and shuk his fists and swore somethink awful, altho Cy is a stanch piller in the Bingville Church and goes evry Sabbath and contributes to the collecksion plate all the Canadian dimes and coins with holes in em whitch he happens to git in the course of bizness.

Mrs. Seth Dewberry wife of our lion hearted town constubble fooled Seth like everythink jest after midnite on Aprile Fool day morning.

Mrs. Dewberry happend to wake up jest after midnite and it ockurd to her that it was Aprile Fool day and she thort she would fool Seth if possibil who was a layin there beside her in bed sound asleep and snorin his fool head off and makin sitch a turrible racket that she couldnt git to sleep agin and she thinks that whot woke her up in the 1st place, so she thort she would not only fool her husband, but also put a stop to his snoring so she give him a sharp nudge in the ribs and Seth he rubd his eyes and set up in bed with his hair all standin on end and desired to know what Mary Jane wanted—that's his wifes name—Mary Jane.

Then Mary Jane told Seth to for goodness sake git up and go down and anser the front door becuz sumbuddy was knockin and was probly in distress so Seth he gits outen bed haff asleep and without stopin to put on his pants he starts down the stairs when he happens to think it mite be a burglar wanting in at that hour of the nite so he come back and got his six shooter revolver and snuk down stairs and opend the door with one hand and the revolver in tother but of course there wassent nobuddy there and Seth closed the door in disgust and started up the stairs in the dark and stubd the toe of his bare foot and fell and the revolver whitch was cockd went off and the bullet went so clost to Seths bare foot that he sed he felt the splinters hit agin his heel!

When he got back up stairs he told Mary Jane that if there had been ennybuddy there they had got scairt and run afore he opend the door, then she hollerd "Aprile Fool!" and begin to screem and laff.

Seth got turrible mad. He told Mary Jane purty plain that he diddent see enny joke in beink woked up outen a sound sleep in the middle of the nite and that in his opinyun she was a bigger Aprile Fool than he was. Mary Janes a purty smart woman and when her own husbind cald her a fool she lost her temper rite there and stopd laffin. Hauling off Mary Jane hit Seth a belt acrost the mouth with her hand that made him see stars and loosened two teeth. Seth diddent retallyate becuz he knows Mary Jane well enuff not to do that.

All Seth tride to do was to crawl back into bed agin meek as Moses and he was willin to let bygones be bygones as we mite say, but Mary Jane wassent becuz she hit him another clout and told him that she wouldnt be saw sleepin in the same bed with a husband that cald his wife a fool and not only that but to git outen the room and find somewheres else to sleep than with her.

Poor Seth knowd that whot Mary Jane said was law so he drest and went down stairs and slep till mornin on the floor with the dog.

There is several other instantces of others being Aprile Fooled in Bingville, but we persoom these two as give above will soofice.

MAGNATE HEADING A PATRIOT'S LEAGUE

Rich Men Too Old to Go to War Aid Families of Warriors.

Los Angeles, March 24.—A group of rich Americans too old fight, headed by E. L. Doheny, "Oil King," has organized the Practical Patroits' League in this city. The purpose of this organization is to encourage enlistment in the Naval Reserve of California.

At the first meeting of this remarkable association, held at Doheny's palatial home here, a fund of $110,000 was donated for the support of families of men who belong to the naval reserve and who will fight in case war is declared.

For the present the Practical Patriots' League is centering its efforts on the naval reserve, because it believes the navy will be the nation's first line of defense in the event of hostilities.

In contributing to the fund of this league no money is accepted from men physically able to fight. Only those barred by age or other infirmities are permitted to subscribe.

According to President Doheny, practical preparedness is the aim of the league. He quoted from an eminent English nobleman, who said the soldier is voteless, voiceless and penniless.

"It is our duty," said President Doheny, "to see that he is not penniless and that his family will at least be cared for in the event that he must pay to his country the full measure of devotion."

The famous oil man subscribed more than $50,000 to the fund, and announced that he would meet dollar ofr dollar the total donations of all other members of the league.

E. L. Doheny is one of America's most picturesque financiers. His career has been fully as adventurous and been - udo a,a-gld4oHrs cmfwyp mf romantic as that of the famous "Lucky" Baldwin. His oil interests in both America and Mexico are greater than those of any other individual oil man. He is many times a millionaire.

On the last presidential election the patriotic oil king won half a million dollars on a single wager, and said it was a very small matter. "Had I lost," he said, "it would have caused me no more concern than the matter of winning has—which is no concern at all."

Other men conspicuous in the work of organizing the Practical Patriots are President George F. Bovard, of the University of Southern California and Captain Williams, U. S. A., commander of the battleship Oregon.

In a speech before the league Captain Williams pointed out the terrible cost of unpreparedness to the United States in the past. He also mentioned the shortage of seamen and officers in the navy at present.

"If an effort were made to arm all vessels in the navy properly," said Captain Williams, "there would be a shortage of 100,000 men."

Practical work, such as the league is bringing about, is what is needed, the captain stated, to encourage men to go into the navy.

"We must come back to see that when men come back from serving their country they will not find their families in want and every avenue of employment closed to them."

"THREE FATES"—THREE SCHEMING WOMEN BEHIND FALL OF THE ROMANOFFS.

(By Mary Boyle O'Reilly.)

New York, March 24.—There are Three Fates behind the Russian revolution—three women, the ex-czar's nearest and dearest, who played upon their victim's known weakness to enhance their own power and who succeeded in bringing down the very dynasty for which they intrigued.

Marie Feodorovan, dowager empress of Russia, and mother of the czar, was the most powerful political personage in the empire.

When, in 1905, the world's protest against horrors like Kischenef and Odessa startled the czar into an hysterical wish for reform, the astute empress mother induced her son to receive two "extraordinary astrologers." These men, primed for their task, produced diagrams to prove that Nicholas II. would triumph over all his enemies about 1916; but they did not produce the gold given them by the czaritsa for influencing the ruler of Russia.

Czarina Alix is known all over Russia as the Empress of Bad Luck. Few queens have been more unhappy.

The Cinderella of the Russian court, capricious and harsh-tempered, with a Prussian capacity for calling a spade a spade, soon gave cause for offense.

Determined that none but grand dames above reproach should be received at her court, Alix, of Hesse, inaugurated a social spy system to unearth long forgotten scandals.

Petrograd society boycotted the palace, was warmly welcomed by the dowager empress, and war to the tongue's edge followed.

Mother of four unwanted daughters and constantly longing for an heir to the throne, Alix sought comfort in the occult.

Presently Elizabeth, Grand Duchess Serge, now a nun in a Moscow convent, sent to her imperial sister the monk Gregory Rasputin, warning the neurotic empress that so long as Rasputin consented to remain at Tzarskoe Selo she and her children would be safe. Elizabeth had shrewdly installed an intrepid German agent behind the imperial throne; a hundred million moujiks recognized that menace.

Last, but not least, of the Three Fates is Grand Duchess Xenia, Czar Nicholas' elder sister—a second edition of her Danish mother, married to her cousin, Alexander Michaelovitch, an intriguer of morbid intelligence. Husband and wife were past masters in the art of controlling the czar.

Alexander Michaelovitch, owner of vast forests in Siberia, insisted it was his imperial prerogative to supply the Trans-Siberian railway with sleepers and fuel at his own price. In 1903 he sent the minister of the interior a new contract with prices doubled. M. Witte returned the document unsigned. Alexander rushed to the emperor denouncing Witte's "revolutionary behavior." In three days the great minister was dismissed; his successor signed.

Not content with her husband's Siberian graft, Grand Duchess Xenia determined to induce her brother to approve the exploitation of immense tracts of land near Yalu in Korea, and to finance a company. Nicholas II. hesitated. But Xenia raised the shade of their ancestor, Alexander II., conqueror of Turkey, to advocate the scheme.

"Nickie," entirely convinced, promptly subscribed six million roubles. The grand duchess' company as promptly erected fortifications: Japan protested, Russia cogitated, and the Russo-Japanese war followed.

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC.

Notice is hereby given by the Board of Public Works that it has determined the form in which a certain franchise to Louis J. Novitsky is to be adopted, which franchise, under an act passed by the General Assembly, approved March 6th, 1913, is herein set out:

THIS AGREEMENT, made this 22nd day of March, 1917, by and through its Board of Public Works, party of the first part and Louis J. Novitsky, party of the second part, witnesseth:

WHEREAS, The party of the second part desires to procure a sidetrack across Hanover street connecting the two side tracks now maintained by said Novitsky on his property on each side of Hanover street, now,

THEREFORE, in consideration of the covenants and agreements to be performed and complied with by the party of the second part as hereinafter provided, consent, permission and authority are hereby granted and given by the party of the first part to the party of the second part, to construct, maintain and operate, or cause to be operated, a single track railroad just immediately north of the right of way of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railway company and connecting the two sidetracks now maintained by said second party on his own property on each side of said Hanover street all as shown by a blue print attached hereto and made a part hereof and marked and indicated by white dotted lines marked "A". No car or cars to be operated upon said track between the hours of 8 o'clock p. m. and 6 o'clock a. m.

It is understood and agreed that the consent, permission and authority herein given and granted are upon the following terms and conditions:

1. The party of the second part, if it desires to avail itself of the benefits of the consent, permission and authority herein granted, shall cause the complete construction of said track within nine months from the date hereof, and in the event that it so avails itself of such grant, permission, consent and authority then it shall cause the complete construction of said track within sixty days from the time it commences work thereon and within the period of nine months as above stated, and shall at no time in the construction of said track, occupy for such purposes any of the streets above mentioned for any length of time in excess of five days, but in the event that party of the second part is prevented from complying with any of the above conditions by reason of any judgment of any court, then said Board of Public Works may grant a reasonable extension of time as to any one of the above provisions.

2. Said track shall be submerged in cinders, leaving only a small portion of the top of the rail protruding, and shall not be elevated above and shall be constructed and maintained so as to at all times conform with the established grade of the streets and alley hereinbefore named, as such grade shall from time to time exist, and in such manner as to in no way be an impediment to the ordinary and proper use thereof for all purposes by the public in passing along upon and across said track at any point thereon. That said track, and the rails thereof, shall conform with the grades of the streets and alley now established, or to be hereafter established, by said city and subject at all times to be taken up and relaid by said party of the second part, at its own expense, for the purpose of regrading, paving, repaving, and repairing such streets and alley, and for the purpose of constructing or repairing sewers, laying or relaying water mains or other pipes, or for any public improvement. And in case it becomes necessary, in the opinion of said Board of Public Works, to take up said track for any of the purposes above enumerated, or in case said track shall not conform with the grade of said streets or alley as above provided, said Board shall notify said party of the second part that it is, in the opinion of said Board, necessary to take up said track for any of said purposes, or that said track does not conform with the grade of said alley or streets, as the case may be, and said party of the second part shall take up said track for such purpose, within such time and for such length of time, as the said Board may in said notice require. In case such notice is as to repairs or improvements as above stated, or shall make such track conform to any such grades within thirty days' time from receiving such notice, in case such notice is as to the grade of such streets or alley, and upon failure of second party so to do said Board of Public Works shall have the right to take up such track to make such improvement or repair, or to make such track conform to such grade, and charge the cost thereof to said second party, and in case said second party shall fail to pay such cost or expense within thirty days from the time said Board shall have rendered a bill therefor, the said city shall have a right of action to recover such cost or expense against said second party, together with a reasonable attorney fee for the collection thereof.

3. If said streets, or said alley, or crossings, or any of them, are hereafter paved said second party shall pay for so much thereof as lies between the rails of said track, and for a space of one foot on both sides thereof, and in case any of such pavements are constructed said tracks shall be removed and relaid to conform with the grade of such streets or alley as paved and a foundation laid, at the expense of second party, under the ties of such track of six inches of concrete. That second party shall repair said parts of said streets and the alley in the manner, and at such times, as the Board of Public Works may desire, and shall at all times keep said portions of said streets and alley in good condition of repair.

4. That said party of the second part shall not at any time haul, or allow to be hauled, to exceed two (2) cars over and along any part of the track herein authorized to be laid nor at any greater speed than five miles an hour, and shall not load or unload any cars or leave the same to stand upon any of said tracks along the line of said track. No steam railroad locomotive shall be used in said alley. If cars are run backward the second party shall cause a bell to be constantly rung while moving at the front end of the first car. The motive power shall be equipped with suitable and effective air appliances so arranged that the same can be attached to the air brake apparatus on the cars.

5. In case hereafter the east and west tracks of said Railroad company, shall be elevated through said city, then, and in that event, the grant and permission herein given shall terminate, and party of the second part shall cause at its expense, the removal of said track, and place said streets and alley in as good and safe condition for travel and of the same material as the remainder thereof, unless said second party at its expense, cause said sidetrack to be elevated according to plans and specifications prepared by and under direction of the engineer in charge.

6. The party of the second part shall so construct and maintain its said track in such a manner as to not in any way interfere with the drainage of the surface waters on said street and alley, and shall, when constructing said track over and across said streets do the same under the direction of said Board of Public Works and in the manner required by said Board.

7. The party of the second part further agrees and binds itself to keep and hold said city free and harmless from any and all liability from any and all damages that may accrue to any person or persons or property on account of any injury to their persons or property growing out of the construction, maintenance or operation of any cars thereon by any person or corporation, and in case suit shall be filed against said city on account thereof said party of the second part, upon notice to do it by said city, shall defend said action, at its own expense, and in the event that judgment be rendered in said action against said city, the party of the second part shall pay such judgment with all costs and hold the city harmless therefrom, and said second party shall execute to the party of the first part a bond with sufficient surety, to be approved by said Board of Public Works payable to said city, in the sum of ten thousand dollars conditioned for the faithful performance by said second party of all the conditions and provisions contained in this contract, to be performed on its part, and will from time to time, whenever desired by said Board of Public Works renew said bond.

8. It is further agreed that if second party fails to comply with and perform any of the provisions of sections one, two, three, four, six and seven of this contract, the consent, permission and authority herein granted shall at once terminate and second party shall forfeit all rights hereunder, and shall cause the removal, at its expense, of all track that may be laid hereunder and place said streets and alley in as good and safe condition for travel, and of the same material, as the remainder thereof are.

9. It is further understood and agreed that this contract, and the provisions thereof, shall be binding on the successors and assigns of the party of the second part.

10. The consent, permission and authority hereby granted shall continue for the period of twenty-five (25) years from the date hereof.

WITNESS our hands and seals.

RECORDS ARE TO BE RETAINED IN ORDER

Does Command from Adjutant General Mean Recall of Companies?

Military circles are astir in Fort Wayne. A general order bearing the number 15 was received asking for the immediate preparation and retention in the company files of enlistment forms, reports of physical examination and other records. These are called the mustering in papers and if they have been kept will save much time.

Does this order from the adjutant general mean that Company E and Battery D are to be recalled to federal service soon? This is the question which has caused much discussion.

Every office of the national guard in Fort Wayne has received a copy of the order. It is understood that both companies have set about making out the necessary papers which were not saved.

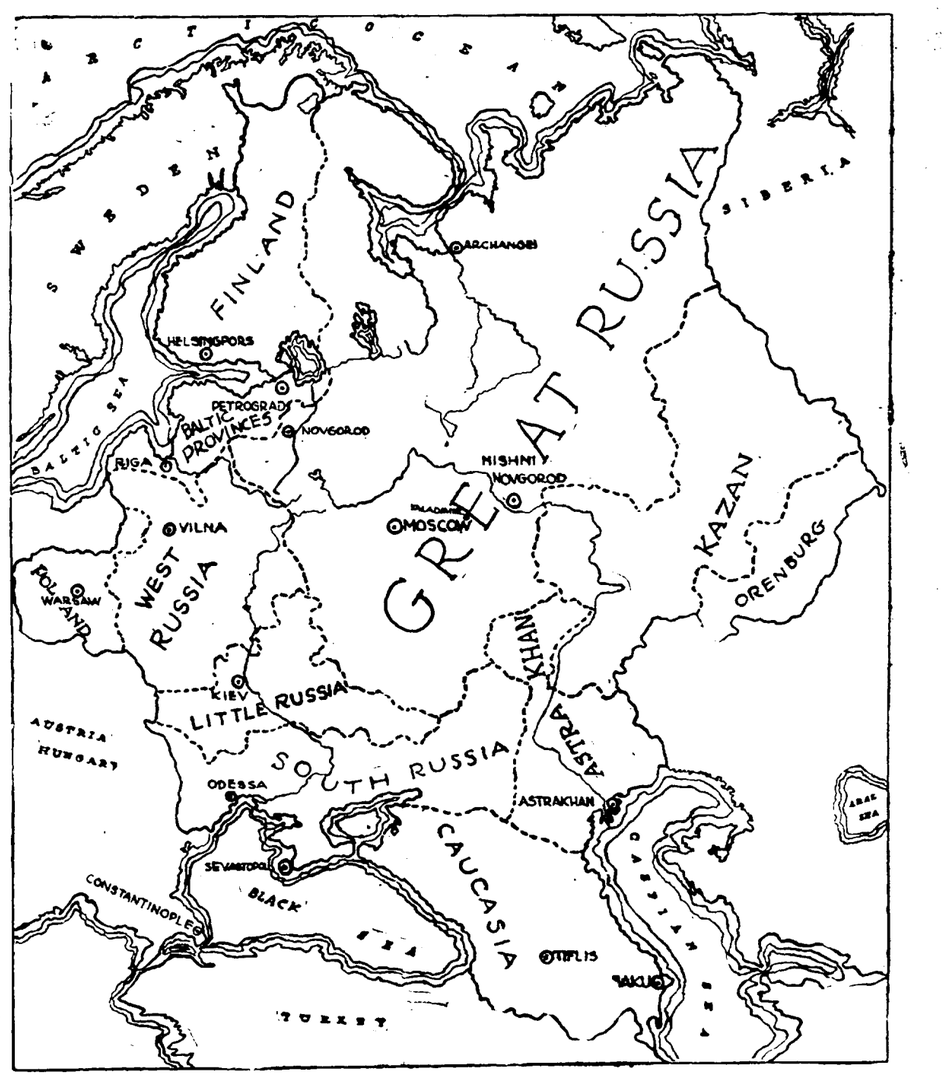
WHAT IS RUSSIA?



(This mape of Russia includes only Russia proper, the European part of the empire. Asiatic Russia, including Siberia, embraces nearly three-quarters of the empire, but contains only about one-sixth of the people. European Russia, including the Caucasus, covers 2,254,301 square miles. The total extent of the empire is 8,647,657 square miles.)

Russia, the newest democracy, is a nation of contradictions; "an Asiatic section of Europe," it has been aptly called.

With a past bathed in mystery, and at present that is more understandable to the oriental than to the European or American, it now has thrown over a centurys-old autocracy and taken its place among the modern democracies of the west.

Believing its readers will wish to know more about this new giant in the family of virtual republics, The Sentinel will present a tabloid history of the Russian empire. The first chapter appears today on page 4.

MARKETS LIVELY AND CHANGES ARE SCARCE

Saturday's Business in Wholesale and Retail Divisions is Good.

Business on the local markets was better than it has been for some time Saturday and trading was active during the entire morning, in many cases the dickering continuing well into the afternoon. Wholesale dealers came in for a big share and several of them could not take time to tell what prices they were paying or anything else, except that they were "rushed to death."

Changes in prices were about as plentiful as the proverbial hen's teeth. One company dealing in wholesale poultry advanced its quotations a cent or two all through its list and oats were reported as weakening. Potatoes and eggs remained about the same as they have been for the last few days and wheat continued in the price set yesterday of $1.90@1.92.

A medium day was reported on the city scales, twenty-eight loads having been received and weighed. Seventeen loads of hay brought $11.00 and $12.00. Corn sold at one price throughout the morning, five loads going at $1.15. The weakening oats price showed up here when six loads of the grain brought from 61 to 63 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, March 24.—Prospects of increased co-operation of the United States in supplying foodstuffs to the entente nations tended today to lift wheat prices. Initial quotations, which ranged from ⅛c to 1¼c up, with May at $1.90⅛@1.91⅜ and July at $1.61⅛@1.61¾, were followed by moderate reaction and then a decided general advance.

The close was unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 2¾c higher, with May at $1.90¾@1.91 and July at $1.63@1.63⅜.

Corn rose chiefly in response to dispatches indicating likelihood that Argentina would declare an embargo on grain exports. After opening unchanged to ⅝c higher, the market scored a sharp upturn all around.

The close was firm at ¾c to 1⅛c net advance.

Oats ascended with corn and wheat.

Higher quotations on hogs and corn strengthened provisions.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, March 24.—Rails were the conspicuous features of today's active opening, yesterday's advances in that division being substantially supplemented. Among the strongest issues were Chicago & Northwestern, Norfolk & Western, Southern Railway preferred, Erie and Lehigh Valley, all at gains of a point or better, with fractional advances in St. Paul, Northern Pacific and New Haven. Union Pacific and Reading were heavy, however, losing 2½ points and 1 point respectively. Shippings kept pace with the stronger rails but prominent industrials, including United States Steel, were irregular.

WOULD NOT TREAT HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW RIGHT

James Williams Used Partiality and Gets County Road Sentence.

James Williams ,23, paid his mother every cent she asked for keeping him and his wife shortly after their honeymoon a year ago, the wife told in police court Saturday morning. But when the couple went to live with his mother-in-law the husband neglected to deliver the monetary equivalent of several weeks' board and room, Mrs. Redonna Williams said.

The husband also "blew" his job, which was paying him $3 a day, in a local factory and he has not been contributing towards keeping his 7-weeks-old baby, the wife testified. James was short on excuses. He was fined $10 and sentenced to sixty days at labor on Allen county highways.

Paid Too Much.

When Robert Cook was tried on a charge of child neglect it was found that he had paid in even more than the court had ordered last November. Receipts show that Cook has contributed $107 towards keeping his three children. The wife had not collected the entire amount, her tallies showed. The case was dropped.

Other Police Court Cases.

James Riley, 45, could not give a good reason for being unemployed, on Friday afternoon, when he was found "just loafing" on Calhoun street. He was fined $5 and costs.

Tears and promises of "never again" did not cause Judge Kerr to release Henry Kruse, several times convicted on intoxication charges. Henry was fined $100 and sentenced to thirty days at the state farm. Other cases of public intoxication were: Pat O'Keife, fined $10 and costs Charles St. Clair, $1 and Albert Gordon, $1.

An old black sock, or stocking, is the very best thing to use when one is sponging off a garment of dark woolen goods with any cleaning fluid. There is no lint from it, and it is absorbent and soft.

REVISION OF OLD PRUSSIAN TREATIES SPURNED

GERMAN OVERTURE TO WASHINGTON IS WHOLLY REJECTED

Plans Have Been Made to Take Care of German Subjects in United States If War Comes.

TROUBLE-MAKERS WILL BE INTERNED

Washington, March 24.—The United States has formally refused Germany's request to modernize and extend the old Prussian-American treaties of 1799 and 1828.

The state department has replied through Dr. Paul Ritter, Swiss minister here in charge of German interests, refusing to accept the protocol sent through him to this government.

The reply states that the United States, considering the treaties in force in their original form, is entirely unwilling to accept Germany's interpretation of them as provided in the protocol which expanded the exemption from seizure of "merchants and their effects" in case of war into a general efemption, including enemy ships in port at the outbreak of war which, must either be left free or given safe conduct for their home ports, even through a hostil blockade. Moreover all enemy nationals would be free from internment and able to go about their business, without the slightest hindrance, during the whole course of the war and not in the restricted way mentioned in the original treaties. The question left unanswered is the status of the million and a quarter of German citizens in this country. While the United States has refused to agree to the blanket exemption sought in the German protocol it nevertheless will follow the spirit of the old treaties and not interfere with Germans here who comply with the law.

The government will undoubtedly in case of war cause Germans to register and possibly restrict their travel with-

Tornadoes Sweep Over State Taking Half Hundred Lives and Spreading Costly Ruin

Indianapolis, Ind., March 24.—The tornadoes which swept through Indiana yesterday, killed about fifty persons, including New Albany, it is estimated from incomplete returns to day and caused property damage of about $2,000,000.

Striking the state in Sullivan county, after crossing the Wabash river from Illinois, the most destructive of the several storms swept through scattered areas and left the state northeast of New Albany.

About the time that was sweeping through the southern part of the state high winds were demolishing buildings and injuring the occupants in Hendricks, Wells, Jackson, Harrison, Delaware, Randolph and Grant counties. For the second time this month wire service was crippled by the storm. The greatest damage was at New Albany. In Sullivan county two are dead and more than twenty injured.

BELGIAN AID WORKERS OUT

Washington Orders Minister Whitlock and Relief Force Away.

AMERICAN RELIEF THROUGH HOLLAND

No Use Keeping Americans in Territory Ruled by the Germans.

Washington, March 24.—American relief workers in Belgium and American Minister Brand Whitlock have been formally withdrawn from Belgium. Official announcement to this effect was made at the state department this morning.

The American relief commissioners will be replaced as far as possible by members of a joint neutral commission largely under the supervision of Dutch military authorities. Brand Whitlock will go to Havre, France, resuming his duties as minister at the temporary Belgian capital.

Secretary Lansing at the direction of President Wilson, sent a note to the Netherlands accepting its offer to take over the work of the commission.

Nothing to Gain by Remaining.

The action of the president in ordering the Americans out was based on the belief that nothing was to be gained by keeping Americans longer in territory occupied by German troops in Belgium and northern France. It is desired for humanitarian reasons that the work of the

GERMANS GAIN ON THE FRONT IN ROUMANIA

Berlin, March 24.—(Via Sayville.)—German forces under command of Archduke Joseph yesterday stormed the Russian position on the Rumanian frontier ridge between the Solyomtar and Czobanos valleys, according to today's official German statement, and captured 500 Russians.

PETROGRAD ADMITS IT.

Petrograd, March 24.—(Via London, 8:40 p. m.)—Under pressure of German attacks against the Russian positions between the rivers Slicha and Chvanich, on the Rumanian front, says the official statement issued today by the Russian war department, the Russian troops withdrew to the next line of defense about two-thirds of a mile to the eastward.

TWO PERSONS ARE SLIGHTLY INJURED

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Decatur, Ind., March 24.—Damage to the extent of several thousand dollars was done late yesterday afternoon by a cyclone that visited the northern part of Adams county. Houses and barns were blown from their foundations, trees were uprooted and fences were razed. The damage, it is estimated, will easily aggregate $50,000.

The roof of a new brick school house at Monmouth was torn off and the children escaped possible injury by rushing to the basement. The homes of Floyd Baker and Charles Burr were demolished, while the house of Mart Markenke was blown from its foundation. The roof was blown from the barn of S. S. Magley, and the windows and dishes were shattered in the house. The kitchen

London, March 24.—The promulgation of a new allied doctrine against Germany is demanded by Carlyon Wilfroy Bellairs, unionist, in a resolution laid on the table of the house of commons for debate next week. The resolution provides that "in view of the murders and the shocking violations of international law on the high seas by the German government, this house, recognizing that Germany has placed herself in the position of an outlaw, declares that the time has come to enforce the new European doctrine that no supplies may come out of or go into Germany or her allies, that prize court procedure was devised to meet conditions of civilized warfare which do not exist; that consequently supplies for neutral European countries must now be rationed on the basis of an entire cessation of their trade with Germany."

BULGARIANS AT MONASTIR NEAR REVOLT

London, March 24, 10 a. m.—Semi-official dispatches from Serbian headquarters in the last few days have reported serious trouble among the Bulgarian troops around Monastir.

Several regiments are reported to have deserted in a body as the result of friction over supplies and their relations with their Teutonic allies. According to these reports it has been necessary to rearrange several large units of the Bulgarian army, distributing troops of suspected loyalty to places where they could do the least harm.

FRENCH ADVANCE GRAVE MENACE TO HINDENBURG LINE

Paris, March 24.—The allies continue to forge ahead on the center and extreme right and made substantial progress yesterday in the direction of St. Quentin and La Fere in the teeth of German determined resistance. Notwithstanding the efforts of the Germans to destroy the roads as they retired, the allies have managed to bring up a good force of all but their heaviest artillery and the guns are again busy after a long rest.

The pressure of the French from St. Quentin to the Aisne is so powerful that it begins to seem doubtful, in the opinion of the French military critics, as to whether the Germans will be able to hold on to the so-called Hindenburg line.

The invaders have opened the sluices at La Fere, apparently feeling that their chances of holding the town are not good now, that the French have got a footing on the high ground in the Jussy region, northeast of Tergnier. If General Nivelle is able to establish himself in this position his guns will command La Fere.

Further south the French are making solid progress against the five-mile salient covering St. Gobain and formed by the lower Coucy forest. The columns here are working hand in hand with columns operating northeast of Soissons, in the direction of Laon. The latter made continuous progress today and their advance exposes the left extremity of the German line at St. Gobain to the risk of being outflanked and driven back on Laon. It is evident that the German staff is alive to the growing danger and they are making desperate efforts to check the French advance and the fighting is fiercest here than in any other section.

ABDICATION OF THE KAISER PREDICTED BY GERMAN WRITER

Paris, March 24.—The abdication of the German emperor is forecast by the former German magistrate who wrote the celebrated book "J'accuse," in an interview published in Oeuvre. He says:

"The kaiser is obsessed by the thought that he is responsible for the war, a thought which poisons his whole existence. He feels that he is menaced by three enemies at home, without counting those abroad: First is the crown prince, the real author of the war; second is the junker pan-Germanist—you cannot imagine the smouldering hatred of the emperor for those whom he believes to be the

Evansville, Ind., March 24.—Chief of Police Edgar Schmitt today forecasted a general shake-up in the local police department following information placed before him that patrolmen have accepted "gifts" from proprietors of establishments in the restricted district. Two officers were suspended last night and the chief said the investigation would be continued.

TEN YOUNG MEN WILL GO TO SEA

Ten young men have signed up for naval service at the local navy recruiting station during the past week. Five of the youths were enrolled on Saturday. Three of the number will go as skilled mechanics.

Party of five, recruited on Saturday, were sent to Indianapolis Saturday afternoon. If they pass the rigid test of the contral Indiana station they will be transported to San Francisco for further training.

WALKED IN PATH OF AN AUTOMOBILE

Mrs. Harry Drabenstat, of Huntington, was hurled to the pavement, sustaining a badly strained and bruised left arm ,when she was struck by an automobile at the corner of Holman and South Calhoun streets, Saturday morning. The driver of the machine was H. C. Parkson, of Ossian. He reported to the police that Mrs. Drabenstat started across the street and then turned back when directly in front of his car.

RUSSIA DECIDES TO HAVE A DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC FOUNDED

London, March 24.—12:35 p. m.—The central committee and the parliamentary representatives of the constitutional-democratic party at Petrograd voted today in favor of a republican form of government for Russia, according to a Petrograd dispatch. Prof. Paul N. Milukoff, the foreign minister in the new government, is leader of this party.

Foreign Minister Milukoff has outlined the attitude of the new Russian government in foreign affairs to a number of Petrograd and Moscow journalists. A Reuter dispatch from Petrograd quotes the foreign minister as saying: "We shall remain faithful to all past alliances; similar to that with our allies, which will be still further strengthened and become still more cordial and sincere. The change in regime will disperse the distrust our allies had a right to feel toward the late government. It is Russia's duty to continue the struggle brilliantly both for her own liberty and that of all Europe.

"By the change in regime we definitely won the sympathy of neutrals, especially Sweden, while Finland, thanks to the restoration of her constitution, has become our sincere friend. Our allies came into touch with the new regime without an instant's delay, understanding that the old regime was a serious hinderance to that organization of the Russian people which is necessary for a final triumph.

"Today Russia is no longer a dead weight in the coalition of allies. She is a productive force. Henceforth all rumors of a separate peace must be banished once for all. It would be anti-national for freed Russia to come to an understanding with reactionary Germany."

WASHINGTON WILL NOT STOP AT ANY HALF-WAY MEASURE

Washington, March 24.—The United States government is getting ready to put into effect measures of the most far reaching and aggressive character in the event of war wth Germany. It will not be satisfied with mere attempts to protect American merchant vessels. Its preparations will be designed to meet any eventuality—a long war—if necessary. There will be no half way measures.

This program was agreed on at a long cabinet meeting yesterday and it guided the council of national defense when it met with its advisory commission. The program decided upon includes military, naval, industrial and financial measures. The question of sending an army abroad will be left for future consideration.

Whether political alliances with the entente allies will be formed is not known, although military as well as naval co-operation is possible and the government will furnish both money and supplies to the allies without stint.

Suggestions before President Wilson today included the possibility of floating a war loan of $5,000,000,000 for the entente.

When President Wilson goes before congress soon after it meets in extra session on April 2, he is expected to make it clear that the government and people of the United States will not be prompted by hostility toward the German people, but only by acts of the German government. So far the president has given only preliminary consideration to his address to congress.

Summary of the Day's War News

Increased peril to the so-called Hindenburg line of the Germans in northern France, running through Cambrai, St. Quentin, La Fere and Loan, is indicated by today's Paris official statement.

The French are continuing their strong pressure from St. Quentin to the Aisne, and have driven through the Oise river, directly north of La Fere, at some points. Apparently they have gained control of the high ground in this region and are able to command the city with their guns.

That the Germans were despairing of holding La Fere, a key point in the new line, was indicated by last night's announcement that they had opened the sluice gates and flooded the city. The new French advance to the Oise can hardly fail to make the place still more difficult to hold. Further progress also has been made by the French further to the southeast, on the east bank of the Ailette river, west of Laon, where the Germans, while still falling back towards their new line, are apparently offering

Madrid, March 24.—An elaborate organization by which a far flung cordon of German submarines stretching around the Spanish and Portuguese coasts has been maintained in provisions and supplies has been unearthed by the Spanish authorities. A rigid censorship has been established, but it is known that at least four men have been arrested, one of whom was supposed to have been an American, but later proved to be a German. It was reported that other suspects have hailed from the United States, but this was later shown to be due to the fact that they had used many aliases and had found American names to be the most useful.

A most ingenious method was used in getting the supplies and provisions to the submarines. Lines of automobiles were run from Madrid to certain coast points, in order to avoid using the regular train service. At designated points floating depots were established beyond the limits of Spanish waters. These depots consisted of a series of small, stout wooden floats, about the size of a fisherman's dory. Each float formed a good-sized receptacle built to protect the contents against water. Under cover of night small boats loaded these floats with provisions of all kinds, grease and fuel oil and any other articles required by the submarines.

A coast guard patrol boat discovered one of these depots as a number of men were busy restocking it from some of the small sailing craft used by the coast fishermen. The coast guards used their revolvers and captured several prisoners as well as a large quantity of supplies and considerable correspondence. Later investigation showed that one or more members of the coast guard itself was implicated.

KAISER AND CHANCELLOR ARE ROASTED

London, March 24.—The German emperor and Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg were denounced in the reichstag by the socialist deputy, Kunert, as the originators of the war, according to a Berlin dispatch to Reuter's, by way of Amsterdam. The incident occurred Thursday during a debate on the public health estimates. Vice Chancellor Helfferich, referring to Herr Kunert's remark, declared that a German who spoke in the same breath of Russian and German conditions insulted his fatherland. The socialist deputy retorted, amid socialist applause: "Because I compared German reactionaries with Russian revolutionists you say I insulted the fatherland. I should be proud if such progress were made in our country as has been made in the Russian empire."

Socialist Deputy Hoch, criticizing the statistics of the president of the board of health, declared that they did not allow the formation of a conclusive judgment and that the president should not have painted such a rosy picture of the health of the people when "under-feeding is almost terrible and bound to affect the public health."

Another socialist stated that in many establishments workmen had collapsed from hunger.

TWO ATTEMPTS TO REACH HEAVY GUNS

Portland, Me., March 24.—Two attempts within a week to approach the big guns mounted at Fort Williams, on Cape Elizabeth, caused extraordinary precautions last night by the garrison. Extra sentries were posted and searchlights criss-crossed the country outside the fortifications.

Private John Poor of the Third company, coast artillery corps, died last night of a bullet wound inflicted by one of the two strange men detected near the battery. The prowlers escaped and have not yet been found. Poor was a son of Robrt O. Poor, of Clarksdale, Ill.

of the Charles Johnson brick house was almost completely wrecked.

Considerable damage was done at Preble, where the barns of Fred Scheuler and Chris Selking were blown down, burying a number of horses and cattle beneath the debris. The new brick house on the Charles Cook farm, two miles northeast of Preble, was badly damaged. In one of the rooms in the house on the Chris Selking farm the carpet was lifted from the floor. Much damage was done to the house.

The large barns belonging to Peter Helmrick and George Reppert at Magley were blown down.

Two Persons Hurt.

Otto Hildebrand, who was in the Helmrich barn at the time of the storm, and Elmer Reppert, a brother of George Reppert, whose barn was razed, were slightly injured.

The Decatur-Fort Wayne interurban was hard hit by the storm. Many poles and wires were blown down. Traffic was delayed for some time.

Came From Southwest.

The cyclone came from the southwest and swept northeast and was several hundred feet in width. A grave yard east of the school house at Monmouth was laid in ruins, large monuments being overturned and crushed. The home of George Schieferstein, in Monmouth, was wrenched and twisted, the interior being torn and damaged beyond restoration.

In Delaware county the damage consisted of destruction of property and injuries to persons none of which is expected to prove fatal. Adams county reported property destruction at Magley and Monmouth, two small villages, but no one seriously injured. The property damage in Hendricks county was estimated to day at $50,000, with only one woman injured.

From Harrison county came a report that two women were injured seriously. Much live stock was killed and many buildings damaged or destroyed. The list of injured in Jackson county numbered five.

High winds between Tipton and Kokomo interrupted interurban traffic. In Howard county two men were injured and several farm buildings were wrecked.

RED CROSS HURRIES AID.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 24.—Officers of the Red Cross Society of Indianapolis, headed by J. J. O'Conner, of Chicago, director of the central division of the Red Cross, who was recalled from Newcastle, where he was superintending the relief work among the victims of the tornado which swept that city less than two weeks ago, departed early today for New Albany to assist in relief work among victims of the storm which left death and destruction in its wake in Ohio river town late yesterday. Eighteen nurses accompanied the party, and more were to follow today.

An offer of the aid of the Indianapolis Red Cross was followed by an appeal for immediate aid from an emergency committee formed at New Albany. The appeal recited briefly the devastation wrought by the tornado and emphasized the need of immediate assistance.

Indiana guardsmen, recently called out for similar duty at Newcastle, were rushed to New Albany last night to aid in the relief work and to guard against looting. Company K, Second Indiana Infantry, of Seymour, and field hospital No 1, of Indianapolis, arrived at New Albany early today on special traction cars. Company I, of the Second Indiana Infantry, was ordered to proceed from its post at Tell City to New Albany this morning.

A relief fund, which was started here as soon as the extent of the disaster was learned, met ready response and today mounted into the hundreds of dollars.

Mayor Leb Watkins, of Newcastle, informed of the disaster, said he would go to New Albany at once to learn what the citizens of Newcastle could do in return for the generous help that has come to them in the last two weeks. He stated that if additional nurses were needed, some of those on duty at Newcastle may be released.

Major P. A. Davis, of the Indiana national guard who went to New Albany last night as the representative of Adjutant General Harry B. Smith, reported to General Smith this morning that forty were known to have been killed in New Albany. He was to report later on the advisability of sending additional troops to the stricken city.

night in the region south of St. Quentin in which heavy fighting has been in progress for several days. They reached the west bank of the Oise north of La Fere and gained additional ground east of the Aillette river.

HEAVY ENTENTE LOSSES.

Berlin, March 24.—Via Sayville—British and French advancing forces and German rear guards are battling daily on both sides of the rivers Somme and Oise in northern France, says the official statement issued today by German army headquarters staff. In these engagements, th cannouncement adds, the entente forces have suffered heavy losses.

French attacks against the German outposts west of La Fere and along the Aillette lowlands as well as near Neuville and Margivat, it is officially announced were repulsed yesterday.

RUSSIAN GAIN IN PERSIAN.

Petrograd, March 24.—The capture by Russian troops of the Persian town of Kerind, in the sector west of Ker-

Mesopotamian border, is reported by the war office. Pursuit of the Turks toward the Mesopotamian border continues.

THIRTY KNOWN DEAD AND MORE REMAIN IN NEW ALBANY RUINS

der the debris of wrecked buildings. The search of the ruined structures in the devastated sections of the city is going forward under military supervision and all persons except those actually engaged in the work of rescue are being kept out of the stricken districts.

Early this morning a cordon of state troops was thrown about the storm-swept parts of the city and these sections were cleared. Thereafter only those persons bearing military passes were admitted within the lines established by the soldiers.

Ruin is Vast.

Approximately three hundred residences, industrial plants and other buildings were badly damaged or destroyed. In some instances houses had been so torn to pieces and the wreckage intermingled with that from other structures that those who had lived in them were unable definitely to locate the sites upon which they had stood.

Houses had been picked up bodily apparently and then thrown to the earth with terrific force smashing them into kindling wood. Other house appeared to have been flattened out as if some tremendous hand had been laid upon them. Small outbuildings and sections of roofs were carried for blocks, and trees were torn bodily from the earth by the roots.

The work of searching the ruins began immediately but has not yet been completed. Direction of the work of relief has been assumed by the chamber of commerce and a fund of several thousand dollars has been subscribed. Members of the board o trade of Louisville have also made substantial contributions and an appeal has been made by that body to Louisville citizens for further funds.

Caring for the Injured.

Nurses and physicians from Louisville were still busy today helping to care for the injured. The most seriously hurt were taken to St. Edwards hospital and at noon the number reported had grown to sixty-five. Probably ten or more are expected to die, it was said by attaches at the hospital. About 1,000 persons have been rendered homeless, it was said at the chamber o. commerce headquarters. Many of these have lost all their belongings.

The work of clearing away the wreckage of ruined houses probably will take a day or two and not until this is completed will the number of dead be accurately known. The property damage was estimated today at approximately $1,000,000.

The Devastated Area.

The storm swept almost entirely aruond the northern part of the city, moving generally from southwest to northeast.

The outline of the devastated area bears a general resemblance to a gigantic paw with the talons outspread around the northeastern section. Not all of the area included within the outlines of the paw suffered the full fury of the wind, however, for wreaking havoc in the southwestern side of the city where it entered, the storm lifted, doing comparatively little damage until it struck again nearly a mile away on the northeastern side. The majority of houses wrecked were workingmen's homes, though a number of larger buildings were leveled. In one instance a large brick house had been swept from its foundations and on the site it occupied there stood today, leaning all awry a small cottage which the wind picked up half a block away.

Work of the Storm.

In many instances only the front of houses had been torn away. In others all the windows and doors had been blown out, leaving the structures otherwise uninjured. Probably one hundred dwellings were lifted from their foundations and scattered over the neighborhood. Telephone, telegraph and electric light poles were snapped off at the ground. A negro school building in which several school children were killed, was demolished. Its brick walls collapsed on a large proportion of twenty-five or thirty occupants.

State troops from Indianapolis arrived here at 2:30 o'clock this morning to take charge of the situation. Darkness hampered the search during the night, all the electric wires in the devastated sections of the city being down, and the work of rescue proceeded slowly.

This morning the work of clearing away the wreckage of several buildings in which a number of persons are thought to have been caught had not been completed.

Dead in Razed Schoolhouse.

One of these was a school. Several children in the building when the storm struck are thought to have escaped, the bodies of others have been recovered and possibly as many as twenty others are thought to be still buried under the ruins.

Every precaution was taken by the city authorities to prevent looting and Mayor Robert W. Morris ordered that vandals be shot on sight.

Policemen and firemen from Louisville just across the river and Jeffersonville, only three miles away, together with officers from the Indiana state reformatory, assisted in maintaining order.

Citizens Prompt With Relief.

The chaos which came in the wake of the storm was quickly succeeded by organized efforts to assist those in need of help. A large relief fund was raised at a hurriedly gathered meeting of citizens at the city hall and committees appointed to undertake the work of relieving those whose houses had been destroyed. This fund was increased by a contribution from the board of trade of Louisville, and today further subscriptions were being added. The injured soon overflowed the one public hospital and others were taken to the Young Men's Christian Association and to private homes. Every available physician in New Albany was called into service together with others from Louisville and Jeffersonville. Members of the staffs of Louisville hospitals were surrendered to the service and the facilities of the institutions themselves were offered.

Damage in the Country.

Damage done by the wind extended several miles into the country, particularly along the Corydon pike. Many houses and barns were unroofed or demolished and several persons were injured. Along the Charleston road the damage was also heavy.

An unidentified young man and woman driving toward New Albany were hurled over a fence into a nearby field and killed.

No accurate estimate of the property damage in and about the immediate vicinity of New Albany has been possible, but it is expected the loss will be upwards of a million dollars.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY'S WAR NEWS

a stiff resistance. Paris military critics also point to a German peril here, where the left end of the German line at St. Gobain, is threatened with outflanking.

Last reports from the British end of the line also indicated strong German resistance, but recorded also further advance for Gen. Haig's forces, notably in the region southeast of Arras.

In part, at least, the German retirement in France may be explained by an official statement of the new Russian war ministry, in which it is announced that the Germans are concentrating great quantities of munitions, supplies and men on the northern end of the Russian front. A Teutonic offensive in the near future in this important, but long neglected war area, is thus indicated.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg, who is credited with establishing the new line in the west, is classed as a believer in the theory that a decision in the war can best be gained by a campaign on the eastern front against Russia.

Meanwhile the Russian provisional government renews its efforts to strengthen the offensive measures of the nation.

maniacs driving him into an abyss; third are the people, not the socialist people's party, but the people who are starving and who he feels are growing in number and rising little by little against those who organized the war.

Struggle Over Ruthlessness.

"The other day at the meeting of the parliamentary presidents and the ministers of the federal sovereigns, at which the submarine war was decided upon, the struggle between the kaiser's party and that of von Tirpitz was most bitter. The majority against the emperor was so great, however, that he was obliged to submit and pretend that he was convinced. In particular he was personally opposed to a break with President Wilson, but he was forced to consent. Documents will be published one day which will prove that secretly he did everything not to bring America down upon him and he considers that the rupture was an irreparable mistake. The failure of the submarine war will soon show that he was right, but it will be too late.

Fears Anti-Militarists.

"The people he fears most are the anti-militarists, anti-Prussian, liberal republicans, who want the reichstag to be based on universal suffrage. That is why Wilhelm is so anxious to convince the nation that he did not want war. All his protestations are made to appease the liberals and his famished and ruined subjects, whose murmurings are growing stronger. He wants to continue popular at any price and that is why he spoke the first word of peace. The people were grateful for it, but the submarine war came and spoiled everything.

"It is hard to realize how this emperor, who enjoyed a popularity unexampled in our epoch, suffers in his pride. He alone perhaps in Germany, knows the whole truth, since he alone has in his possession the elements for forming a judgment on the situation as a whole. How can he resist morally and physically under such a strain. Certainly he hopes some times, but less and less, for the success of the unrestricted submarine warfare which he opposed. He sees the isolation of Germany become more and more complete.

A Knockout Blow.

"Once he tried to initiate peace negotiations and failed. To try again would be to admit and proclaim to the whole world, but above all to the German people, which he fears most, Germany's real situation. If the allies solemnly declare, as they did with Napoleon in 1815, that they would refuse to treat for peace with the Hohenzollerns, it would be a knockout blow. Our German people, who still believe in him would abandon him, for peace at any price will soon be the unanimous hidden thought of tortured Germany.

"What recourse is left to him but a dramatic abdication in order to retain the sympathies of the German people and save the political future of Prussia. He will say: 'I sacrifice myself to make peace. Without me those are only responsible who desired savage war and the complete isolation of Germany, those who took at the beginning my son as their party leader and forced me to mobilize, a measure I hesitated to take.'"

HORSE AFRAID OF AUTO; UPSETS RIG

Mrs. Charles Beard, living seven miles from Fort Wayne, on the Aboite road, was slightly injured Saturday morning, because she was driving a horse which is still afraid of automobites. Mrs. Beard was driving towards the city when she met an automobile driven by E. A. Truman, of Columbia City, at the intersection of the Huntington road. Horse driven by the woman attempted to turn around. The buggy was upset in the ditch. Mrs. Beard was thrown out and received minor hurts.

BELGIAN AID WORKERS OUT

commission be continued and the government of the Netherlands has been asked to communicate with the commission's Rotterdam office to take over the work and determine how many Dutch citizens would be needed for it. It is understood here a large number of Dutch students will be called upon to assist. Arrangements for the return to America of a large number of Americans are now being made.

The United States will be henceforth able to participate in the relief work by financial contributions. Chairman Herbert C. Hoover on leaving New York for Europe recently said that America's work of supplying the means of relief had only just begun. About forty-five Americans are affected by the new order.

Complications Likely.

Complications over the shipment of food stuffs for distribution to the Belgians by the Netherlands may result from the fact that it is considered that Great Britain's extension of the North sea danger zone virtually constitutes a blockade of the coast of Holland.

The Netherlands at this time is said to be in urgent need of food stuffs which it is unable to secure because of the detention in British ports of Dutch ships and the danger on the seas from German submarines. The new danger zone declared by Great Britain does away with a lane twenty miles wide in the North sea, through which Dutch ships heretofore have passed to and from their home ports. The lane was between the German submarine zone and the old British danger zone. This lane having been closed Dutch ships have available to them only the territorial waters of the Netherlands, which generally are of insufficient depth to accommodate a large portion of Dutch shipping.

It is regarded as certain that if the relief work in Belgium and northern France is to be continued by the Netherlands, some arrangement for the safe passage of ships carrying food stuffs and supplies will have to be made with Great Britain and Germany.

The Formal Announcement.

The announcement given out by the state department follows in part:

"By direction of the president, the minister at Brussels has been instructed to withdraw from Belgium with foreign diplomatic and consular officers and take up his official residence at Havre.

"After consultation with the commission for relief in Belgium, Mr. Whitlock has also been instructed to arrange for the departure of the American members of the commission. This step, the seriousness of which is fully appreciated by the government, was taken only after careful consideration and full consultation with all the interests involved.

"Immediately after the break in relations the German authorities in Brussels withdrew from Mr. Whitlock the diplomatic privileges and immunities which he had up to that time enjoyed. His courier service to The Hague was stopped; he was denied the privilege of communicating with the department of state in cipher and later even in plain language. The members of the relief commission were placed under great restrictions of movement and communication which hampered the efficient performance of their task.

Relief Ships Attacked.

"In spite of all these difficulties the government and commission were determined to keep the work going to the last minute.

"However, a more serious difficulty has arisen. In the course of the past ten days several of the commission's ships have been attacked without warning by German submarines in flagrant violation of the solemn engagements of the German government. Protests addressed by this government to Berlin through the intermediary of the Spanish government have not been answered. The German government's disregard of its written undertakings causes grave concern as to the future of the relief work. In any event it is felt the American staff of the commission can no longer serve with advantage in Belgium. Although a verbal promise has been made that the members of the commission would be permitted to leave if they desire, the German government's observance of its other undertakings has not been such that the department would feel warranted in accepting responsibility for leaving these American citizens in German occupied territory."

The new immigration bill, providing that all males between the ages of sixteen and sixty must be able to read in order to enter the United States, was passed over the president's veto. This is the first bill to become a law over President Wilson's veto. The literacy test, as the provision for ability to read is called, had been vetoed by Presidents Cleveland and Taft. President Wilson vetoed it once before.

MILITARY TOURNAMENT WILL ATTRACT CROWDS

Tickets Are Ordered by Out-of-Town People for Exhibition.

The fourth annual military tournament of the Concordia college cadets is to be held in the college gymnasium on March 30, as was originally planned, and not on April 30, as was inadvertently stated in one of the city papers. The attendance at these tournaments has been steadily growing larger year by year and last year a crowd of over a thousand were thrilled as the cadets stepped through their various drills to the tunes of the brass band.

Bigger and Better Than Ever.

This year's tournament will be even bigger and better than last year's, although this is well nigh an impossibility, according to the opinions expressed by last year's spectators. Not only will this event be witnessed by local people, however, for hundreds of tickets have already been ordered by out of town people. Such cities as Huntington, St. Joe, South Bend, Detroit, St. Louis, Cleveland and Chicago will be well represented and special cars have been chartered. Many of the almuni as well as ex-Concordians will arrive, and although the big gymnasium has been stretched to its full capacity of 1,500 it will by no means be able to hold all of the throng sure to arrive. Before the tickets were ever placed on sale over nine hundred had been spoken for, and it came as a most unwelcome surprise to many of Concordia's friends that it will be unable to hold the tournament on two successive nights as was originally intended.

Patriotism is Kindled.

Many events of a military nature have been given in the last few months to fire the imagination of all and kindle the patriotism of all true Americans. The sending of American troops to the border; their return; the present strained relations with a certain set of belligerents, and the profuse displayal of the flag has given rise to many patriotic demonstrations. The Concordia tournament will, however, no doubt, exceed anything, from the military point of view, ever attempted in the city during the last few years.

Captain Byroade has his cadets drilled to the minute in all forms of close-order and fancy drills, setting up exercises and butts and silent manuals and much attention has been given not only to precision but also to the practical things of warfare which might be necessary in case of hostilities.

The cadets will, as usual, appear in their regular dress uniform, consisting of the nobby coat, with white webbing, breast-plate and white duck trousers. The tournament will open prompt at 8 p. m. with a band concert till 8:30 p. m. when military events proper will start.

The tickets have just been placed on sale and may be purchased at Miller's drug store, at 2128 South Calhoun street, and at Lauer's cigar store, while all mail orders will receive prompt and careful attention if addressed to Mr. Carl Strodel, Concordia College, City.

GERMAN OVERTURE TO WASHINGTON IS WHOLLY REJECTED

out special permits to certain limits. General internment is not being considered as yet, as officials maintain that America's only object in the war would be to curb the German government and not to injure its citizens here. It is assumed on all sides that great masses of Germans will respect their obligations as guests in this country but it is known also that some few will make trouble which will react more to the disadvantage of the rest than otherwise.

The war department has already secured full details of all the various exemption, including enemy ships in fect in other countries and is prepared to carry out any plan that may be ordered. So far the only one that has met with any favor is the Canadian plan which leaves all Germans free as before, subject to restrictions on travel and obligation to register and intern those only, known to be enemies of the state. So far only about 6,000 out of 80,000 have been so held.

CLAIMS MICHIGAN BRIDE.

Bluffton, Ind., March 24.—Mrs. Lafayette Mossburg, of 1018 West Wabash street, has received word from Traverse City, Michigan, of the marriage of her brother, T. P. Redding, who was formerly a resident of Wells county, and the lady of his choice was Mrs. Nancy A. Baldwin, of Winchester, Indiana, who had also located in Traverse City. Both are members of the Friends church in Traverse City. Their home is 518 West 8th street, Traverse City.

VEGETABLES CHIEF DECORATION

Hartford City, Ind., March 24.—A "$500 beauty" was shown among the hats on display at a millinery opening and style show here today. It was trimmed by Mrs. Ray Wilson. The creation was trimmed with vegetables and other materials that enter in the H. C. L. The stickup was made of a carrot, the remainder of the trimming being a cabbashon of beans, a streamer of potatoes, a wreath of onions and a piece of coal.

ASKS FOR GUARDIAN.

Auburn, Ind., March 24.—A petition by David Beight has been filed in the DeKalb circuit court asking that John Beight be officially declared by the court a habitual drunkard, and that a guardian be appointed to have charge of his person and property. The petition sets out that John Beight is a habitual drunkard, that he has some real property, is incapable of managing it, and there is danger that he will squander his means.

FORD KICKS BACK.

Decatur, Ind., March 24.—Samuel Bailer is nursing a broken right wrist and a dislocated shoulder as a result of having his Ford kick back today noon. Naming Cities for Dates.

What is, perhaps, the oddest of all ways to select a name for a city or street is to name it for a certain date, and yet this has been done in Brazil for hundreds of years. It was on January 1, 1531, that a Portuguese captain, Alphonso de Souza by name, entered the mouth of that marvelously beautiful bay, on the shores of which now stands the capital of the vast republic of Brazil. Thinking that he was sailing into a great river, he named the stream Rio de Janiero, or January river, and all through the centuries the name has remained.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS IN RECRUITING RALLY

Patriotism Rules Supreme in Meeting of Lawton Camp Friday Evening.

Displaying all the old vim, pep and enthusiasm, members of Lawton camp No. 35, United Spanish War Veterans, held a recruiting rally in the assembly room of the court house Friday evening. Patriotism reigned supreme and many men who followed the Stars and Stripes during the four years, beginning in 1898, became members of the camp.

John A. Johnson, chairman, announced shortly after the meeting had been called to order that Wolf & Dessauers had presented the boys of '98 with a marching flag eight by twelve feet. He also announced that other friends had donated seventy dollars for the purchase of a standard or banner.

The following donations were given: Klaehn & Melching, $15; Chalfant & Egley, $10; J. C. Peltier & Son, $10; Schone & Ankenbruck, $10; Mungovan & Ryan, $10; Getz & Cahill, $10; Fred H. Wellman, $5; Wolf & Dessauer, $10 (flag delivered.)

Patriotic addresses were made by Frank Hilgemann, A. D. Zuber, Capt. O. C. Meyers, E. R. Lewis, Major W. W. Barnett, Capt John C. Capron, J. Pitman, Peter A. Thompson, Sergt. John O. Hood and Samuel S. Kelker and D. L. Beaber, of the Lawton-Wayne post, G. A. R.. At the instance of Mr. Hilgemann the camp went on record as against Memorial day desecration and appointed a committee consisting of Messrs. Hilgemann, Pulver and Lewis to draw up resolutions.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS FOR THE HOME

John 8:31-37; 56-58.

31 Our fathers did eat manna in the desert; as it is written, He gave them bread from heaven to eat.

32 Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Moses gave you not that bread from heaven; but my Father giveth you the true bread from heaven.

33 For the bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world.

34 Then said they unto him, Lord, evermore give us this bread.

35 And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst.

36 But I said unto you, That ye also have seen me, and believe not.

37 All that the Father giveth me shall come to me; and him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out.

56 He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me, and I in him.

57 As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father; so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

58 This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead: he that eateth of this bread shall live for ever.

SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1917.

Indiana Storm-Swept.

Indiana is getting more than a deserved share of scourgings by storm. The destruction of property and loss of life in Friday's program of phenomena are a hard stroke upon the state. Reports indicate that there were near half a score of fierce storms in Indiana Friday over different and widely separated sections, with loss of life in at least two of them and extensive damage in all.

Earlier accounts indicate that the tornado that swept a path of fury through New Albany was more destructive of property and took a heavier toll of life than the frightful storm that destroyed a considerable part of Newcastle two weeks ago and thought at the time to stand in the record as Indiana's worst experience with phenomena of the sort. The estimate is that at least fifty have perished in New Albany, with hundreds injured and other hundreds rendered homeless.

Fort Wayne again has occasion to contemplate how near to her own situation great storms now and then frequently come, but save the city harmless. The northern part of Adams county, but a few miles south of Fort Wayne, was visited by a highly destructive storm Friday afternoon, in which, most happily, no lives were made a sacrifice, though there was extensive damage to property. Nothing in conditions here gave clue to the destroying fury of the winds but a short distance away. There has been something strange in Fort Wayne's consistent immunity from such terrible visitations, though they have come very near often enough. Why it is that tornadoes and cyclones have not thought fit to lay a path through this city is singular, when such storms have frequently traveled in all directions about Fort Wayne. Escape so far cannot be taken for a perpetual immunity, though it would be pleasant to think so, and Fort Wayne doubtless will some day be severely brushed by a great windstorm.

It appears from the accounts that New Albany has suffered so severely as to be in need of considerable aid from the outside. The agencies that had not yet completed the work of relief for stricken Newcastle can be continued for a similar purpose of benevolence in New Albany, if it be determined definitely that assistance must be sought from the state at large.

Speculation interests itself profoundly with the strategy of the German retirement on the west front. This newspaper's war expert declines to commit himself and defers the questions raised to the board of strategy that can be found about almost any hot stove. We will go far enough to say that always heretofore old man von Hindenburg has seemed to know what he was about. If he doesn't this time there isn't any sign of it yet. The home strategists probably will have to wait for developments, which can be done in patience. The sitting outdoors is getting better every day.

The estimated total wealth of the United States is about two hundred billions. Looking at that and considering the government's examination of plans to extend financial aid to the entente in the event of an American war with Germany, the allies may be led into misbelief that Uncle Sam is ready to do it all and that their money troubles have come to an end. 'Twill be rash thought if it shall become the thought. America will do her proper bit, but expectation of more than that will be rather wild speculation.

It is pointed out as a significant fact of history that all of the wars of the United States—revolution, 1812, Mexican, civil and Spanish—began in the month of April. The national congress meets April 2 confronted again by the unpleasant business. At least there's the consolation that we have won all our April wars, if we must have another adventure of the sort, starting this month, the most fateful for us the calendar clear round.

The glowing hope lights the republican machine headquarters in Indianapolis that Lew Shank can't raise the slush to finance an independent candidacy for the mayor's office. If that's a clue to what's brewing for a machine campaign, probably Lew Shank will know what to look out for. He is a skillful raider and an accomplished political engineer, on whose band wagon a good many seem quite pleased to ride.

Military training is to be established in the Fort Wayne high school. Fine! Perhaps after a term of that it may not be thought altogether so smart to simulate disrespect to authority and to always speak of teachers in a sort of contemptuous familiarity by their first names. There are a lot of useful things a stiff drillmaster can teach some of the lads of the Fort Wayne high school.

These bright and warmer days ought to inspire ready thoughts and longings aside from merely going' fishin'. There is the home garden, for instance, that is to reduce the cost and add to the joys of living. In you does this sap-starting weather find no answer to the call of the soil?

If his portraits do him no injustice, it may be said of the late czar that he does not look like a man who would take a forced job of lame-ducking very painfully to heart.

TABLOID HISTORY OF RUSSIA

Russia Extended to Baltic Under Peter the Great, and Further Extended by the Great Catherine.

(Fourth Chapter of the Daily Sentinel's Tabloid History of Russia.)

Michael Feodorovitch, the first Romanoff czar, found Russia in 1613 in a condition of anarchy and disorder similar to that which obtains in Mexico today. The Don cossacks were ravaging Astrakhan; the Zaporogian cossacks infested the river Dwina region; Polish inroads were constant on the southwest; banditry was a common practice everywhere.

And Michael was a fifteen-year-old boy.

He had been chosen because the Romanoff family represented, in the minds of the noble, all that was best in Russian life.

Nobles soon schemed to use Michael to their own interest.

Patriotism arose, however, and popular support helped end the rule of pillage.

Poland refused to recognize the boy czar. He purchased peace by giving Poland land. Michael ruled till 1645. His son and successor acquired Little Russia by voluntary submissiin of the cossacks, who had rebelled against Poland. In the war with Poland which followed, Russia retook Kiev and extended her domain to the Dnieper.

In 1689 Peter the Great became czar. He worked to extend Russia westward to the Baltic.

He won territories on the Gulf of Finland, and in 1703 laid the foundations for his new capital, which bears his name—St. Petersburg, now Petrograd.

He took Azov from the Turks, and planned to establish a navy on the Black sea, but the Turks reconquered Azov, and this plan failed.

Peter the Great spent years in western Europe learning trades, including shipbuilding. He tried to remake Russia on the lines of western Europe, and only partly succeeded.

Peters' son Alexis died prematurely, and the throne passed to Peter's wife, Catherine I., then to Aexis' weak son, Peter II. Upon his death the privy council set aside all descendants of Peter the Great and gave the throne to Anna, daughter of Peter the Great's imbecile brother Ivan.

Anna was under German control.

Anna's favorite, Biron, on her death, became regent for the infant son of her niece, Anna Karlovna. Anna Karlovna herself overthrew Biron and assumed the regency, only to succumb to a conspiracy that enthroned Elizabeth Petrovna, daughter of Peter the Great. Elizabeth joined Austria in a war against Prussia, showing herself the enemy of Frederick the Great of Prussia.

Elizabeth's death saved Prussia when Russian troops were in Berlin. Her successor, Peter of Holstein-Gottrop, admired Frederick and became his ally. But Peter was dethroned and his wife took the throne as Catherine the Great. Catherine was a lady of many loves, but under her guidance Russia gained much territory, taking 180,000 square miles and six million people with the partition of Poland, and expelling Turkey from the north shore of the Black sea.

Catherine's son, Paul, joined the European coalition against France, and was about to repeat the treachery of the last Peter by leaving the coalition and warring on England, when he was murdered by conspirators.

The story of the accession of the peace lover and humanitarian Alexander I., at the beginning of the nineteenth centry, will be told next.

Short men of Harlem held a meeting recently to protest against the high positions of straps in public conveyances.

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Louis A. Centlivre left for Grand Rapids, Mich., this afternoon to establish a branch for the Centlivre company.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Rosser McClure has been brightened by the arrival of a brand new boy. To say that Mr. McClure is proud of his boy is expressing it very mildly.

The new rooms of the Fort Wayne lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F., were thrown open for public inspection today. A public reception to which all are invited will be held this evening.

John Lassus, proprietor of the Lake Shore notel, has purchased the lot adjoining his place of business, the consideration being $1,550. He purchased the lot from Mrs. McLaughlin.

L. P. Scherer, the Maumee avenue baker, has let the contract for the erection of a $2,000 addition to his large establishment. Mr. Scherer is one of Fort Wayne's enterprising citizens.

C. B. Fitch, who has been representing the National Life Insurance company of Vermont, has been officially appointed general agent for northern Indiana. The company has opened an office at 46 Pixley & Long block, with Mr. Fitch in charge.

The Standard oil trust, the most powerful manufacturing monopoly in this country and the originator of the trust idea, has nominally passed out of existence. The half dozen multi-millionaires who have so ably built up this great combination of corporations have at last had to bow to the laws which declare trusts to be opposed to public policy.

About $12,000 is the amount raised for the proposed new Congregational church which it is hoped will be erected the coming summer at the corner of Jefferson and Harrison streets. The amount necessary to complete the edifice will probably not exceed $20,000. Metropolitan ideas are introduced in the plans, the exterior having a massive and beautiful appearance, while the interior has an arrangement that is convenient and wholly different from anything of the kind in the city. The auditorium will seat six hundred, while the Sunday school room at the rear will accommodate about four hundred. Sliding doors divide the two.

CHEWING GUM.

Chewing gum is a piece of rubber tire without a backbone flavored with a smell. A good tire will average about 5,000 miles, but the mileage of a stick of gum is unlimited. The original flavor in a stick of gum soon exits and then it's like chewing a chunk of 24-hour boiled tripe.

But expert gum wrestlers never throw away a wad of gum that has all the taste unchewed. Each day they give it a different flavor, such as brass bed flavor, movie seat taste, office furniture flavor, etc. Then, after a month or so of mouth jui jitsu with the gum it can be thrown on the sidewalk or floor for somebody to step on so they can give an imitation of a fly scottisching across a stack of wheats flooded with New Orleans molesses.

The gum landscape on the underpart of movie seats and soda fountain chairs makes the rocky mountain scenery look utter than Mexican beer. The more modern movie houses don't have the wire hat holders under the seats since a Chicago genius got the hunch of letting George Gum do it. Soon they'll have restaurant signs reading, "Not responsible for hats, coats, articles and chewing gum."

The old gag of walking away and forgetting your umbrella now has chewing gum for a teammate.

Chewing gum and talking at same time is worthy of applause. Telephone operators win with this trick. They've got it down so pat a clever linguist can almost make out what they say.

JOHNNY'S LETTER

n. y., wensdy—in the skools here they mark report cards A or B or C or D

& 1 kid that goes to skool no. 78 has been pulling down a C or a D rite along, but he wasent worrying haff so much about it as his teecher

so she writes a note to the kid's dad & tells him you had better put a littel pep into yure son or he will be among the also rans at the end of the term, only that wasent the way she rote it for teechers dont know enuff to rite like i do & use snappy words the next day the kid's dad goes to the principle of the skool & says that bonehead of a teecher is bailing my boy out & he has been standing at the head of his class all the time the principle looks at the kid's reckerd & says, why your son has been getting a C or D all the time

yep, I know, the man says to him, & you notise that he dident get any A or B dont you, and the principle tels him, yes i see & that is why he shood study more

then he told the man what the letters stood for

& the man said my boy tells me D stands for dandy, C for careful, B for bad and A for awful, and as he had more Ds than anything else i thought he was verry smart

when last seen the littel kid was going home with his dad's hand on his coat coller, & I'll bet he had an A time of it when his dad got him in the house

ODD, ISN'T IT?

Chicago—Thomas E. Donnelley, publisher, complained to mayor of low taxes and sent check for $200, saying that although he lived outside the limits of Lake Forest, a suburb, he derived many benefits from the town and felt obliged to pay some of its taxes.

Patriotism Lives in Floating Flag

A certain old brick house in a certain old part of town symbolizes well the true spirit of Fort Wayne's patriotism.

Down from the second story windows of this time beaten structure drops the billowy folds of the Stars and Stripes. The large flag, still lively with freedom's colors of red, white and blue, is not a new one. It had wafted in the breeze many times before it appeared at the opening of the past week. It is always displayed on the nation's birthday and its texture is not the kind that blends in a mass of drab tints at the end of a dashing shower.

Never did the old flag, dangling before the certain old house, appear more beautiful than in the sunshine and clouds of the week just gone. Hundreds looked from windows of rocking street cars upon the quiet dignity of the big flag, which trailed down over the arched door of the house and softened the weather worn appearance of the dwelling's front.

The house itself is a square, two story structure. It was built for time, in a day when there was no subleting of contracts, and its smoke blackened walls appear to have lost none of their strength through the years of beating spring rains and crashing sleet storms. It is a homely, home-like building. For many years it has been tenanted by one family, whose founders came from the land of Teutons, and the great-great-great-grandchildren are proud of their German ancestry.

This certain old brick house, considered pompous in early Fort Wayne, has passed through three stirring epochs in our country's history. It has stood amidst storms of dissension and rebellion, which swept across the land in darkness that overshadows even the crisis of today.

When Sumpter fell and war trumpets sounded; when martial music was heard in the streets and the drilling of Fort Wayne soldier lads, a son, tall and manly, walked from what is now a dingy front door of the certain old brick house and took his place in the ranks. He marched away with the other Fort Wayne youths to tramp the fields of fire and death that the nation's honor might be sustained.

He came back at the end of that deadly conflict. He ended his days at home. They were days of quiet and upright walking in the avenues of trade.

Today his grandchildren have hanged out "Old Glory" as a silent signal of loyalty. There would be at least one recruit from the certain old brick house in case of a national call to arms. The banner which wafts above that ancient door must not be sullied.

"Show us a sign of Fort Wayne loyalty," say some well meaning people who have been told that the nation looks upon our city with distrust in this moment of stress. "Fort Wayne has been slow in showing its colors and we fear it may lag in at a tragic moment," comes an expression.

Fort Wayne may have been tardy in filling its streets with flags. Maybe its citizens took their loyalty for granted until a moment when they felt that such an expression of devotion to the colors was actually needed. Today there is no city, the size of Fort Wayne, showing a greater number of flags. From her mansions to the most modest dwellings, before the palatial homes along her avenues to the colorless cottages of her hard working foreigners, "The Star Spangled Banner" is tossed to the breeze.

Fort Wayne needs no more staple monument to her loyalty. Her flag bedecked dwellings are her living symbols of patriotism. These are finer than chiseled works to freedom's name. And one of the finest of her signs of unfailing love of country is a certain old brick house in a certain old part of town.

CAN'T FIND DANDRUFF

Every bit of dandruff disappears after one or two applications of Danderine rubbed well into the scalp with the finger tips. Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store and save your hair. After a few applications you can't find a particle of dandruff or any falling hair, and the scalp will never itch.—Advertisement.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

When constipated or bilious give "California Syrup of Figs."

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Advertisement.

WAS IT CANCER OR ECZEMA?

HELP CAME TO THIS YOUNG LADY AFTER EVERYTHING ELSE FAILED.

Mrs. Chas. A. Siemon, of 1331 Huestis avenue, mother of this young lady, and whose father is the well-known tinner of the Grosjean Hardware store, of South Broadway, says: "Our daughter was afflicted with what four doctors said was eczema. It was an eruption as large as a silver dollar and extended through the entire thickness of her cheek, and was very sore inside and out. Itching and burning was intense and was of four years' standing. It got continually worse. One doctor said it had to be cut out, but I would not consent to it because it would disfigure her for life. I was afraid it was cancer as it had every indication. We spent two hundred dollars trying to get relief but everything failed until she used Miller's Herb Remedy, and the first bottle gave her relief. She used six bottles in all and was entirely cured. She is now a picture of health. I would advise all having a blood disease to give this good remedy a fair trial."

Millers' Herb Remedy is especially recommended for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Salt Rheum, Constipation, Chronic Diarrhoea, Sick Headache, Dizziness, Biliousness, Liver and Stomach Trouble, Hot Flashes, Kidney Pains, Swelling of Feet and Limbs, Ovarian Trouble; at all Druggists, 75c. SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hurlbert Poole, of South Harrison street, are issuing invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Irma Lucile, to Mr. James Pomeroy Porter, youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. Miles F. Porter, which will take place in the First Presbyterian church, on Thursday, April twelfth, at 8 o'clock in the evening. After the wedding a reception to relatives and the most intimate friends of the bride and groom will be held at the residence of the bride. Miss Poole is an interesting and charming young woman in society circles. Following her graduation from the public schools Miss Poole went to the Law-Froebel Kindergarten school, in Toledo, O., and finished a course in training there. Since then Miss Poole has taught in the kindergarten department of the city schools and her success in her work has depended upon her adaptibility to it as well as upon her special preparation. Mr. Porter followed his work in the Fort Wayne high school with a four years' course at Williams college, taking an A. B. degree. For several years Mr. Porter has been engaged in business and has just recently taken a position with the Wayne Oil Tank company to take charge of their office in Pittsburg, Pa., his selection for the place being a result of his ability and agreeable personality.

The hosts were Mesdames Somers, Scott and Studer.

Fifteen young girls were delightlightfully entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Wysong, 104 East Creighton avenue, Thursday evening, March 22, at a military "stag" party. In order to show their patriotism the girls were dressed in militia and navy costumes. The home was beautifully decorated throughout with red, white and blue flags and bunting. The evening was spent with music, games, dancing and cards. At a late hour C. L. Wysong escorted the girls to the dinigroom, where a table was prettily decorated in harmonizing colors. Refreshments consisting of several good things, including red, white and blue ice cream and cake, were served. Those who enjoyed the affair were Misses Dorothy Mabel Morton, Billie Detro, Helen Heidenreich, Velma and Annette Kennedy, Helen Hendricks, Ruth Wolfe, Doris Reed, Gyneth Detimore, Katherine McDowd, Bert Harris, Viletta Davis, Fern Gray of Pennville, Mrs. Ruth Miller, Mrs. Belle Perkins Morton and Mrs. Hazel Sweet Wysong.

ROBERT MANTEL AT MAJESTIC.

Finished Acting and Beautiful Settings With Splendid Support.

Robert Mantel opened a two days' engagement at the Majestic theater on Friday night, in "The Merchant of Venice," with a splendid company and with beautiful costuming and stage equipment. Mr. Mantel's Shylock is a great delineation of character, enlisting the sympathy of the audience without palliating the Jew's desire for revenge or adoration of his ducats. Miss Genevieve Hamper, the leading lady, is a beautiful and refined young woman who has the intelligence and ability to act the role of Portia without a flaw. The entire company is an excellent one and the noble lines of the great poet are read with discriminating judgment and with admirable dictation. The company gives "Macbeth" this evening and the performance should have a large audience. Mr. Mantel was called before the footlights again and again last evening, his superb work being well recognized and appreciated by the audience.

MOTHER GOOSE AND FAMILY

Pretty Operetta to Be Given Next Month for Benefit of Hope Hospital—Many of Fort Wayne's Well Known Singers Will Be Seen in Charming Production.

MRS. HORTENSE REYNOLDS, Director.

MRS. H. H. ROGERS.

MISS RUTH GUMPPER.

Familiar but old friends are coming to Fort Wayne on a visit soon, dressed in quite new clothes and singing many lovely new songs, but at the same time reminding you with merry strain of the long ago. That is if you are grown up, and if not, these friends will still be familiar and dear and will delight you with their pretty ways and sweet music. There will be a lost princess, always a sad affair until the happy ending. There will be Mother Goose and her son, Jack Bo-Beep, Old King Cole and the Queen of Hearts, who is mother to the princess who is kidnapped by the lady villain of the story. The villain hasn't even a name other than the Old Woman. The Old Woman made her home in a shoe and her children were all stolen ones whom she returned when she could get enough pay for doing so. When the Old Woman stole the Princess from her mother, the Queen of Hearts, there was a great ado about it. But the Old Woman had her and around the neck of the Princess she placed a chain and locket, then because a hard storm prevented her from getting back to her house in the shoe with the stolen child, she left the baby on the doorstep of Mother Goose, she of the big, big heart. Mother Goose took the baby and took off the locket and laid it away until the child should grow up. And Princess Hearts lived with Mother Goose for many years and learned to love Jack Goose very dearly, and all the mother's friends, Boy Blue, Jack Horner, Mary who was always contrary, and many others. And after awhile Princess Hearts grows up and Mother Goose believes it is time to give her locket to her. The Princess takes the locket and puts it around her neck and then, because she can't help it and because the locket had been bewitched years before by the Old Woman, she at once forgets all of her friends and hurries herself to the castle where she finds her dear parents, so time passes and many lovers come to see Princess Hearts but for some reason she can't explain, she is always sad. At this time comes in the part of the story that makes for the happy ending of "living happy ever after." The King and Queen of Hearts issue a proclamation offering the Princess' hand in marriage and half this kingdom to whomsoever is able to make her smile. Then again enters Jack Goose upon the scene ambitious for his love and happiness and he persuades the Princess to remove her locket. That has the desired effect for she then remembers all that had happened before she put it on. Thus everything ends as it should.

The music for the story was written by Jesse L. Gaynor with whom Mrs. Reynolds, who is putting on the operetta here, has long been associated. Fort Wayne is giving of her best talent for the production and there are to be a number of the city's favorite singers and dancers who will be heard and seen in tuneful songs and pretty dances. The entire production is under the management of Mrs. Hortense Reynolds, who has had years of experience in the direction of giving operettas and children's entertainments. Mrs. Reynolds directed the choir of an Episcopal church, in St. Paul, Minn., for a number of years and for a good while she was director of music in the Des Moines, Ia., public schools. For the last nine years Mrs. Reynolds has been associated with Jessie L. Gaynor, the famous writer of songs for children.

It has been a tremendous amount of work to get the plan for giving this entertainment to go. Of the workers, Mrs. B. H. Hudson is the chairman and to her untiring efforts and with the assistance of her committees, everything is now moving swiftly. The sudden illness of Mrs. Harry Hogan, who was to take the role of the Princess, was a damper to the spirits of the promoters, but Mrs. Reynolds was able to suggest Mrs. Lincoln Dickey for the role, and she consented to sing it. Mrs. Dickey has already appeared in other cities in this role so it is familiar to her. Mrs. Dickey has a beautiful voice. The operetta will be given in the Majestic theater soon after Easter.

WITH THE STUDY CLUBS.

The Bay View Study club will meet on Tuesday with Mrs. George Henry, 1808 Spy Run avenue. The class will continue its study of Milton and there will be readings from "Paradise Lost."

The South Side Reading club is a recently formed organization in study club circles. Mrs. G. F. Wise, of Holton avenue, will be the hostess. A paper on the political history of Indiana will ber ead by Mrs. George Feustal. Mrs. Ed Meyers will lead the discussion. The club numbers twenty members.

There will be a meeting of the Shakespeare club Monday with Mrs. William Hackney. Russia will be the study topic of the club, though the present conditions in that country will likely be considered rather than its former government, the subject designated.

The annual meeting of the Duodecnual meeting on Monday with Mrs. Corey.

The Current Literaturo club will meet on Tuesday with Mrs. Hadley, Mrs. Burch and Mrs. Ransom as hosts. Great pictures in America is the subject to be considered.

The annual meeting of the Duodeimo club will be held with Mrs. C. C. Schlatter, with Mrs. O. E. Richard as assisting hostess, on Wednesday afternoon.

The Thursday Afternoon Shakespeare club will meet the coming week with Mrs. Van Arnum. Miss Helen O'Rourke will read a paper on "The Ring of the Nibelung."

The Twentieth Century club has a meeting scheduled for Thursday afternoon. The social standing of women in South America and in Mexico will be discussed by Mrs. Hartt and Mrs. Ford. Mrs. W. W. Knight will be the hostess at her home, 326 Brackenridge street.

A postponed meeting of the Morning Musical society will be held next Friday morning in Elks' hall. Miss Ethel Doud, Miss Edith Geake, Mrs. S. L. Morris, jr., and Mrs. F. E. Stouder have the program in charge.

DECATUR NEWS.

Decatur, Ind., March 24.—Clara Eloise is the name of the girl baby born to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Leonard.

The burial of John Barrone, who died March 26 and whose body was placed in the vault in Maplewood cemetery until the return of a daughter, Mrs. Emil Cappaert, from a Fort Wayne hospital, will be held Sunday afternoon.

County Recorder Aaron C. Augsburger left this morning for Elida, Ohio, where he was called by the death of his brother's wife, Mrs. D. C. Augsburger.

John R. Parrish and W. F. Beery were appointed by the school board to take the school census.

Samuel Bailer had his right wrist broken when he cranked his automobile.

Ida Liby and Frances Heller returned to Monroe after a stay at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Simon Moore, who was operated upon at the hospital in Fort Wayne Tuesday, her condition being serious.

The J. S. Bowers family and Miss Alma Bowers were at Kendallville, where they attended a banquet and reception given by the Oak club, where Ralph Wilks announced his engagement to Miss Gladys Bowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Bowers, of this city.

Mrs. J. C. Polhemus arrived from Upper Sandusky, Ohio, for a visit with her mother, Mrs. E. Woods.

C. L. Melbers and family will probably move to Fort Wayne during April. Mr. Melbers is a motorman on the Decatur-Fort Wayne interurban and when the schedule is changed in the near future will have his headquarters in Fort Wayne to be able to leave on the early morning trip south.

Mrs. Drayton Hill and daughter, Mrs. John Scheumann, and children have gone to Grabill to visit with relatives over Sunday.

Mrs. B. E. VanCamp went to Geneva to visit with a daughter, Mrs. W. H. Wheeler, and from there will go to Vera Cruz to visit with relatives.

Mrs. Ferdinand Bleeke received word from Miss Blanche Harshbarger, a nurse well known here, of the death of her mother, Mrs. Milo Harshbarger, of near Columbia City.

Miss Margaret Moran went to Fort Wayne for a visit over the week-end.

Men who want the Best Clothes for a reasonable price must go to PATTERSON-FLETCHER CO.

Reserve your table at the Anthony hotel tonight; dancing and music.

At the annual school shrub and seed sale last week orders were given to the amount of $25.72. It looks as though the boys and girls of South Wayne were going to do their part to beautify their homes and have fresh vegetables for their tables.

Our school received next to the highest mark in the city in writing last term. O. L. Rogers, supervisor of penmanship, graded the papers.

The teachers of our school have asked the pupils to collect newspapers and magazines for two weeks. The papers are to be sold and the money used to buy a first aid medicine and surgical cabinet for the school. Yes, we believe in preparedness; the kind that helps to relieve pain and suffering.

Very soon we will miss James Stephen and Mary Hillis Miles, as they are going to the country. Mr. E. E. Miles has bought Mr. W. A. Johnson's farm of fourteen acres and will take his family there to live.

An evening meeting was held by the parent-teacher club in the auditorium of our school on March 16, 1917, 8 p. m. Mr. H. H. Rogers gave a talk on eyes. The auditorium was decorated with flags. The audience sang patriotic songs, "America," "Star Spangeled Banner" and "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean." Miss Jacobs accompanied on the piano.

There will be a bird talk at the public library by Miss Margaret Hanna, April 7, at 10 a. m. She will imitate all the calls of the birds.

In all the rooms in our school we are learning the flag salute.

HAMILTON SCHOOL.

(Neva Davis and Malcolm O'Day, Editors.)

7A-6B Grades.

Two new grades were opened at the Hamilton school at the beginning of the February term, the 7B and the kindergarten.

The kindergarten is prettily decorated and a pleasant, sunny room. The number of pupils is forty-two. Perhaps more will come soon.

Beautiful American flags have been purchased by the 7B, 6A and 6AB grades.

6AB Grades.

The 6AB ranked 56.4 per cent first class writers for February. This entitles us to the penmanship pennant for the next month.

Robert Crosby expects to move to Seattle, Wash., Wednesday. We will miss him very much.

We have just finished reading a book called "Sure Pop and the Safety Scouts." We think that the book has taught each of us a lesson in "Safety First."

5A Grade.

Irene Cheer is going to Toronto, Canada, the last of this month.

The average of our spelling last week was 87 per cent. We have a spelling contest each week to see which rooms are the highest. Neither Miss Winters nor any of us were satisfied with our mark, so we decided to do something to better it. We selected a committee with Paul Agnew as chairman. He chose Irene Cheer, Marjorie Gessler, Margaret Lamb, Lana Schaaf, Dorothy Bennet and Miller to help him. The work of these pupils is to help the weaker ones and raise our grade. So far we have gone from 87 to 98 per cent. This committee will look after the spelling for the rest of the term.

4A 5B Grades.

While studying the salmon industry in Alaska, the following question arose: "Why is a piece of tin usually found in salmon cans?" As there were many and various answers, the class decided to write to different canning companies for information. The following letter is one which was sent to the Alaska Packing association in California:

Alaska Packing Association, San Fransico, California.

Dear Sirs:—A few days ago in our geography lesson we were talking about salmon canning. The following question was asked, "Why is there a little piece of tin in every salmon can?" We asked out fathers and mothers and other people that we thought would know something about it. They all gave us different answers so we thought we would write to you and find out the real reason. We shall thank you very much if you will please write and give us some information on this question.

Respectfully yours,
IRA L. BROWN.

The class was more than pleased to receive the following reply together with an interesting pamphlet on "Salmon Canning."

IRA L. BROWN,
3632 S. Barr Street,
Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Dear Sir:—

Replying to your letter of January 30, 1917: The small piece of tin in soldered salmon cans is placed there to keep the vent in the center of the top clear of fish to enable the air to escape from the can when going through the hot solder bath. The heat of the melted solder causes the air in the cans to expand and if this vent was not kept open, the can could not be properly closed as the expanding air would blow through the solder and cause a leak.

This was customary in what are now called the "old style" or "soldered" cans. Most all salmon, and practically all other hermetically sealed canned goods, are now packed in a double seamed or so-called "sanitary can"—a can on which no solder is used for sealing the ends, closure being made by turning the tin in a double seam and rolling it tight.

In processing these cans, the can is pre-heated to expel the air and the top afterwards double seamed on.

We are sending you a copy of a booklet "Interesting Facts About Canned Salmon," which was printed in 1908, but the article "The Process of Canning Salmon" may interest you.

Yours very truly,
ALASKA PACKERS ASSOCIATION.

4A Grade.

The Portable Opera Company.

The pupils in charge of the opening exercises of the 4A grade this week have been giving very good plays. The one we have enjoyed most is Cinderella.

The characters were:
Cinderella, Virginia Bleck.
Prince, Richard Van Etta.
First Sister, Veda Stevens.
Second Sister, Virginia Hebert.
Fairy God Mother, Mabel Spath.
King, Albert Millhouse.
Minister, Charles Brubaker.

The minister made everyone laugh so much that he almost broke up the play when he married Cinderella to the prince. He opened a book and we all thought he was going to read the marriage service, but instead he read, "After four days and nights of exposure both of them froze in the middle of the sea."

4B Grade.

Our Portable.

We had a little portable;
Its name was Woody Brown.
We lent it to some friends of ours,
Who live in Lakeside town.
The carpenters did come
With saws and hammers large.
They pounded it;
They broke it;
They hauled it through the streets.
So you see, we wouldn't lend our portable now
For any kind of feat.

3A Grade.

We have two spelling pennants in our school; one for the upper and one for the lower grades.

The class which has the highest average in spelling for the week is given the pennant. We are very proud to think that we have had the pennant every week this term, but one.

The boys and girls in our class are racing for the most hundreds and so far the boys have had the highest score.

We are working very hard with our reading, trying for "the praise card" to be given by Miss Calmerton to the best readers in 3A classes throughout the city.

3B GRADE.

The Room of Smiles.

Do you like to see people smile? Of course you do. We like to see people smile, too, because it makes us happy. We called our room "the room of smiles" because we try to keep smiling all the time. In our room, if any children look cross, we smile and smile until we make them smile. If anyone smiles at us, we smile back.

We have our boards decorated to help us remember to smile. We have two little verses. They are:

"Smile, smile, all the while,
Sweet contentment show;
Keep a sunny face,
Everywhere you go."

The other one is:

"Smile!"

Perhaps there may be a better cure than a smile, but there's no cheaper one. Then, too, we have a calendar of bluebirds, with borders to match. Bluebirds stand for happiness. We think happiness and smiles go together. What do you think?

BUTLER NEWS.

Butler, Ind., March 23.—Mr. and J. W. Lamm left Saturday morning for Danville, Ill., where they were called by the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. S. Q. Lamm, who is suffering with pneumonia.

Mrs. Cyrus Ollinger, of Auburn, came to Butler Friday to visit her daughters, Mrs. O. A. Clay and Mrs. Frank Gregg and families.

Mrs. Edgar Squires and granddaughter, returned home from Waterloo, after a short visit with her sister, Mrs. Miles Hallett.

Mrs. Levy Nelson spent the day at Waterloo with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Clarence Nelson.

Mrs. George Campbell returned from Waterloo where she visited her sister, Mrs. Delbert Crooks.

Mrs. D. McDonold and Mrs. Wilbur McCann, returned home from Kendallville where they went to see the later's husband who is a patient in the Lakeside hospital. He had his leg broken last Wednesday while working on the section helping to clear the wreckage from the New York Central lines near Waterloo.

Mrs. Thomas Rudd, of Auburn, came to Butler Friday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Charles Potter a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Rudd are preparing to move to Butler in a few weeks.

Miss Dorothy Torrence, of Bimidji, Minn., who is a student at Oberlin college, is expected in Butler in a few days to visit her grandmother, Mrs. W. C. Webster.

Attorney F. H. Ritter and wife took their baby to Fort Wayne the first of the week and Dr. Bulson removed a penny from the child's throat.

The members of the Butler High School alumni will meet at the Butler public library Thursday night, March 29, at 8 o'clock, to make arrangements for their annual meeting and banquet.

Mrs. Nellie Yarlott, who is spending the week in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Huntington, reports her mother improving from her recent illness.

Charles Ordway, of West Franklin, is moving from the Taylor farm to a farm east of Butler.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Bert Huntington, of Constantine, Mich., March 8, a little daughter.

Rev. John Imhoff is home from the west visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Imhoff, in Franklin township.

Beginning April 1, Butler will have free city delivery of mail. Luther Bryant and Charles Oberlin have been selected for this work. Their new uniforms are on exhibition at the William Knisely & Sons store window, on Broadway.

Attorney F. A. Brink has moved his office into the rooms formerly occupied by Dr. Foutz, just above the Home bakery. The rooms formerly occupied by Attorney Brink will be remodeled and used by the Mountz bakery firm.

D. H. Knisely is packing his household goods and preparing to move into the rooms now occupied by Miss Ellen Rook. Repairs will be made on these apartments. Mr. Knisely has sold his home on West Main street to Daniel Brown, of near Butler, and Mr. Brown expects to move to Butler about the first of April.

The Butler postoffice is undergoing some changes and repairs. New desks are being added to accommodate the new carriers, and the boxes will be moved out farther into the main building.

The business men of Butler gave a lunch at the Hotel Butler Friday night in connection with the community institute which is in progress this week.

STUDENTS DROP FINAL TO PENNVILLE OUTFIT

Season is Closed With a Defeat for High School Team.

Following the successful spurt made lately the Fort Wayne high basketball team suffered a defeat at the hands of Pennville high last night by a score of 33 to 24. Inability to locate the cages defeated the Fort Wayne team in the second meeting betwen the two schools. The Pennville floor is much larger than that used by the locals and detracted from the team play considerably.

In the opinion of Coach Wright of Fort Wayne the Pennsville team was considerably strengthened in comparison to their playing here in January. They were at home on the large floor and were able to work the floor to a decided advantage.

The line-ups and scores:

Invention of Spirit Influence Causes Legal Fight Between Father and Son.

Settle, Wash., Mar.23—Advice from the "spirit world" by a German professor who died 400 years ago" has left wealth, bitter dissension and law suits in its wake here.

A weirder case probably never reached the courts.

E. H. Alvord and his father, T. M. Alvord, claim to be beneficiaries of a mystic influence thru which detailed plans for an automatic wood pulp compressor were conveyed to a trance medium.

"It was the "Professor," a German pedagogist long deceased, maintains Dr. Sarah K. Greene, the medium. "I got all my information from him.I know nothing about merchanics myself."

Communicating with her by telephone, the younger Alvord claims he was able to sketch and perfect a diagram for a compressor, today a commercial success. The spirit control not only corrected mistakes and offered suggestions in constructing the contrivance, he said, but also in marketing the patent.

It was at this stage that the "Professor" brought a peck of trouble into the mundane sphere for those upon whom he bestowed his genius.

Machine materialized under direction of spirit influence, according to its inventors—Dr. Sarah K. Greene, the medium who says she received spirit communications explaining the details of the Invention—E. H. Alvord, who went to court against his father as a result of the ghost-made contrivance.

According to court testimony, the ethereal inventor persuaded the elder Alvord to borrow $4,700 on his insurance policy to help finance the sales company. Then the son failed to issue him a promised amount of stock in return for the loan, and the father's faith in the "Professor" dwindled almost to the vanishing point.

In court the son justified his course by saying he was implicitly following the dicates of the spirit world not to let "the old gentleman" get control of the stock.

The court ruled that Alvord, senior, had not received a square deal from the ghostly regions and ordered the son to make restitution of the $4,700, "spirits or no spirits."

The "Professor," however, has not been shooed away. In fact he's promised Alvord, junior, that he has only begun to reveal to him many mechanical wonders still to come.

"He told me," said Alvord, "that he had trained me thru my youth, and that among other inventions to come was one to harness the sun and one by which it would be possible to travel from Seattle to San Francisco in one day. I get all my ideas thru Dr. Greene who is advised by the 'Professor' while she's in a trance."

At present, however, the ideas seen to be somewhat gummed up by a very material court which places earthly square dealing above the "Professor's" astral business code.

OCEAN CURRENTS CAUSED CYCLONE

So Say Eighth Grade Pupils in Huntington County Examination.

Cyclone which nearly destroyed Newcastle, was caused by ocean currents, wrote one of the bright Eighth grade pupils, who took the Huntington county common school examination last week, according to the Huntington Press.

Other humerous answers gathered from the manuscripts follow:

Question. Write a brief biography of Benjamin Franklin.

Answer. Franklin discovered the lightning rod by seeing a kite in the air. Franklin invented the fireless cooker and sewing machine.

Q. Has the purchase of Alaska proved a wise transaction?

A. If we got into war Alaska would be a good place to shoot the ships as they go by.

Q. Who was the first governor of Indiana, civil war governor and the present governor?

A. The first governor was George Washington. The civil war governor was Abraham Lincoln. And the present governor is Woodrow Wilson. Another answered that Milton Cross is the present governor of Indiana, referring to Congressman Milton Kraus.

Q. What battle was the turning point of the civil war? Give an account of this battle.

A. You could track Lee's men by their crimson tracks in the snow. (The pupil was evidently referring to the battle of Gettysburg, which was fought on July 4.) Another replied that the turning point of the civil war was when they wouldn't trade prisoners any more.

Q. What effect do ocean currents have upon the climate of lands touched by them?

A. The cyclone that nearly destroyed Newcastle was caused by ocean currents.

Q. What is a harbor?

A. A harbor is a city or country along a large river.

Q. Give the plural of ash?

A. Cinders.

Q. Give the plural of sheep?

A. Sheap. Lambs.

Q. Give the plural of Miss Jones?

A. Mrs. Jones.

Q. Why should we eat slowly and chew the food well?

A. Chew your food good because your stomach has no teeth.

Q. Define smut?

A. Smut is a breed of ducks.

Q. A cow gives 8,500 pounds of milk in a year. If the milk tests 3.42 per cent. butterfat and the butterfat is worth 34 cents per pound, what is the income from the cow?

One boy answered: $9,883.33. Another found that the cow produced 98 cents worth of butterfat.

Q. What are joints?

A. Joints are ends of two things fastened together. Joints is where you come to the end of the bone. Joints are places where the bones can be bent without breaking.

Q. Describe the different kind of joints found in the human body.

A. Pivot joint is at the upper end of the back bone where the head sets. The pivot joint is in the neck and works just like a turret on a warship.

Q. Who is our Hoosier poet?

A. Our Hoosier poet is Dunn. He wrote a history of Indiana.

Q. What is bacteria?

A. Bacteria is gum that is in the air.

Good Old Home-Made Family Cough Remedy

Much Better than the Ready-Made Kind—Easily and Cheaply Prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you would hardly have in them all the curative power that lies in this simple "home-made" cough syrup which takes only a few minutes to prepare.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 54 cents and gives you a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and sugar syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes that line the throat, chest and bronchial tubes, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaiacol and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, be sure to ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

POLICE SEEK "TANGO PIRATE" IN HOTEL MURDER MYSTERY.

STERNBERG BEING ARRESTED AND WOMAN WHOSE BODY WAS FOUND IN HOTEL.

New York, March 24.—Who killed Mrs. Elsie Lee Hilair?

Police of New York are holding a man they charge knows something about the murder of the Brooklyn woman who gave her name as "Florence Gray, Boston," at the Hotel Martinique, and was found dead the next morning in her room, her jewels, worth $2,500, missing.

But the police are doubtful about the last few hours of her life.

Benjamin Sternberg, the man held, confesses, the police say, to having been with the murdered woman until about two hours beforer it is believed she was murdered.

He was to have gone out with her that night, he says, according to the police, but she broke the engagement when she met a tall man and left Sternberg, walking off with the new acquaintance. A search is being made for this man.

Detectives are searching the cabarets and "tango parlors" in the city, on the theory a "tango pirate" committed the murder.

Sternberg says, according to the police, he met Mrs. Hilair at a theater a week before the murder, leaving his wife and three-months-old child at home. Mrs. Hilair was with her niece, Miss Ira Murray, who says a blond-haired woman was with Sternberg.

A nod was followed by a meeting in the lobby and two appointments on other evenings, before the murder, Mrs. Sternberg says her husband pawned her large diamond ring for $200 about the same time.

The solution of the mystery, police say, will come when the missing jewels are found and the tall stranger whom Sternberg mentions, appears.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Robert Mantell Tonight in "Macbeth."

On the only broken week of time in a season of thirty-five weeks, extending from coast to coast, Mr. Robert B. Mantell, the eminent tragedian, is at the Majestic theater this evening for a nengagement, presenting the classic play "Macbeth." The performance will be presented with the same care in scenic equipment, costuming and casting as is observed when the organization plays engagements in New York, Chicago and Boston.

In selecting the repertoire for Fort Wayne the local management was careful to choose what was being studied in the public schools of the state.

Mr. Mantell's company this year represents the study and care of years on the part of William A. Brady, the manager, in the selection of the best available talent on the classic stage and among the well known names are those of Fritz Leiber, John J. Burke, Frank Peters, Guy Lindsley, Albert I. Barrett, Geoorge Wilson, John Wray, Geoorge Westlake, John Alexander, Genevieve Reynolds, Virginia Bronson, Teresa Larkin, Marion Evensen, Ethel Mantell, Lila Dell-Frost and Genevieve Hamper, the leading woman.

Rose Melville in Sis Hopkins.

Rose Melville will be seen at the Majestic next Thursday in "Sis Hopkins," a rural comedy drama of enduring fame. This play, so rich in its quaint humor, has been a source of merriment to countless thousands, and its clean and wholesome story is one of lasting appeal.

Miss Melville is making a special tour in her original characterization of Sis in the now famous rural comedy drama, "Sis Hopkins." It is quite a fact that Rose Melville and "Sis Hopkins" are almost household words.

When one stops to consider the simplicity of the story of "Sis Hopkins," its clean comedy, its pathos so deftly blended, telling in simple fashion the comedy and the tragedy in the life of a simple country girl, its purity and sweetness being presented in such a way as to teach a lesson without seeming to preach a moral; when a play continues to amuse, entertain and impress season after season there is no further proof needed that it has the intangible something that strikes the right chord, and there is little left of doubt as to its millions of stanch admirers. Of the plot of the play it is needless to speak, it has been told many times; suffice to say that it is the old, old story told in a simple fashion that one never tires of hearing, and the auditor is at once convinced of the sympathy existing between Sis and the audience, hence the continued success of charming Rose Melville and "Sis Hopkins."

AT THE PALACE.

Max Bloom's Famous Revue at the New Palace.

"The Sunnyside of Broadway," with Max Bloom and his famous horse, Becky, and a company of stars, the long looked for and widely heralded attraction for the first half of the coming week at the New Palace, is in its tenth consecutive year of record-smashing success. Of course each year a new edition of the revue is published, Mulgrew and Woolfolk having collaborated in the construction of the 1917 version. Alice Scher, of the exquisite form and elaborate wardrobe, again is the principle feminine attraction, wearing another group of stunning gowns, such as only the lovely Alice dares to don. There are six scenes in the 1917 edition closing with the Army and Navy club at Washington. These piping days of war talk are reflected in the martial setting given some of the scenes. Among the 1917 song hits are "The Girl You Ring is the Girl You Get;" "I Love an Automobile;" "The Circus Queen;" "When Uncle Sam Does the Cake Walk Down in Mexico," and others.

The Princess Kalama assisted by William Ono, will present a touch of Hawaiian revelry in song and dance as one of two special added attractions on this bill. Bill Robinson, that dark spot of joy, who has delighted New Palace audiences before, is to tell some of his funny stories and sing some of his best parodies on this bill.

Last Time for Slide.

The final opportunity to witness the sensational bill given a startling climax by the thrilling slide for life done by one of the Royal Tokio troupe, is to be afforded this evening. This slide for life is a spectacular piece of daring and acrobatic skill in which this Jap walks a tight rope out over the heads of the audience, striding up, up, up to the very peak of the balcony and then standing erect slides back to the stage like a flash. It's a thriller that would startle a war airman.

Among the other acts on this bill are the DePace opera company of six voices in popular operatic selections; James Thompson, the black face comedian and company in "An Affair of Honor;" William Armstrong assisted by Maude Smith, in the skit, "The Baggageman;" Cook and Lorenz, and Orville Stamm, the prodigiously powerful Boy Hercules.

PREPARING TO GO INTO NEW HOME

Punch Press Department of General Electric Moves Next Week.

Next Monday the work of moving the punch press department, of which Joseph Schwarzkopf is the foreman, from its present quarters in the old factory building at the General Electric works to the first floor of the big new factory building on Wall street, No. 26, will commence. It is proposed to move the heavy machinery, which has individual motors, first and put them in operation just as soon as the transfer can be effected, and follow up with the smaller machines. There are forty of these big individual motor-driven machines and possibly sixty of the machines which will be driven by line shafts. This will be the heaviest move made yet in the transfer of the departments at the General Electric works. The department has about 150 men at present, but will have many more when the facilities for handling them are provided. It could not be learned what department will go into the vacated rooms in the old factory building.

FIFTY YEARS IN CAB.

Wabash Engineer M. Maloney Completes Half Century.

Michael Maloney, the engineer on Wabash local freight trains 72 and 73, between Fort Wayne and Peru, rounded out the fiftieth year of his service in the cab last Wednesday. He was a passenger engineer prior to the St. Louis World's Fair, in 1904, but because of advancing years he requested an easier run and he was given the Fort Wayne-Peru local freight, one of the most deesirable runs on the Peru division. He resides in Peru and is at home all days Sundays and on alternate nights during the week. Concerning him the Peru Chronicle says: "Mr. Maloney is rather modest about his self-accomplishments and it is only through hard pressure that he speaks of his career. His fellow-workmen recall that to their memory he has not met with an accident of any importance during his long period of service. Practically all his railway life has been put in on the Wabash, he beginning as fireman and working himself up to the best run on the road. He has three sons, all engaged in service on the Wabash out of Peru. The eldest, George, is running a locomotive. The second son, William, is an extra freight conductor, and the third son, Frank, is a bold and fearless brakeman. Mr. Maloney is one of the most popular men on the Wabash, not only among the employes, but among officials, and he bids fair to round out many more years of service before giving up the throttle."

THE F. C. HOY FUNERAL.

The funeral of Brakeman Frank C. Hoy, of the G. R. & I., who lost his life in an accident at Portland Friday morning, will be held Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock from the house, 920 Lake avenue, and at 10 o'clock from the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, where a requiem mass will be celebrated. The interment will be in the Catholic cemetery. Those who survive are his widow, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoy, ten brothers, Joseph, Alvin, Arthur, Alfred, Robert, Walter, Harry, William and Charles Hoy, of Muncie; also one sister, Miss Mary Hoy, 1118 Lake avenue.

OUTLIVED THEIR USEFULNESS.

Two engines, 9235 D-10-A pattern, and 7247, of the H-2 type, a switch engine, were "scrapped" at the Pennsylvania erecting shop during the week ending today, they having outlived their usefulness. Two Grand Rapids engines, Nos. 101 and 102, figured in the output of generally repaired locomotives at the erecting shop this week. Pennsylvania engines repaired were Nos. 7238, 7459, 7499, 9013, 9089, 9935 and 9949. There are a number of engines awaiting to get into the shops for general repairs, and there is lots of work ahead for the shopmen.

SHOPMEN HAVE STAG PARTY.

A few of the comrades of Charles D. Laubscher, in the toolroom at the Pennsylvania shops, enjoyed his hospitality at a surprise party last night and at the same time presented him with a handsome chair as a token of the esteem entertained for him. Yesterday was Mr. Laubscher's thirty-first birth anniversary. Among the guests were T. J. Erington, Archibald Cassel and Russell Arter. Mr. Laubscher resides at 2027 Hanna street.

WERE TWELVE IN THE CLASS.

Twelve young fellows aspire to positions as apprentices at the Pennsylvania shops, as indicated by the number who appeared at the piece work department office this afternoon for examination. L. S. Trachsel, foreman of the department, who was to make the examinations, is cast on important business for the company and the examinations were made by George Zimmer, of that department.

F. E. MORE TO SANITARIUM.

After a visit of three or four days with his family, Frank E. More has returned to the sanitarium at Cincinnati to resume treatment at the hands of Dr. Reid. Mr. More has been taking treatment for nearly three months and, while he is improving, the progress is slow. He is an assistant road foreman of engines of the Pennsylvania.

ALBERT TIEMANN RETURNS.

Boilermaker A. E. Tiemann, of the Pennsylvania, has returned to the city from Philadelphia, where he inspected locomotive construction work for the company. He was there about ten months, but will not return unless the company places another order for engines with the Baldwin company. Mr. Tiemann expects to resume his old position in the boiler shop Monday.

HOMER MOSES WITH BOWSER.

Homer P. Moses, who spent the winter at Flint, Mich., has returned to Fort Wayne and will take an important position with S. F. Bowser & Company, Monday. Before going to Flint, Mr. Moses was employed as a salesman by L. F. Curdes, the real estate man. Mr. Moses resides at 819 Columbia avenue.

MOVING IN NEW HOME.

Machinist C. W. Berning, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, who has just completed a handsome dwelling at 115 Lexington avenue, has taken a lay off from the shop to assist the family in moving into the new home. It is said to be one of the prettiest cottages on that street.

WILL BE RUSHED THROUGH.

The work of weighing the mails carried by the railways of the country, which will begin next Tuesday, will not consume the customary 105 days. Instead it will be rushed to a finish in thirty-five days. The mails were weighed four years ago, and at that time 105 days were devoted to it.

TELEGRAPH LINES REPAIRED.

The G. R. & I. has completed repairs to its telegraph line which was damaged by the storm yesterday afternoon. Three poles, with their wires, about 500 feet, were prostrated between Decatur and Hoagland, at 2:55 o'clock.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

E. Strahl is a new man at the Pennsylvania machine shop.

Boilermaker J. L. Miller, of the Pennsylvania shops, is sick and off duty.

A. Wolf, of New Haven, has taken employment in the Pennsylvania power plant.

Erwin H. Fritz and George Scheizinger, of the Pennsylvania, will visit in Chicago tomorrow.

Pennsylvania Fireman E. C. Murray has recovered from an illness and resumed his duties on the road.

The Wabash wage checks were distributed among the yardmen, the office force and the shopmen today.

Arthur Stemlar is at work again in the Pennsylvania tin shop, after a sojourn of several weeks in Oklahoma.

A Kelly automatic printing press has been added to the equipment in Pittsburg district for S. F. Bowser & Co.

D. E. Guy, chief clerk of the Wabash division storekeeper's office, was in Detroit yesterday on business for the department.

C. E. Meyers, apprentice in the Pennsylvania erecting shop, has gone to Bucyrus, Ohio, for an over Sunday visit.

New employes in the office department of S. F. Bowser & Co. are the Misses Lucile Alleman and Ercie Owen and H. P. Moses

Cecil Vaughn, clerk to Master Carpenter D. C. Zook, of the Pennsylvania, was at Upper Sandusky, Ohio, yesterday checking up some material.

Foreman Joseph Romary, of the labor department at the Pennsylvania machine shop, is off duty on account of sickness.

C. R. Branson, who was sick a week or more with the grip, resumed his duties in the Pennsylvania motive power offices this morning.

Miss Florence Pack, local representative of the Ice Machine company, has gone to the home office in New York on business connected with her duties.

F. H. Lauer, Pennsylvania painter, is off duty on account of the funeral of his uncle. J. C. Vorndran, of the same department, is off looking after private business.

E. L. Milliron, a salesman in the Pittsburg district for S. F. Bowser & Co., has been in the city a few days, consulting the officials on matters connected with his duties.

F. A. Weiss, a painter at the Pennsylvania shops, went to Chicago this morning on business connected with his naturalization papers. He wants to be an American citizen.

A. J. Sewing, general storekeeper of the Wabash, with headquarters in St. Louis, was here this morning on business with Division Storekeeper G. T. Owen.

Miss Mary Leonard, who attended the funeral of her uncle at Paulding, has returned to her duties in the billing department of the General Electric works. She is a stenographer.

Frank Dale, who had been off duty several days because of the serious illness of his baby, who has greatly improved, resumed his duties in the store room at the Wabash shops this morning.

A. Cox and H. F. Hess, helpers at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, resigned their positions today. Mr. Hess is a house builder by trade and it is said he will resume that business at his former home in Avilla this spring.

Machinist John Raidy, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, is sick and off duty. F. T. Davis, of the same shop, is disabled by an injured eye, a piece of metal lodging in the optic yesterday.

Foreman Harry Emmerson, of the latho department of the Pennsylvania machine shop, with Mrs. Emmerson and their two boys went to Chicago this morning to spend the day with friends.

Mrs. Kate Barthold, who spent the winter months with Fred C. Schultz, her brother, and other relatives in this city and county, is making preparations to return to her home in California in a week or two.

Engineer D. D. Miller reported for work on the Pennsylvania this morning. He returned from the east yesterday, having been there as the representative of the Pennsylvania brotherhood of firemen at the wage conferences.

Kenneth Gnagy, an inspector at the General Electric works, left for Hamilton lake today to spend Sunday with his wife. He expects to bring his family here to reside as soon as he can secure desirable accommodations for housekeeping.

Blacksmith J. C. Doehrman resumed work at the Pennsylvania round house this morning after an illness of a few days. William Wartenbee, who had charge of the round house blacksmith department, has returned to his old position in the down town shops.

F. O. Sallee is assistant to A. S. Bowser, head of the Michigan office of S. F. Bowser & Co. He was formerly assistant manager of the Louisville office. Another new man at the local plant is W. B. Barks, who has taken a position as artist in the printing department.

All of the division storekeepers of the Pennsylvania Northwest system have been summoned to this city for a conference on matters connected with their work. The meeting, which will begin Monday morning, is not expected to continue over one day. C. P. Cherry, material inspector of the system, will preside at it.

Lieutenant E. S. Alexander, of the Pennsylvania police department, headquarters at Dunkirk, Ohio, has resumed his duties, after spending two or three weeks at the sanitarium at Martinsville for treatment for rheumatism. He was completely relieved of the malady. Lieutenant Alexander has just completed a trip over the division with the Pennsylvania pay car.

Russ. Harruff, assistant foreman of the testing department of the General Electric works, accompanied by his wife and son, Russell, jr., went to Decatur this afternoon to spend Sunday with his mother and other relatives. Mrs. L. E. Beard, of Fremont, Mich., sister of Mr. Harruff, who came here yesterday, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Harruff to Decatur and will remain there several days.

Handsomely bound and printed booklets containing the names of the members of the General Electric Quarter Century club, a brief sketch of the association and its aims and extracts from the speeches made at some of the banquets, were distributed among the forty members of the club in Fort Wayne yesterday. The club now has a total membership of 892, according to the list given in the book.

Miss Bessie Maxwell, who retires next week from a clerical position in the meter department of the General Electric works, to become a bride, was the recipient of a number of presents and a large and beautiful bouquet of roses from her associates this morning. Miss Maxwell is a favorite with her companions at the works and much interest is being displayed in the coming wedding. She has worked for Roy Knoll, the foreman of the department, for some time.

NEW WORLD'S MARK IN BOWLING MEET

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 24.—A new world's record in the doubles was made at the American Bowling Congress tournament here today by Gus Satorius and William Hokschuh, of Peoria, Ill. Their score was 1,346.

McCaughan and Peachey, of Indianapolis, recently made a record for the bowling congress when they turned in a score of 1,314. The former tournament record for all classes of competition was 1,343. It was scored at Chicago recently by the Berndach brothers, who were competing at the Knight of Columbus tournament. Each of the Peoria stars had one error today. Satorius had a total of 688 and his scores were 254, 214 and 220. His teammate bowled 186, 237 and 235.

RAE TANZER JURY FAILS.

New York, March 24.—The federal jury trying Rae Tanzer, accused of perjury in her breach of promise suit against former Assistant District Attorney James W. Osborne, was unable to reach a verdict after deliberating sixty-seven hours and was today discharged by Judge Van Fleet. Another trial will be necessary.

The alleged perjury was committed at the trial of Franklin D. Safford, a hotel clerk, who at the time Rae Tanzer brought her suit identified James W. Osborne as "Oliver Osborne," which was the name signed by a man who accompanied Miss Tanzer to the hotel.

FLOOD OF DRAFTS TO EL PASO.

El Paso, Tex., March 24.—Payment of large sums of money to Germans on drafts from New York, received by the local banks, continued here today. This money, in the form of American gold, is being taken to Juarez, according to government agents. One draft received today from New York was exchanged for $6,000 in bold. More than twenty other drafts were said to have been paid to Germans by local bankers during the past week.

NEW STATE FIRE MARSHAL.

Indianapolis, March 24.—H. H. Friedley, of this city, has been appointed state fire marshal by Governor Goodrich to succeed William E. Longley on April 1. The salary is $4,000 a year. Friedley has been in the insurance business.

Fred Brandt celebrated his seventy-second birthday by giving a dinner for a number of relatives.

WEATHER FOR THE COMING WEEK

Washington, D. C., March 24.—Weather predictions for the week beginning Sunday, issued by the weather bureau today, are:

Ohio Valley and Great Lakes Region—Fair weather and moderate temperature until Wednesday or Thursday, when weather will become unsettled with probably rain and be followed by considerably colder temperature.

CENSORSHIP OF WAR NEWS FOR PRESS PUT ON

Washington, March 24.—Regulations for the guidance of the press of the United States in handling news in the presence emergency, framed by officials of the state, war and nevy departments and approved by representatives of the principal associations, were made public today. The regulations are as follows:

In view of the desire of the press of the country to refrain from the publication of information harmful to the public interest and with the intent of securing the maximum publicity with the least injury thereto, the following regulations are hereby issued for its guidance, which it i searnestly required be closely observed.

Regulations: 1.—No information, reports or rumors should be published which tend to disclose the military and naval policies of the government of the United States. This regulation is directed against the publication of any news or comment which might reveal the strategic disposition or operation of armies or their sub-divisions or the ficet or its sub-divisions; any measures which might be adopted in consonance with the department of state, for the furtherance of American defense and, in general, any plans for the use of the army and navy during the existence of a national emergency.

2—No information, reports or rumors should be published which tend to disclose :(a) movements or employment of armies and their subdivisions, fleets and their subdivisions. (b) Movements of vessels of the navy or their arrival or departure from any port. (c) Departures of merchant vessels should not be mentioned and it is desired that the name of the port of arrival be omitted. (d) Assignment or movement, whether as groups or individuals, of officers and men of the military and naval establishments. (e) Transportation of mails, supplies or munitions. (f) Information of any designs, inventions or test thereof; or of manufacture transport or distribution of implements of war. (g) Concentration of military or naval supplies or location of such supplies. (h) Activities in or about arsenals, fortifications, army posts, naval magazines, navy yards, naval bases and radio stations.

3—Publication of maps, diagrams or photographs which in any way might seem of military or naval value.

4. No moving pictures should be displayed which are of military or naval value.

5. Any doubtful matter should be submitted to the authorized representatives of the department concerned who shall give an immediate decision thereon and keep the inquiry made strictly confidential.

6. It is requested that no information, reports, or rumors attributing a policy to the government in any international situation not authorized by the president or a member of the cabinet be published without first consulting the department of state.

Note—The above regulations shall not be enforced in any matters officially given to the press by properly authorized officials.

RUSSIA GLOWS IN FELLOWSHIP WITH AMERICA

Petrograd, March 24.—Warm appreciation of the cordial feeling shown by the people and government of the United States toward the new regime in Russia was expressed today by Froeign Secretary Milukoff in a statement to the Associated Press.

"The old degime was a heavy drag, not only on Russia's relations with her allies, but on all foreign relations," he said. "Thousands of telegrams of congratulations and good wishes are coming from the United States, not to speak of the formal recognition of the provisional government by the Washington government. This has served to show that it is only the old regime which has been standing for a long time in the way of entire solidarity between the United States and Russia."

Prof. Milukoff emphasized particularly his satisfaction at the attitude of the American ambassador, David Francis, toward the political change in Russia.

"There is no doubt," he continued, "that the addition of Russia to the ranks of the modern democratic countries will strengthen the adhesion of the United States to the case of the allies. Free countries may have confidence in Russia, especially as we now find all free countries allied for the same aims."

RAIDER MOEWE CARRIES 600 INTO GERMANY

Copenhagen, Friday, March 23.—Via London, March 24.—The return of the German raider Moewe to a German port having on board about 600 sailors, the crews of merchantmen captured during the last part of the cruise, may give rise to a new Yarrowdale case, as it is probable a number of Americans who were serving on armed merchantmen, were captured by the raider. According to the German rule, such men would be treated as prisoners of war. Among the British steamers destroyed after the Yarrowdale was sent to Germany, the Governor, 5,504 tons gross; Demerton, 6,408 tons; Otaki, 9,575 tons, and Brecknockshire, are specifically mentioned in the official account of the Moewe's return as having been armed.

ONE AMERICAN ABOARD.

Washington, March 24.—Sinking of the Norwegian steamer Ronald, with one American on board, by a German submarine, was reported to the state department today by Ambassador Sharp at Paris. The vessel was warned and there were no casualties.

ST. PETER'S GIRLS WIN.

The St. Peter's eighth grade girls' team won from St. Paul's Lutheran eighth graders by a score of 25 to 0. This was the last game of the season for the St. Peter's team, which has lost but one game during the entire season.

BANK DYNAMITERS START SERIOUS FIRE

Brazil, Ind., March 24.—The state bank of Carbon, Ind., six miles north of here, was dynamited and badly damaged by fire which followed early today, when robbers attempted to break into the safe.

The robbers first stole three mattresses from a furniture store and bound them about the safe to deaden the sound of the blast. The safe door held and the mattresses took fire. The robbers then stole an automobile belonging to Charles Mooney and escaped. They were traced as far as Rosedale, where the trail was lost. No one heard the blast, and when the fire was discovered the interior of the bank was in flames, the fixtures and furniture being destroyed and the concrete blocks of the structure cracked and bulging. The damage is estimated at about $2,000, covered by insurance.

SERVICE QUALITY SATISFACTION

Wayne Motor Service Co.

716 HARRISON ST. (LOMONT BROS.) PHONE 3358.

Monarchs no longer ride forth crowned in battle as did Richard III to his fatal fight on Bosworth field. Nevertheless, even today crowns figure in the spectacular side of war more often than is commonly supposed. The king of Italy, for instance, although he does not, of course, always wear it, carries his crown with him wherever he goes, and frequently dons it when he reviews his troops.

The Greatest Time and Money Saver

We think of railroads, telephones, the telegraph, the wireless,—but how about WANT ADS?

They are in the same class. It used to be when a man wanted help he had to ask among his friends where he could get a good stenographer, bookkeeper, etc. Today he puts in a WANT AD and tomorrow he has only to choose from a dozen or more.

He has furniture to sell—a WANT AD brings many buyers.

He has a house to rent—a WANT AD rents it—he has a house to sell—a WANT AD sells it.

They're a great convenience, aren't they?

Says Al Gaines, Who Got 90 Days at County Farm for Child Neglect.

"This here woman," said Allen Gaines, colored, referring to his former wife, "is the person who has got me into all this trouble. I have lived in Fort Wayne for fifteen years and you can't find a person who will tell you that Al Gaines is not a person who pays all his debts as soon as he can. I want to take care of my children because I love them just as any father would." He told this between sobs, and after he had heard his sentence he began anew.

After hearing the evidence Judge Eggeman said that as long as he was sitting on the bench no person could bring children to this world and not take care of them. In summing up the evidence the judge said that during the year 1916 he had only paid $53 towards the support of his three small children. One of Gaines' sons was sent to the house of correction a few months ago.

The judge fined him one dollar and sent him to the county farm for ninety days. Twenty dollars a month of the wages which he makes at this institution will be given to the children for their support.

MORTGAGE REDEMPTION.

Lady Applies for Exemption Certificate, But Misnames It.

A lady applied at the county auditor's office Friday afternoon and asked for a mortgage redemption. She wanted a mortgage exemption, but misnamed it. Property owners who have a mortgage on the property are coming into the offices thick and fast filling out the necessary papers. Friday afternoon in the auditor's office over 150 certificates were made out. The rush continued Saturday morning and afternoon.

MUST BUILD OWN DRIVEWAY.

Farmers Must Not Obstruct Waterways in Building Approaches.

County and township highway superintendents have been troubled during the past few weeks with farmers who have asked that the county or township pay for the cost of building approaches and driveways to the county highways. The officials state that according to section 22 of the last road bill passed by the state legislature farmers must pay for and build their own approaches to highways and must also be careful not to obstruct the waterways in doing so. A heavy fine can be imposed for violation of this law.

FURNISHES $1,000 BOND.

Nora Keefer Promises to Abate Nuisance in Bloomingdale House.

Nora Keefer, who was found guilty of maintaining a nuisance in Bloomingdale, posted a bond of $1,000 with the county clerk Saturday morning. She has been instructed that if she is found guilty within the next year of maintaining a nuisance at this property the bond will be declared forfeited. She was given a month's time either to sell the property or to post a bond. She chose the latter.

TREASURER'S OFFICE BUSY.

Country Treasurer Ranke's office was a very busy place Saturday. The spring installment of taxes was being paid, also the assessments on the St. Joe boulevard and protection wall.

Judge Suspends Sentence.

Kenneth Gallagher, the young man who fired a shotgun through the coach of a Pennsylvania passenger train July 13, near New Haven, was fined $10 and sentenced to jail for thirty days. The judge suspended the sentence. The seriousness of the act was impressed upon him by the judge.

It is hoped that every member who is in the city will attend this gathering.

PLAN RECREATION FOR OLD AND YOUNG

Arrange for Five Tennis Courts in Enlarged Weisser Park Area.

Rollicking play for laughing children, active recreation for young men and women, fine amusement and shady rest for housewives and elderly folks is the aim of park officials, who are planning the arrangement of the enlarged Weisser park, in the southeast part of the city. There will be five tennis courts, two base ball diamonds, slides, swings and many comfortable benches on the twenty acres of land now owned by the city.

Houses along Eckart street, which strip was purchased for the park use, will be sold by park commissioners on April 15. The houses will be removed and battery of tennis courts and a juvenile ball diamond will occupy the site.

In center of the park tract will stand the proposed refractory with a large open balcony as its second floor. Large sand box will be installed and tables for picnic parties.

Weisser park, standing in the center of an industrial district, is considered the "home park" of the city. More women and children spend their summer afternoons in the cool shade of its sylvan oak grove than in any other park in the city, it is claimed.

WANTS GARBAGE.

Rending Company Would Use Waste of the City.

A proposition to care for the garbage accumulations of the city was presented to the board of works in writing by the Fort Wayne Rendering company, Saturday afternoon. The Rendering company proposes to consume garbage, free of charge to the city, providing the waste product from hotels, restaurants, boarding houses and residences is delivered to the plant, at the eastern limits of the city.

A ten-year contract, beginning may 1, is asked by the company which manufacturers fertilizer. The company does not propose to share in expenses of collecting garbage and hauling the refuse to its plant.

The plan will be seriously considered by the board of works. The system, if adopted, would not mean that the present crematory would be abolished. The present refractory would be used for caring for rubbish, waste from wholesale houses, refuse from groceries of the city, which class of garbage the rending company does not propose to consume.

More motor trucks or wagons will be needed if the city garbage is to go to the plant at the eastern limits of the city. The haul would be much longer than to the present crematory. Two classes of collection wagons would have to be maintained. On the other hand there would be no cost of consumption of the refuse. The Rendering company asks the right to renew its contract at the end of ten years.

The city does not care for garbage from hotels and eating houses under the present plan. Arrangements would have to be made whereby the city would take over the collection of waste from such institutions, if the proposed plan is adopted. This would mean use of more wagons.

REAL MIXER.

Grace Company Purchases Nine Ton Concrete Mixer.

A nine-ton concrete mixer, largest ever appearing in this part of the state, will be delivered in Fort Wayne for the Grace Construction company Monday. The big stone shuffler will be sent at once to Warsaw where it will be used for six weeks on a job of paving several squares of city streets. Then it will be rteurned to Fort Wayne for use here during the remainder of the summer.

The mixer, which prepares concrete especially for paving use, is the largest turned out by the Smith company, of Chicago. It mixes three-quarters of a cubic yard of concrete at each loading of the revolving barabout by its own tractor power.

rel. It is steam driven and is moved

Grace company will also ship their steam shovel, No. 1, to Warsaw next wek, for excavating work in connection with the paving job. The shovel will be used there for three weeks.

NO SALARY RAISE.

Councilmen Will Ask That Old Ordinance Be Maintained.

Councilmen, meeting as a committee of the whole in company with the board of works, decided not to grant a salary increase for employes of the waterworks department Friday night.

Waterworks men had asked for a raise along with firemen and police several weeks ago. The matter was deferred at that time on grounds that the waterworks employes had been granted an increase during the summer.

The committee report will be to maintain the old ordinance governing waterworks wages because the present rating seems fairest to laborers and clerical workers of the department alike. Clerical employes are now getting the maximum rate for their services and the increase does not seem justified to council members. A raise in pay of laborers in the department may come later, the councilmen say.

SET BOND DATE.

April 10 Will Bring Purchase of City Coliseum Certificates.

Bids for the $225,000 worth of city coliseum bonds will be received by the city controller on April 10, the works board determined Friday. The bonds will be non-taxable. All sealed bids must be accompanied by a certified check of 2 per cent. of the amount bid for.

ONE SURVIVOR IN BOAT FROM THE HEALDTON

London, March 24.—There was only one survivor out of thirteen men in one of the American steamer Healdton's boats which was picked up by the trawler Ocean, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to Reuter's quoting the Handelsblad. The survivor was a Norwegian, who clung to the boat after it had been upset and his comrades drowned. The boat righted itself later and the Norwegian tried to move it, but was so overcome by cold that he had to let it drift. When the Ocean appeared on the scene the sailor was still clinging to the mast with his legs completely frozen.

SOCIETY

Miss Lela Smuts, of Huestis avenue, entertained the H. O. H. B. girls on Wednesday evening. All enjoyed a pleasant time. Miss Eula Scott, of Hom eavenue, will be the next hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rose are hosts for an evening bridge club to which they belong, Saturday evening. There are a dozen young married couples who form the club membership.

A number of boys and girls enjoyed a celebration of the fourteenth birth anniversary of Rozetta Polack, on Friday evening. Music, dancing and games were enjoyed. Herbert Koehlinger furnished music. At half past 6 o'clock a bountiful luncheon was served. A birthday cake with green candles was pretty to see and good to taste. Mrs. Polack and her daughter-in-law served the young people, with Miss Erin Bennigan assisting. The guests were Audrey Miller, Martha Tomkinson, Helen Jackson, Dorothy Johnson, Lorena McVay, Doris Parsons, Hazel Jessup, Agnes Pulver, Roland McCurdy, Litsher Steinman, Donald Smith, James Bennigan, Ray Cassidy, Herbert Koehlinger, Russell Stein, Wayne Pulson, Arthur Szink.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Graeter entertained the T. T. P. club at dinner and cards on Friday evening.

One of the many delightful parties which have been arranged in compliment to Miss Marie Monroe, whose marriage to Don E. Martin will take place early in April, was given Friday evening by Miss Jessie Armstrong, at her home in South Broadway. About a dozen girls were invited to spend the time quite informally. Miss Monroe was showered with a collection of miscellaneous gifts which were presented by Master Jess Laurie, a nephew of the hostess. The little fellow had a tiny red wheelbarrow daintily decorated with American flags in which he wheeled the gifts to the guest of honor. Refreshments were served at a later hour.

The national monument to the late Col. William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," will be situated on Lookout mountain near Denver, Col., as here shown, 2,000 feet above the city and at a point from which parts of four states, Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska and Kansas, may be seen.

MRS. MARIAH GERKE, PIONEER, IS DEAD

Former Resident of St. Joe Township, Dies Suddenly.

Mrs. Mariah Gerke, 82 years old, widow of the late J. F. Gerke, died suddenly at 12:30 o'clock Saturday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Hannah Bartels, 811 West Lewis street, where she had been making her home for the past two years.

Mrs. Gerke had been ill for six weeks with pneumonia. Saturday she was feeling so much better she attempted to sit up. The exertion is believed to have overtaxed her strength and within a very short time she fell over in her daughter's arms unconscious and in a few minutes was dead. Death was directly due to an attack of heart trouble.

The deceased was born in Germany and at the age of 11 came to this country with her parents. During practically all of her married life she lived on what is known as the Gerke farm in St. Joe township and remained there up to two years ago when she came to this city to make her home with her daughter.

Mrs. Gerke is survived by the following children: Mrs. Hannah Bartels, Mrs. Mary Koester; Henry Gerke, Portland, Ore.; Mrs. Louis Burg; J. Fred Gerke, jr., St. Joe township; Mrs. Anna Burg and Miss Clara Gerke. Two brothers, Henry Meyers, of Indianapolis, and Bruno Meyers, of this city, together with thirty-one grandchildren and seven great grandchildren survive.

Funeral arrangements will be made later. Interment will take place at Goeglein cemetery.

SUMMERS.

Mrs. Catherine Summers, aged 74 years, died Friday at her residence, 219 Douglas avenue, following a prolonged illness. Her condition had been serious for some time. The deceased was one of the best known pioneer residents of Fort Wayne and was the widow of James Summers, to whom she was married in 1863. Mrs. Summers was born in Tralee, County Kerry, Ireland, but came to America when she was ten years old with her parents. The family first located in Ohio, moving later to Columbia City. She came to Fort Wayne in 1860.

The deceased was a member of the Cathedral, the Rosary society, Sacred Heart League and the St. Vincent de Paul society of that congregation.

Surviving she leaves five children: Mrs. Thomas F. Butler, of Indianapolis; Mrs. Clem J. Weber, Miss Elizabeth Summers and Frank Summers, all of this city, and Sister Mary Cecilia, of the Order of Providence, St. Mary's-of-the-Woods, Vigo county, Ind. There also survive two brothers, Michael Nelligan, of Chicago, and John Nelligan, of Tacoma, Wash., and two sisters, Miss Mary and Miss Ella Nelligan, of this city.

KINSEY.

Mrs. Katie Kinsey, aged 51 years, died at 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning at the Lutheran hospital where she had bee na patient for the past few days. The deceased conducted a grocery store at the Wabash railroad tracks and Anthony boulevard for many years and whose sudden disappearance the forepart of the week caused much excitement in the neighborhood. Death was due to paralysis. Mrs. Kinsey was born in Iowa, but had resided in this city for the past fifteen years. The husband died five years ago. She was a member of St. Paul's M. E. church. Surviving she leaves two children, Clinton Kinsey and Mrs. J. H. Scherer, of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Laura Meel and Mrs. Minnie Martin, of Nebraska, and one brother, John Matty, of Wisconsin.

Funeral services Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of the daughter, Mrs. Scherer, 1513 Anthony boulevard, Rev. Krider officiating. Interment at Prairie Grove cemetery.

GARVER.

Franklin Garver, aged 86 years, a resident of Allen county for sixty years, died last Tuesday at Madrid, Mo. The remains were sent to New Haven for burial at the Odd Fellow's cemetery. He was a member of the West Jefferson street Church of Christ and was also a veteran of the civil war, having served as a member of Company H, Ninety-first regiment of Indiana volunteer infantry. His wife preceded him in death fourteen years ago. He is survived by the following children: Charles Garver, whose whereabouts are unknown; Mrs. Fernando Smith, of Allen county; Richard Garver, of Union City; Mrs. William Ort, of Hartford City; Alfred Garver and Mrs. Franklin Strain, of this city, and twenty-seven grandchildren.

ALTMAN.

Rev. Joseph B. Altman, aged 55 years, died Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Kneipp sanitarium in Rome City, where he had been a patient for the past two months. Death was due to valvular heart trouble and dropsical complications. The deceased was assistant to Rev. Father Weisner, pastor of St. John's Catholic church at Lima, O., and was a capable and zealous priest. Oscar Ankenbruck accompanied the remains to this city, where they were prepared for burial. The body was shipped to Lima, Saturday.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Middleton.—Funeral services for Louis Middleton will be held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the residence, 1612 High street, Rev. C. O. Shirey officiating; interment at the Odd Fellows' cemetery. Auto funeral.

FAST OUTFIELDERS IN VANDY'S RAILROADERS

Three University Men Under Contract With Fort Wayne Club.

If ever the outer garden of a minor league club was well protected, that of the Fort Wayne outfit will be this year or a bunch of old heads are fooled. Carl Vandagrift and John Essig have twenty-six men under contract at the present time and of these five are outfielders. Three of the latter are university players who have been out of school for a short time and who are given as the real stuff by wise ones who have seen them play.

Fred Wassen is an old friend of Vandy's and Vandy knows that he has class. He comes from Petoka, Ill., and has played professional ball for five years, since leaving school. Two of these were in the Southern league and three in the South Atlantic. Vandy has watched him play and vouches for him as a fielder and bat wielder of class. Unless he has taken an awful slump since last season he will make good here.

Sam Robinson graduated from Ohio State university last June. For three years he played on the 'varsity at State and the last two captained the cam. During his three years of college ball he was picked for the center garden on the all-conference nine each year. Sam is big and fast and is certain to make good.

The other college player is Flaxico, who graduated from the University of South Carolina two years ago. Last year he played with Baltimore until June and was then farmed to Piedmont, in the Potomac league, where he stayed until August, when the circuit went under, leaving him a free agent. During his time in the Potomac he batted over .400 and led the league in stolen bases by more than 30. He is said to be the fastest man who ever tried out for a Central league job. During his time in school he burned up the track as a speed merchant and still has several records.

The other two aspirants to the outer garden are Hoosier boys without league experience. Elder hails from Rensselaer and has just been honorably dismissed from Army. He played on the U. S. Regulars Pacific coast team for some time. Kyle, of Bluffton, a semi-pro player of class, is the other. He is fairly well known around here, having appeared here several times. Both look to be comers when they get the needed seasoning.

Down South in Dixie.

Warm Breezes from Major Training Camps.

Mineral Wells, Tex., March 24.—Another norther hit this rockbound country Thursday night and consequently there was only a short practice for the White Sox Friday, as Skipper Gleason feared for thee joints of his athletes. This, however, did not prevent Major O'Neill from putting the boys through the regular military drill.

Although rain has not interfered with the work on the ball field for a minute since the team arrived, the cool weather has had a tendency to make prize stock out of the players, as several, instead of losing flesh, have put on a pound or two. This, however, has been to the advantage of the majority, as only a few were overweight at the start.

It was discovered yesterday morning that there are only three pitchers on the staff, but Manager Gleason thinks this will be enough to trim the Brewers at Wichita Falls Sunday.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 24.—After the local Texas league club had taken the lead in the first inning and held it until the eighth, the Detroit Tigers tied the score and won in the eleventh, 8 to 6. Three double plays were made by each team. Batteries: Flannigan, Jones, Couch and Yelle for Detroit; Simms, Redford, Applegate and Bernson for Fort Worth.

Houston, Tex., March 24.—By batting Dick Kerr for twelve hits, including a home run and a three-bagger, the Houston Texas league team defeated the second squad of St. Louis Browns 5 to 3. Stellbauer, Houston left fielder, got four hits, one a home run, in four times up. Batteries: Kerr and White for St. Louis; Moore, Glenn and Noyes for Houston.

Birmingham, Ala., March 24.—Doubles by Leonard and Smith and a single by Rice in the eighth gave the Washington Americans two runs by which they defeated Birmingham, 4 to 2. Batteries: Hill, A. Johnson, Black and Haworth and Toland for Birmingham; Shaw, W. Johnson, Jamieson and Ainsmith and Henry for Washington.

FOUR MORE DAYS OF BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Milwaukee Pinmen Will Try to Better Record of Chicago Team.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 24.—Milwaukee and Cincinnati tonight will send their strongest teams against the record of 3,061, which now promises to win for the Birk Brothers of Chicago, the five-man championship of the American Bowling Congress tournament here. The tournament is nearing its end, only four days more remaining. Among the strong clubs to compete tonight are the Chestlines, Moorleins and Mabley and Carewi, of Cincinnati, the Henry Kadins of Chicago, the Roghan and Speers and the Langtry-McBrides of Milwaukee. Some famous bowlers will play in the minor events today, also several of Chicago's star northwest side players being scheduled to conclude their games.

The present tournament will go down in bowling history as the fastest one ever held, world's records being made in every event but the singles and all events. Even in the all events the record is claimed for Grand Rapids, as Ed Herrmann, who holds the record with 1,972 made his mark with a loaded ball, which is now barred from organized bowling.

J. F. Garrett, of Kokomo, Ind., established a new high mark for three games in the American Bowling Congress when he scored 721, two pins under Herrmann's record, however.

EXHIBITION GAMES.

NINE INNING TIE.

San Antonio, Tex., March 24.—The St. Louis Americans' first team played a nine inning tie with the local Texas league club, 1 to 1. The game was called to allow the Browns to catch a train for Waco. The hitting of Flynn for the local club and of Severeid for the Browns featured. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
San Antonio	1	8	0
St. Louis	1	6	3

Batteries—May, Jost and Cook; Rogers, Hamilton and Hale.

Dallas, Tex., March 24.—The St. Louis National league team No. 1 defeated the Dallas Texas league club yesterday, 5 to 4. In the fifth inning, with the bases full and two out, Scroggins threw the ball to the center field fence in an attempt to catch a runner off second and three Cardinals scored. Dallas outhit and outfielded the visitors. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	5	6	4
Dallas	4	9	1

Batteries — North, Hortsman and Roach; Sewell, Scoggins, Compere and Coleman.

Birmingham, March 24.—Doubles by Leonard and Smith and a single by Rice in the eighth gave the Washington Americans two runs, by which they defeated Birmingham 4 to 2 in an exhibition game here Friday. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Birmingham	2	4	3
Washington	4	6	1

Fort Worth, Tex., March 24.—After the local Texas league club had taken the lead in the first inning and held it until the eighth, the Detroit Tigers tied the score and won in the eleventh 8 to 6. Three double plays were made by each team. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Detroit	8	13	6
Fort Worth	6	10	4

Batteries—Flannigan, James, Couch and Yelle; Simms, Redford, Applegate and Bernson.

Miami, Fla., March 23.—Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Boston Nationals	2	4	0
Philadelphia Americans	1	6	5

Batteries—Barney, Crum and Gowdy, Tragressor; Bush, Johnson, Conwell and Haley.

MAYBE THEY'LL FIGHT.

Darcy May Have to Scrap Dillon in New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., March 24.—While Governor Pleasant could not be seen to get an official statement from him, close personal friends Thursday night declared it to be their belief that he would not interfere with the proposed Les Darcy and Jack Dillon fight which will be staged here during the first part of May, if plans materialize.

Billy Haack, Memphis promoter and referee, has Dillon's signature for a twenty round bout here with the Australian, and Fred Gilmore, said to represent Darcy, has accepted the offer. Darcy himself has not signed, but reports say that the bout is practically assured. Darcy will fight on a percentage basis, it is said.

STRANGE WHIM SWITCHED SPORT CAREERS OF TWO MEN WHO HAVE SINCE FORCED AHEAD TO CHAMPIONSHIPS.

BY M. BALTHASAR.

San Francisco, Cal., March 24.—Strange things frequently have altered the careers of men, but in the history of athletics there is no case so strange as the one that sent one man into a world's championship and the other to at least an equal claim with his fellow contenders to a world's championship in another line of sport.

The men are Mike Gibbons, conceded to be one of the greatest, if not the greatest, middleweight in the world today, and Walter Miller, holder of the world's middleweight wrestling championship.

Back in St. Paul, when both were youngsters, just breaking into the athletic game, they were boon companions, each with a burning desire to become great. For his line of endeavor, Gibbons chose wrestling, while Miller shied his castor into the boxing arena.

The boys appeared occasionally in smokers in the Minnesota capital and were getting along fairly well, when something happened to bring about a change in the course they had laid out and sent both to the top of the ladder.

Gibbons was matched with a tough young wrestler, who gave him the time of his life and after he had slammed Michael to his heart's content, thoughtfully pinned his shoulders to the mat.

The result of that bout disgusted Mike. Never again would he try any more of the hammerlock and half nelson stuff. He'd go to work, he would, and be just a common citizen.

About the same time that Mike met with his reverse, Miller also ran into a snag and arrived at the conclusion that he, too, had picked the wrong game. But he was sore over the manner in which Mike had been treated in his last wrestling match and issued a challenge to the conqueror on behalf of himself. The challenge was accepted, the men met and, much to the surprise of Miller as well as everybody else, he threw the man who had manhandled Mike.

That settled it with Miller. He would become a wrestler. He did and has been at it ever since, doing so well that now he is the proud possessor of the $25,000 Richard K. Fox belt, emblematic of the world's middleweight wrestling championship.

Miller's switch and the success that it brought gave Gibbons a "hunch." He took up boxing and today is a rich man with ring honors galore.

Miller, in addition to being the world's champion, holds what he believes to be the record for long distance wrestling matches without a fall. His longest bout was with Ed Adamson, neither man scoring in four hours and twenty-seven minutes. In their second match they went 3:10 without a fall. With Mike Yokel, the champion went three hours and five minutes, with Henry Gehring, three hours and seventeen minutes, and with Otto Suter, three hours and five minutes.

Miller won the championship from Joe Turner, but the belt was not at stake. Turner sought a return match, but to get it he had to put up the belt. Once more Miller defeated him and has had the belt ever since.

Miller's home is now in Portland, Ore.

HILLMAN REPRESENTS A. A. A. IN CHICAGO

Will look After the Association Interests at Speedway.

Chicago is the first city to have an A. A. A. contest board representative, Richard Kennerdell, chairman of the national automobile racing tribunal, bestowing this signal honor upon the middle western metropolis by the appointment of L. R. Hillman, a member of the Chicago Automobile club and local branch manager of the Hess-Bright Bearing company, to serve in this capacity.

Hillman's appointment as contest board representative for Chicago was made at the request of David F. Reid, president of the Chicago Speedway, who believed that the prominence of this city in the motor racing world entitled it to a representative all its own. Heretofore all races run on the tamarack course have been held under the direction of Clifford Ireland of Peoria, a member of the contest board, and W. C. Barnes of Peoria, the state representative for Illinois.

With the appointment of Hillman as Chicago representative, both Ireland and Barnes will be relieved of many of their duties. Ireland cannot be as active in automobile racing this year as formerly, having been elected to congress and going to Washington this week to make his debut as a statesman at the special war session. Barnes may accompany Ireland as the latter's secretary, consequently it was thought imperative to have a representative in this city where more speed meets are promoted than in any other city, five being staged here last season.

Hillman will look after the interests of the A. A. A. contest board connected with the third annual auto derby of June 9, and the other events to be held on the Chicago speedway this season and will be in charge of the Elgin road races if the watch city promoters are successful in reviving that classic. As Hillman is a resident of Chicago, local speedway officials can confer with him with less trouble than heretofore when they were forced to communicate with Ireland or Barnes at Peoria or take up matters with Chairman Kennerdell direct at New York. This will be to the mutual advantage of the race promoters and the A. A. A. contest board.

In addition to being a consul of the contest board, Hillman is the representative of the A. A. A. technical committee for the middle western territory, succeeding F. E. Edwards about a year ago, and has proven himself a most efficient executive in the supervision of automobile and accessory tests.

CHANGING BATS GETS .370 MARK

Waxahachie, Tex., March 24.—Changing the style of his bat turned Ed Spencer, Detroit catcher, from a .220 hitter to a .370 hitter last year.

Spencer used a slender handled bat until Rube Schaller, now in the coast league, figured Spencer was using too light a bat and swinging too soon. He induced Spencer to use a huge wagon tongue with a thick handle.

COULON SAID TO HAVE CHANGED HIS TACTICS

Will Meet Mason With Speed Instead of Punishing Blows.

Since Johnny Coulon lost the bantamweight title of the world to Kid Williams several years ago, he does not use the old punishing blows with which he used to batter down his opponent and win by the kayo route. In fact he has used the kick so seldom lately that he has been accused of having lost it. This is not the case however, but he has found a better way of fighting and one which will take him farther toward his lost title than any other.

Coulon now fights for points, fighting a fast and clever sort of scrap which has made him one of the most popular members of the gloved gentry. His wicked punch is reserved for any chance which offers and in which he can lay an opponent away without wearing himself out. At these times he never fails to come across with the sleep-producer.

It is hard to imagine anything better in the fight line than an encounter between Frankie Mason and a fast opponent. Coulon is the man who is going to try to better the local bantam at his own game. It is the opinion of all followers of the game in this city as well as in many others that the fight at the Majestic is going to be one of the best exhibitions seen in this part of the country for some time.

IT'S ALL OVER.

The Terre Haute club has disposed of its last player and all that is left of the franchise is a scrap of paper. The last of the Terriers to go was Pitcher Guy Gregg, who followed Mathes and Mitchell to Grand Rapids. Gregg had been sold to the Boston Braves, but he didn't like the salary offered him, so stayed out, for which he was shunted back to Terre Haute. This peeved him and he wouldn't play ball at all, but he has changed his mind and says he will report to Grand Rapids and be glad of the chance.

DISMOND RUNS FAST QUARTER IN TRIALS

Van Aken Looks Like a Sure Winner in Half at Northwestern.

Chicago, March 24.—Preliminary trials in the quarter and half mile events of the seventh annual indoor track and field meet of the Intercollegiate Conference association were held yesterday at Patten gymnasium. Finals will be held tonight at the same place.

As expected, Dismond of Chicago made the best time in the quarter mile trials. He won his heat in the fastest time, footing the distance on the ten lap track in :52 4-5. Williams of Northwestern was a good second. Smart, the La Grange product, who is competing under the colors of Northwestern, was an easy winner in the second. Smart negotiated the distance in :52 3-5. The third heat was won by Feuerstein of Chicago, with Pendarvis of Illinois in second place. It was the slowest heat, the time being :54 1-5.

Two Heats in Half Mile.

Because of scratches at the last minute, when drawings were made for positions, it was decided to run only two heats in the half mile, the first three in each race to qualify for the final event. Van Aken of Purdue, the former football player, won the first heat. He traveled the distance in 2:04 and won off by himself. Somers of Illinois was second and Clark of Chicago third. The second heat, with only four starters, was won by Hammond of Northwestern. Spink of Illinois, who could have won the race hands down, did not care to exert himself on the final lap after he had led from the start and was content with second, which qualified him for the final. Greene of Chicago was third. The time was 2:05 4-5.

Every college in the Big Nine was represented and all indications point to an interesting meet tonight. Chicago rules favorite, but the best laid plans of Coach Stagg and his assistants may go wrong and either Illinois, Wisconsin or Northwestern may be the leader in points after the final race is run.

Summaries of Trials.

440 yard run, first heat—Won by Dismond, Chicago; Williams, Northwestern, second. Time, :52 4-5.

Second heat—Won by Smart, Northwestern; Field, Wisconsin, second. Time, :53 3-5.

Third heat—Won by Feuerstein, Chicago; Pendarvis, Illinois, second. Time, :54 1-5.

880 yard run, first heat—Won by Van Aken, Purdue; Somers, Illinois, second; Clark, Chicago, third. Time, 2:04.

Second heat—Won by Hammond, Northwestern; Spink, Illinois, second; Greene, Chicago, third. Time, 2:05 4-5.

Football coaches and athletic directors of the Big Nine colleges will meet this morning at the Auditorium hotel to select football officials for the fall games.

Wives of Stars Are in Training

Shreveport, La., March 24.—Mrs. Hal Chase and Mrs. Tom Griffiths are training with their husband ball players here. Dressed in outing suits, they walk to the ball park, three miles from the hotel, every morning, pass the medicine ball, then walk back to the hotel.

"I wouldn't miss my morning practice for anything," says Mrs. Chase. "I am developing as big an appetite as Hal has."

Five Hundred Entered in Big Louisville Athletic Meet.

Louisville, Ky., March 24.—More than 500 entries, 150 from outside the cities, will compete tonight in an athletic meeting to be held here under the auspices of the Louisville Amateur Federation. Among the contestants will be a number of record holders. Among the individuals who are taking part are Irwin Mahl, of the Columbia Athletic club of St. Louis; Joe and Frank Loomis, of the Chicago Athletic association; Joie Ray, of Illinois, and Robert Simpson, of the University of Missouri. One of the feature events will be an eighty yard dash which will bring together Joe Loomis and Irwin Mahl, and several other entries numbered among the best athletes of the Kentucky colleges and the University of Indiana. Another event which is attracting attention is the open relay. Chicago apparently has this race at its mercy, both the Chicago Athletic association and the Illinois A. C. having powerful teams entered in this event.

HAL STEWART GIVEN DECISION AT MUNCIE

Hess is Also Winner After Staging an Uphill Fight.

Muncie, Ind., March 24.—Hal Stewart earned a decision over Ford Munger in a ten round bout here last night. After four rounds of even fighting, Stewart had the better of the encounter all the way. In the sixth round he drove his opponent to the ropes repeatedly. Munger killed himself with the crowd by trying to stall his way through.

In the semi-windup Battling Hess was given the decision over Eddie Mullen after having been floored three times in the second round. He came back strong and walked all over the Muncie boy. Mullen claims he broke a thumb in the fourth round.

RELATIVES PUNISHED By NATION To FORCE ENLISTMENT

THE BOHEMIAN WAR NURSES

LAST TAKEN TO COLORS

MISS JULIA HALAMICEK

Young Woman Arrives in America from Austria to Marry a Fellow-Countryman, but Refuses to Let His Name Become Known Because of Her Fear of Reprisals Abroad.

JUST what will be the outcome of the marriage of Miss Julia Halamicek to "someone" in the United States after completing an 8000-mile journey through the fighting and neutral countries in Europe is a grave question to her. Through the influence of an uncle, a high Austrian official in Moravia, she obtained passports to the United States. If her passports were other than for the purpose of marriage, that constitutes a high political offense in her country.

Should the Austrian Government be so informed through its secret service agents in the United States her relatives and those of her fiance will be punished for her offense. The penalty in some cases is death and in others life imprisonment.

Fear that some harm may result by her marriage has prompted Miss Halamicek to withhold the name of the man she is to marry, though she states that his home is in Chicago. The rules of her country are strict, she said, and especially in case of war, and they will go to any means to punish for a political offense.

When and where Miss Halamicek and her childhood sweetheart will be married also will remain a strict secret and only immediate relatives in their country will know, but they will not be allowed to attend the wedding.

They will elope to a small town, get their license, and be married very quietly, after which they will reside in Chicago where her fiance is in business. There will be no wedding celebration, such as most often follows an Austrian marriage—that is not until after the war is ended, and, then she said, "we intend to have a great affair."

Stories of Hardships.

MISS HALAMICEK arrived in St. Louis the week of February 25, and is with her uncle, Ernest Halamicek, a tailor, residing at 2821 Miami street. He is assisting her in preparing her wedding clothes, which will consist of simple traveling suits and dresses.

Stories of the hardships of the wrecked Austria, the establishment of dog butcher shops and tricks used by the ill-fed population in getting food supplied by the government have been brought to this country by Miss Halamicek.

Following is her own narrative of the conditions in the war-ridden country, and of the manner in which she obtained the necessary passports to reach the United States:

"It is awful how strict the Austrian justice is. The trials had and experienced in getting my passports makes me shiver. I was under a constant strain for fear that I would be stopped at any minute. They punish with years in jail for the least political offense.

"For instance, when John Chumchal, a countryman of mine, living at Holland, Tex., wrote at the beginning of the war to his parents that America is 'too proud to fight,' and that not a single American-Czech would be so foolish to return and fight for the kaiser, the censor, who opens all of the foreign mail, immediately delivered the letter to the police instead of to whom it was addressed.

"As a punishment for the letter written, the small property Chumchal owned in Austria was confiscated, and the reasons for this was published.

"There are thousands of citizens employed in the secret service of the Austrian Government in the United States. The same exists in the old country. Everybody is watched, especially in our own town, which is near the Russian border and is known to be strongly in favor of Russia.

"The government already has proofs of its loyalty to Russia. After the first clash of the hostile armies in Poland, a number of Russian war prisoners were brought to Moravia to work in the fields. Soon after, some of them disappeared. Later on it was discovered that they escaped with the help of 'some' members of the population of our little village. Since that time it has been forbidden, under penalty of death, to give a deserter a meal or refuge, or to render him aid. But the Bohemians do only as much as they are forced to do, not a bit more."

Paper Under Government Control.

THE Austrian press is under absolute control of the government, and all the journals have been reduced in size. This is due to the scarcity of paper. Many have been suspended, others cease to appear. The lack of paper illustrates excellently the confiscation of all Bohemian school-books, which the government found harmful on account of them containing the history of the nation, or dealt with other subjects tending to the nation's desire for liberty.

"The Department of Kultur had failed to produce new school-books to replace those that they had confiscated and the pupils in the schools are now being taught without books. There is also a lack of teachers, and for this reason the government does not want its women to leave the country for good."

Students in the high schools, universities and the ward schools have been forced to colors, she said, and out of eight classes in a high school in Brunn there remained only one for the examinations.

"The government had recruited practically all of the male population," said Miss Halamicek, "between the ages of 17 and 55. The youths were put in separate regiments, but these proved a failure. The boys, almost children, wept in the trenches, according to stories brought back from the front by the wounded soldiers

"When the first faced the terrific cannonade of the enemy, they became panic-stricken, threw down their guns and ran. Later they were captured, and then the officers distributed them among the older and trained soldiers, thinking that then they could be controlled.

"The boys are physically unfit for the rough life of the soldiers. A good many have gone insane from fear. But the Austrian Government, which already is short of human stock, spares not even children. It is seldom that you meet a healthy young man on the streets in civil clothes. One sees only the blind, sick, wounded, old, or those in uniforms on leave of absence.

Mourning Is Prohibited.

YET the patience of the suffering people was not broken, and one often hears jokes of the terrible facts. When, for instance, the first contingent of troops was about to be summoned for service, an unknown joker placed a big sign on the entrance of a cemetery, which read: 'FIFTH CONTINGENT OF RECRUITS READY FOR THE GRAVES.'

"Because there are so many Austrian dead the government has issued strict orders that no widows shall wear mourning of any sort. This is punishable by imprisonment. The widows are allowed 40 cents a week, but as the army headquarters' reports are often late and uncertain, she is never sure that her husband is dead.

"I have known several cases when the army headquarters have reported certain men dead, their 'widows' have remarried, only to be greeted later by the appearance of their 'dead' husbands at the doors, returning from the front on leaves of absence. Court trials have resulted, but they have been in vain. The government encourages marriages to insure future population, and takes no action in the cases, which are dropped and the man is left to remain a widower or remarry some other 'widow' whose husband had been reported dead.

"The food condition is critical. Tickets have been issued by the government for everything that you buy, bread, meat potatoes, salt, beer and tobacco. Every town receives from the government a certain amount of provisions. These must last a certain length of time, as there are no more to be had. The distribution of the food and the selling of the meal tickets is trusted to the mayor of the town. Without the tickets you can get nothing. There always are crowds waiting to get their foodstuffs. Often the people bring chairs and even sleep there for hours that they might be in the first division when the distribution starts.

Love Overcomes Patriotism.

PREPARATIONS to come to the United States were made by Miss Halamicek about three years ago. The great war started. She felt that her duties were to her country. She worked in the preparations, which were fast advancing. But something called to her to come to America.

"Finally I yielded to the wishes of my sweetheart and made plans to leave the war-ridden country," she said. "I confided in my uncle, who is high up in the political world in Austria. He felt sorry for me and informed me of a way by which I might obtain leave from my country and come to America. I did as he told me. I filed an application at the Circuit Court. They all were the closest friends of my uncle. My application was granted after all kinds of questions were asked me, but I did not let it be known to the authorities that I intended to marry and leave my country for good.

"I furnished the court with three of my photographs. On each of these they made a print of my fingers. From the District Court my application was sent to the governor. He examined it and demanded certain details. These were sent and the governor approved the application. This procedure took just three months, thanks to my uncle who pushed it along as fast as possible.

"Then I received three passes, one for use in Austria, one for Germany and one for Holland.

"Yet the matter was not over. Having obtained the permission of my government I had to obtain the signatures for the other two passes by Holland and German consuls at Brunn. As I heard that the German consul would not sign passes to America after the new year, I hurried to see him. At that time Germany, I was told, was preparing for a break with the United States.

"While I was entering the consulate my heart throbbed. I had heard that the consul was very nervous and feared that he would not sign my pass. His only son, an aeronaut, had been killed recently, in action, and his daughter, hearing of her brother's death, became insane. I pitied him. He signed my pass.

Instructions for Departure.

I THEN went to inform the District Court of my readiness to depart. There I received instructions in regard to my travel. These were. That I should leave immediately; that I must take provisions for four days, and that if I were found in the country within eight days after the granting of the leave by the court I should be returned. You may well imagine that I packed and was off in a hurry. That was December 9.

"I went via Prague-Bodenbach and through Germany via Dresden and Hanover. As I was an undesirable person in Germany I progressed rapidly. I never was allowed to leave the train. During my travel my train never passed through a German fortification in the day time. I did not care to see them. I wanted to get away from all war scenes. They recalled too much sorrow.

"My travel was without thrilling adventure, except when my train reached Hanover, where I changed trains at night time. I became confused and took the wrong train and instead of going to Emerich I went to Bentheim.

"How minutely the German secret service system works I soon realized. While I was sitting in the train, unaware of the wrong route, a man in civil clothes entered the car and walked to where I was sitting. He ordered me to get out and take another train, which was en route to my destination. They had missed me on the other train, and had telegraphed ahead.

"All the way through Austria and Germany I was dependent upon the foodstuffs that I took with me, and, having no meal ticket, was unable to purchase anything at the stations. The only thing that could be purchased without a meal ticket was coffee. This was not fit to drink and was 20 cents a cup.

"On December 14 I reached Rotterdam. And there for the first time in more than two years I ate as much as I wished to. I never shall forget the appetite I had then. The first evening, following an oath and pledge that I was not breaking the neutrality of Holland by carrying secret plans or information, I was allowed to board the Nieuw Amsterdam, a vessel of the Holland-American line. The next day we sailed.

Sympathizes with Allies.

THE second day out we passed the huge English dreadnaughts and destroyers which were patrolling the sea. On the sixth day the ship steamed into Plymouth Harbor and anchored for two days, being examined by the British authorities. Being a Bohemian, I had no trouble. It is a well-known fact all over the world that we sympathize with the allies and that my nation's place is with their side, where right and freedom are.

"On the evening of the second day we lifted anchor and steamed out of the harbor. We passed a small passenger steamer beached near the shore. Members of the crew told us that a half hour before it had been torpedoed by a German submarine. We happily got through the danger zone and into the Atlantic. Then we felt relieved.

"We were approaching New York on January 2, and at dawn we passed the Statue of Liberty. The high skyscrapers of the city were plainly visible as we slowly steamed into the Hudson River. After a brief examination I was permitted to land on American soil.

"I then proceeded to Chicago, where I spent several days. I met my fiance and we made arrangements for our marriage. Then I came to St. Louis to prepare my wedding clothes with the assistance of my uncle. My dream will soon be realized."

Miss Halamicek is 32 years old. She is slender, with light, brown hair and blue eyes. She has lively and natural manners. Her voice is clear and musical, however, while she was narrating of the poor conditions in her native land, and of the oppressed people, it often trembled, and the writer noticed that her eyes often were filled with tears.

RELIGION, TEMPERANCE AND HEALTH

(By A. Spaggle.)

What is revealed concerning the first verse of the bible?

"In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." Gen. 1:1.

What contrast is repeatedly drawn in the scriptures between the true God and false gods?

"Thus shall ye say unto them, the gods that have made the heavens and the earth, even they shall perish from the earth, and from under these heavens. * * * The portion of Jacob is not like them: for He is the former of all things; and Israel is the rod of His inheritance: The Lord of hosts is His name." Jer. 10:11-16. See Jer. 14:22; Acts 17:22-29; Rev. 14:6-10.

Through whom did God work in creating all things?

"In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by Him and without Him was not anything made that was made." John 1:1-3.

Through whom is redemption wrought?

"But God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Much more then, being now justified by His blood, we shall be saved from wrath through Him." Rom. 5:8-9.

In what scripture do we find that Christ, the active agent in creation, is also the head of the church?

"For by Him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by Him: and for Him: and He is before allthings, and by Him all things consist. And He is the head of the body, the church: who is the beginning, the first-born from the dead; that in all things He might have the pre-eminence." Col. 1:16-18.

What scripture shows that the Creator is also the Redeemer?

"But now thus saith the Lord that created thee, O Jacob, and He that formed thee, O Israel, fear not: for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art Mine." Isa. 43:1.

Who is declared to be the source of power to the weak?

"Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of His understanding. He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might He increaseth strength." Isa. 40:28-29.

What prayer of David shows that he regarded redemption as a creative work?

"Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." Ps. 51:10.

Who keeps the heavenly bodies in their places?

"To whom then will ye liken Me, or shall I be equal? saith the Holy One. Lift up your eyes on high, and behold who hath created these things, that bringeth out their host by number: He calleth them all by names by the greatness of His might, for that He is strong in power, not one faileth." Isa. 40:25-26.

What can the same Holy One do for the believer?

"Now unto Him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy, to the only wise God our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen." Jude 24:25.

What is the measure of the power which is available for the help of the believer?

"That the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give unto you the spirit of wisdom and revelation in the knowledge of Him; the eyes of your understanding being enlightened; that ye may know what is the hope of His calling, and what is the riches of the glory of His inheritance in the saints, and what is the exceeding greatness of His power to us ward who believe, according to the working of His mighty power, which He wrought in Christ, when He raised Him from the dead, and set Him at His own right hand in the heavenly places." Eph. 1:17-20.

How great was the deliverance of Israel from Egyptian bondage?

"Ask now of the days that are past, which were before thee, since the day God created man upon the earth, and ask from the one side of heaven unto the other, whether there hath been any such thing as this great thing is, or hath been heard like it? * * * Hath God assayed to go and take Him a nation from the midst of another nation, by temptations, by signs, and by wonders, and by war, and by a mighty hand, and by a stretched out arm, and by great terrors, according to all that the Lord your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes?" Duet. 4:32-34.

Note—The great deliverance of Israel from bondage and oppression in Egypt is but a type of the power of God displayed in the deliverance of man from the bondage and slavery of sin. In both is seen a manifestation of creative power.

What scripture plainly states that is creative power which transforms the believer?

"For we are His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them." Eph. 2:10.

Of what is the Sabbath both a memorial and a sign?

"Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labor, and do all thy work: but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God; in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy man servant, nor thy maid servant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates: for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath day, and hallowed it." Ex. 20:8-11.

"It is a sign between Me and the children of Israel forever: for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, and on the seventh day He rested, and was refreshed." Ex. 31:17.

Inasmuch as creation and redemption are both wrought by the same creative power, of what besides the original creation was the Sabbath given to be a sign?

"Moreover also I gave them My Sabbath to be a sign between Me and them, that they might know that I am the Lord that do sanctify them." Eze. 20:12.

Through whose agency is the material universe sustained?

"And He (Christ) is before all things, and in Him all things consist." Col. 1:17.

What statement shows that all things, both material and spiritual, are sustained by the same personal agency?

"But to us there is but one God, * * * and one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all things and we by him." 1 Cor. 8:6.

Why is God worthy to receive glory and honor?

"Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honor and power; for thou hast created all things, and for Thy pleasure they are and were created." Rev. 4:11.

Note—That comparatively modern view of creation known as evolution, which rests upon human research, rather than upon divine revelation, and which substitutes an impersonal force for a personal Creator, overthrows the very foundation of the gospel. Redemption is simply the new creation, and the Creator is the Redeemer. The head of the original creation is the head of the new creation. The original creation was wrought through Christ by the power of the word.

DRINKING IS COWARDICE

Dr. W. A. Evans, former health commissioner of Chicago, conducts a "How to Keep Well" column in the Chicago Tribune. In a recent issue of that paper he discusses the booze question from a new angle. He says:

"Here is a new way to look at the man who drinks. He drinks because he is a poor, weak-minded fool, an insane man or a man headed that way, an ill-balanced moral coward, and in most cases a physical coward as well. When he is definitely and clearly insane and is not insane because he drank.

"To the young man there is something romantic about drinking. It was a badge of manhood to throw down three fingers of booze. Or to look at it from another angle, drink liberated the imagination and carried the mind on poetic flights of brilliant imaginings. Drink is associated with dreams of knights and knight errantry as they were of old and as they can be translated into twentieth century life. There was secret admiration of the moral courage and manhood of the youth who drank.

"But listen to what Dr. W. A. White, superintendent of the United States government hospital for the insane, has to say about it. He gives his talk the title, 'Alcoholism as a Symptom:'

"'The alcoholic is a neurotic. He is incapable of meeting reality efficiently every day. He may be able to deal with a problem of time. The continuity of effort day in and day out is foreign to the alcoholic character. He can stand the strain only about so long, longer in some cases than in others. He drinks because he tries to find safety from his ineffeciency.

"'How frequently we see the alcoholic retiring himself in solitude and in quiet, drinking himself to stupid unconsciousness in an effort to escape a recognition of his own incompetency. He calls it forgetting. It is also cowardice.'

"We have many lesser degrees of escape than the above. We have the jovial, story-telling, tipsy inebriate, who sits up all night, slaps his friends on the back and laughs and jokes and gives the morrow notice that tonight is tonight and let tomorrow take care of itself. Is not this man also escaping from reality by not meeting it efficiently not only by crippling himself so that on the morrow he is unable to face it, but by his very words he abjures it. Goodness! Another of our boyhood heroes not only has his feet of clay but is an out-and-out coward.

"The feeling of inefficiency and flight from reality—the ear-marks of alcoholism—and now we can understand why alcohol has been called a stimulant. Kraepelin proved by the most careful of tests that alcohol is not a stimulant but only appears to stimulate because it quiets the fears of a coward."

Dr. White holds that the man who is helpless as against alcohol is really helpless because he is a neurotic or insane. His use of alcohol is one of the symptoms of his neurosis or of his insanity.

BOSTON HITS BOOZE.

The latest blow at booze in Boston is the order issued on March 9 by the management of the Elevated Railway company forbidding "the use of intoxicating liquors by officials or employes, whether to excess or not, and whether on duty or not, in such a way as to impair their efficiency or render doubtful their fitness for the responsibilities involved in their employment." Disobedience to the order will be considered cause for discharge. "Do you drink?" asked the lawyer of the witness under cross-examination. "That's my business!" hotly replied the witness. "Ah, just so," responded the attorney. "Well, have you any other business?" If things go on as they are going at present, it will not be long before the man who drinks will not have any other "business" and will not be able to find any.

FRAGRANCE.

(Michigan Christian Advocate.)

Once, in crossing a meadow, I came to a spot that was filled with fragrance. Yet I could see no flowers and I wondered whence the fragrance came. At last I found, low down, close to the ground, hidden by the tall grass, innumerable little flowers. It was from these that the fragrance came.

I enter some homes. There is a rich perfume of love that pervades all the place. It may be a home of wealth and luxury, or it may be plain and bare. No matter; it is not the house, nor the furniture, nor the adornment that makes this air of sweetness. I look closely. It is a gentle woman, mother or daughter, quiet hiding self away, from whose life the fragrance flows. There is a wondrous charm in a gentle spirit. The gentle girl in a home may not be beautiful, may not be well educated, may not be musical or and artist or "clever" in any way, but wherever she moves she leaves a benediction. Her sweet patience is never disturbed by the sharp words that fall about her. The children love her, because she never tires of them. She helps them with their lessons, listens to their frets and worries, mends their broken toys, makes dolls' dresses, straightens out tangles and settles their little quarrels, and finds time to play with them When there is sickness in the home, she is the angel of comfort. Her face is always bright with the out shining of love. Her voice has music in it as it falls in cheerful tenderness on the sufferer's ear. Her hands are wondrously gentle as their smoothing touch rests on the aching head or as they minister in countless ways about the bed of pain.

Blind Girl's Optimism.

(Biblical Record.)

To those who are poevish and pessimistic while physically and intellectually normal, there is a standing and stinging rebuke in the optimism of many unfortunates. In one of his magazine articles, the late Ian Maclaren told the pathetic story of a blind girl over in the Scotch High lands. He gave it thus in her own words; "If I dinna see"—and she spoke as if this were a matter of doubt and she were making a concession for argument's sake—"there's naebody in the Glen can hear like me. There's no a footstep of a Drumtochty man comes to the door but that I ken his name, and there's no voice oot on the road that I canna tell. The birds sing sweeter to me than to onybody else, and I can hear them cheeping to one another in the bushes before they go to sleep. And the flowers swell sweeter to me—the roses and the carnation and the bonny moss rose—and I judge that the oatcake and milk taste the richer because I dinna see them. Na, na, ye're no to think that I've been ill treated by my God, for if He dinna give ae thing, He gave me many things instead. And, mind ye, it's no as if I'd seen once and lost my sigh, that might ha' been a trial, and my faith micht ha' failed I've lost naething; my life has been all getting.

FOR MOTHER

He was only a mite of a boy, dirty and ragged, and he had stopped for a while in one of the city's free playgrounds to watch a game of ball between boys of his own and a rival neighborhood. Tatters and grime were painfully in evidence on every side; but the little fellow attracted the attention of a group of visitors, and one of them, reaching over the child's shoulder, as he sat on the ground, gave him a lucious golden pear. The boy's eyes sparkled, but the glowing eyes were his only thanks as he looked back to see from whence the gift came, and then he turned his face away, too shy or too much asontished to speak.

But from the time on his attention was divided between the game and his new treasure. He patted the pear; he looked at it; and at last, as if to assure himself that it was as delicious as it appeared, he lifted it to his lips and cautiously bit out a tiny piece near the stem. Then, with a long sigh of satisfaction and assurance, he tucked the prize safely inside of his dirty blouse.

"Why don't you eat it, Tony?" demanded a watchful acquaintance.

"Eat it? All meself? Ain't I savin' it for mother?"

The tone, with its mingling of resentment and loyalty, made further speech unnecessary. Whatever Tony lacked—and it seemed to be nearly everything—he had learned a beautiful lesson. He had another dearer than self, and knew the joy of sacrifice.—Wesleyan Christian Advocate.

HARMONY.

(Christian Observer.)

A beautiful incident is told by a traveler of his visit to the cathedral of Pisa. He stood beneath its wonderful dome, spacious and symmetrical and gazed with awe upon its beauties. Suddenly the air became instinct with melody. The great dome seemed full of harmony. The waves of music vibrated to and fro, loudly beating against the walls swelling into full chords like the roll of a great organ, and then dying away into soft-drawn, far-reaching echoes, melting to silence in the distance. It was only the guide, who lingering behind a moment, had softly murmured a triple chord. But beneath the magic dome every sound resolves into harmony. No discord can reach the summit of that dome and live. Every voice in the building, the slamming of seats, the trampling of feet, the murmur and bustle of the crowd are caught up, softened, harmonized, blended, and echoed back in music, if a dome, the work of men's hands, can thus harmonize all discords, can we doubt that, under the great dome of heaven, God can make "all things to work together for good to them that love him?"

Four Boys "Cleaned Up."

(F. M. Richardson in Border Work.)

"These beans are raw!" "These spuds are half cooked!" "Let's can the cook, he's rotten!" "I could beat this layout and I have never cooked a meal," were the doubtful complaints passed upon the work of the cook of Company ——, First North Dakota infantry in camp on the border.

Some one told the captain and as the private who claimed he could beat such cooking could not do any worse it was decided to try him out. He made good from the start. At home he is a student in the University of North Dakota, but here on the border he is now his company's cook.

He was busy preparing the Sunday evening meal. Two men came to the kitchen in a state of mental distress brought about by an address on "The Marks of a True Soldier," given at the camp Y. M. C. A. building at the Sunday afternoon meeting by the pastor of the local Baptist church.

Wanted to Clean Up.

"Private," said one of the two, "we want to know what you think about the way we have been living and we want you to help us clean up."

"Well, boys," was the cook's reply, "I have already told you what I think about the way you have been living. I am rushing supper now, but if you will come back as soon as supper is over I'll help you find a way to clean up."

Supper was hardly over before the two were back bringing a third companion. The three confessed to a life of intemperance and sin and admitted "We can't quit without help. We have tried it and it don't work. We have got to have help."

Out in the Open.

"Boys," said the cook, "you can get that help in Christ, and you can get it right now. Do you want to do this thing here in the kitchen or out under the fly in the open?"

"We have done our drinking in the open and we will clean up in the open," said the leader as he led the way out of the kitchen into the open camp, stopping under the fly in front of the shack. The cook's helper had also been to the afternoon meeting and as the group walked out he joined them admitting his desire to lead a new life.

Reading a passage in Matthew to the four, the cook asked if they were seeking a way out of sin by the help of Jesus Christ; if so, that they kneel with him in prayer. The four men dropped down upon their knees in the sand of the border camp with the cook who prayed God to give his grace to these boys now seeking to lead a new life by the power of Jesus Christ.

They Took a Pledge.

The prayer was ended and with the group yet kneeling, the cook addressed the four in these words: "Boys, as a pledge of your desire to lead a Christian life, and as a means to help you in realizing that desire, I am going to ask you to take a pledge with me. If you desire to be a Christian, and keep free from drink and sin, you will place your right hand upon the open Bible, here before us, and repeat after me."

Four hands were placed beside the cook's upon the open book and this was the pledge they took upon bended knee in the presence of God and men:

"By the grace of God, from this day on, I will endeavor to abstain from all intoxicating liquors, and all other things that tend to hinder a man in developing a Christian life.

"I will put forth every effort to keep my body and soul clean, and thus be a good soldier for God, as well as for my country."

In the Presence of Witnesses.

As they rose the cook grasped each by the hand, and then for the first time noticed that the group had been surrounded by a number of men who had silently crowded around to witness this unusual proceeding under a kitchen fly.

The lieutenant stepped forward, saying as he gave his hand to the four and to the cook, "Boys, I have spent a number of years in the army but I must admit this is the greatest thing I have ever seen occur around the company kitchen."

In telling me of this incident the cook said, "I was about to ask the captain to put me back in the line again, but if I can have a chance to do this sort of thing as company cook I'll stick it out in the kitchen until we leave the border."—F. M. M. Richardson.

A Rich Experience.

Dr. A. C. Dixon in a recent sermon in the Metropolitan Tabernacle, London, gave the following experience which came to aboy preacher.

A young man who was preaching at a little country church for a few months before going to college began to pray that God would enable him to baptize just 100 people in that village. "Lord," he prayed, "if thou wilt give just 100, no more and no less, I shall know that thou dost answer prayer; and I shall never doubt thee as long as I live." Months passed, and the day arrived when he must go to the theological seminary. The day before he left he went to the little church, where ninety-four people had been baptized. A deacon told him five others were waiting to be baptized. He borrowed some clothes and went to a pond two miles away, praising God that the total of ninety-nine had been reached. As the student was conducting the service before entering the water, a man touched him on the shoulder and said, "My wife is being baptized, and I want to go down with her." The young man said, "Oh, but you haven't any clothes." The man said he didn't care, and the young preacher baptized him in his Sunday-go-to-meeting coat, and sent him home two miles wringing wet. So there were just 100, no more and no less; and I know that is true, for that young man who put God to the test in those days of ignorance stands before you this morning.

WHAT 3 JAP MAIDS DREAMED

(Maynard Owen Williams, in the Christian Herald.)

In 1871 five little girls, clad in kimonos of silk crepe and wearing the bright ornaments of girlhood in their hair, left the land of their birth to study in America. They were tiny tots, and only three of them stayed in America for any length of time. Those three became great friends, being the only little maids of their race in America, and, thanks to the way everything in Japan centers in Tokyo, they still see much of one another in the capital of their native land.

Once, when these small girls were lonely for their home in Chrysanthemum Land, they fell to making wishes. One said, "I want to marry for love, according to the American fashion." She met a young Annapolis naval officers from her country, and her wish came true. She is Baroness Uriu, whose husband has retired from an honored career which led up to his being admiral. She lost a son in the Russian war.

Another said, "I want to be a fine lady of power." She returned home and is today the wife of one of the much-maligned Genro, a man who won fame as commander-in-chief of the Manchurian army in the Russian War, in which she also lost a son. Princess Oyama had her wish.

The third had been the daughter of a farmer and had left her native land when only six years old. She had a wish which I think was the nicest of all. She said, "I don't want to get married. I want to help the girls of Japan to become noble women through careful education."

Miss Ume Tsuda is seeing her wish come true with the passing of each day. When I spoke to her about her wish to benefit the women of Japan, she said, "That was really the wish of all of us. But it has been my work. Princess Oyama and Baroness Uriu are both trustees of the school and co-operate in every way in the work we all want to see accomplished. But it so happens that I am the one whose privilege it is actually to direct the work."

I made two visits to her school and both were interesting. After the program which I first attended, Miss Tsuda asked, "How did you like it?" I expressed my sincere delight at the excellence of the work. My years of teaching English in the Orient made it possible for me to appreciate the quality of the recitations and dialogues. But it was the originality and the initiative shown that delighted Miss Tsuda. The program had been arranged by the girls themselves, and some of the features were a surprise even to their director.

"Do tell your American readers," she said, "that the Japanese women are not mere dolls and playthings, but that they really have something in them. That program shows how their personalities can find means of expression if they are only given a chance."

After the Saloon---What?

(By Rev. Charles A. Stelzle.)

Enthusiastic saloon fighters in some cities in which saloons have been closed are gayly declaring that the question of substitutes has settled itself—that "there is no need for substitutes."

One wonders how they know—for they never patronized saloons and of course do not miss them. But what about the average man who formerly found in the saloon certain features which satisfied social and physical needs?

These men have no organized way of expressing their loss, and there's no one who can speak officially for them. And as they do not call mass meetings or write to the papers, it is assumed that they are content.

The only way in which they do protest is when they vote the saloon back. And even after it has been clearly demonstrated that the closing of the saloon is a distinct economic advantage, these unorganized, "voiceless" men, acting as individuals, make the "silent ballot" talk for them. And the other folk wonder what mysterious influence made these workingmen vote for the saloon after they once decided that the saloon was a bad institution.

The closing of the saloon often means that in ending old abuses we create new problems.

Long years ago we were taught the lesson that a house swept and garnished is not sufficient. And this has a most vital relationship to the question of national or state-wide prohibition.

It is true that the evils of the saloon far outweigh the good that is in them—but there is good. The saloon is a social center, a restaurant, a restroom, a "comfort station," a club.

The fact that the saloons are closed does not necessarily prove that the need for these features no longer exists. Let us admit that there is no panacea which may be universally applied to meet the requirements. There is not even a "best" substitute.

There may be many substitutes for the saloon, and yet, for those who found their chief pleasure therein, there is no real substitute. This is another fact which must be frankly faced.

What we need to do is to try to discover what are the really good features of the saloon, and then to incorporate them in existing agencies, or organize new ones which will meet the situation.

Privacies of Family Life

(The Watchman-Examiner.)

With respect to many homes the phrase set at the head of this little preachment may seem mildly ironical. The famous chapter on "Snakes" in a certain history of Ireland is said to consist of a single sentence, "There are no snakes in Ireland." Similarly, thinking of some of the homes we know, possibly of most of them, we are more than a little inclined to sum up our discourse in the one sufficient sentence, "There are no privacies in the average family life."

The home is the place of the closest intimacies and the most inter-penetrating relationships. Nowhere else is the merely conventional and artificial so entirely laid aside, and are we so completely ourselves in recognition of and compliance with the ties and bonds that are basic and fundamental. The tendency of the idea of the family is to eliminate differences and to emphasize unities; to limit such expression of individuality as might prove devisive and to promote solidarity. The family slogan is: "Each for all and all for each." This when carried to an extreme, of course, disparages and discredits the idea of anything like privacy, or withdrawal, or seclusion for the individual, and makes the family a little commune, in which each member really has nothing in particular because theoretically each is supposed to have all in common with the rest.

It is not hard to visualize such a home. It may be your neighbor's; it may be your own. It is a home absolutely without privacy, like an eye without and eyelid. It is as open and defenseless as the unwalled desert, bounded only by the rim of the sky. Sometimes in such a home one feels a curious sense almost of shame. There are grown and growing young men and maidens in that home, as well as little children. Each has need of a thousand privacies, but no place or opportunity for one. Everything is open, shared, communal. The ways are all highways where all the members of the family march together. There are no little, wandering, individual paths where one may walk alone now and then with his own soul. There is no sanctuary with one's name graven over the door, wherein to go for retreat, for the thinking out of individual problems, or for the deposit and safe-keeping of one's particular possessions. Mary and Martha must not only share their room, but all the appurtenances thereof in such a way that neither has a corner distinctively her own in which she may keep what she will hidden from curious eyes and safe from meddlesome fingers. Young John comes home from the party, holding to his lips the wilted rosebud that Nan gave him as he left her at the door. It is precious to him, and he would keep it. But where? To be sure, he can lock it up in his trunk; but "mother and the girls" are forever scolding him for keeping his trunk locked; and besides he has had occasion more than once to suspect that there are other keys than his own about the house that will fit the lock of that trunk. And little Tom and little Sue have a world of treasures all their really own, and not a place in the world all their really own in which to keep them. Even where the right of private possession is granted the place for private possession is often virtually denied. In the ordering of the home we neglect to make provision for individual privacy, and in the living out of the home life we fail to recognize it. We insist upon throwing everything into the open. Sleeping rooms may be invaded at will, and bureau drawers rummaged at pleasure. Mary takes the liberty of wearing Martha's hat or brooch whenever she wishes, and when John looks for a certain necktie not infrequently he finds that Richard has appropriated it. And sometimes we actually plume ourselves on this condition of things. It seems to indicate an unusual measure of family spirit and fellowship. And we are a bit hurt if some member of the family does not quite relish so much promiscuity, and demands a certain degree of compliance with the rule of "Hands off!" in matters pertaining to him and to his. We do not seem to see—some of us—that for the truest family unity there must be the clearest recognition of and the most scrupulous respect paid to the individuality of the different members of the family. Each unit must have its own distinct place in the making up of the sum total.

This is a plea for a reasonable privacy for each within the boundaries of the common and comprehensive family life. Each should have some place, some part, some rights, some privileges which are recognized as distinctively and inalienably his own. Even the smallest child has just claim to this, and is robbed if it is not accorded him. Confidence should never be forced, nor rights invaded or overriden. Wherever possible each should have his own room, which should be his in more than a theoretical sense; but even where this is not possible there should be some part of the room, a closet, or a chest of drawers, or a trunk, of which he should have practically exclusive possession, subject to the oversight of good housekeeping. Whether or not these are locked is not of so much consequence as that the fact of his right to them is recognized and respected. There is an ethical principle underlying the whole matter. One has no more right to rummage the belongings, read the letters, wear the clothes, lend the books of another member of the family without permission than he would have to do these things, and things like them, if the person involved were a neighbor, and not a brother or sister. Rightly understood, one of the wisest and safest rules for the maintenance of the peace and fellowship in family life is, "Hands off!"

Fresh Air As Health Builder

Half of the air is night air. The person who does not make free use of it is laying the foundations for sickness and perhaps early death.

Some people cannot get the proper amount of fresh air in the daytime because of improperly ventilated workrooms or other circumstances over which they have no control. It is different at nighttime. There is absolutely no excuse for not having plenty of air in the bedroom.

When one breathes good air all night he is much refreshed in the morning and is better able to do a good day's work.

No indoor air is as good as the pure life-giving ozone of the out of doors. Damp, foggy air outside is more healthful than stale air indoors.

If you do not get exercise while at work, walk at least part of the way to and from it. Walking is the simplest and at the same time the best of all exercises.

One should also play outdoor games if he can. Now is the time to start tennis, golf or some other sport that takes one out of doors.

Spading and planting of a garden is also good exercise.

One should at all times breathe deeply, slowly and regularly, avoiding breathing through the mouth. Rapid breathing is harmful, but when one breathes deeply he absorbs an additional amount of oxygen, which is needed by the blood to keep us healthy.

Any method of breathing should bring the lungs fully into action, as in those parts that are idle the air stagnates. Microbes of pneumonia and tuberculosis are likely to find lodgment in the idle parts, where vitality is lowest.

Proper breathing demands that you hold yourself erect, with chest arched forward. A sunken chest limits the capacity of the lungs and makes weak points that invite infection.

COLDS ECONOMIC LOSS.

Health experts estimate that the economic loss due to colds each year is greater than the aggregate loss from floods.

Colds sweep through offices, stores and schools and employes will be absent for a day or two or their efficiency will be so impaired that they might as well be absent. There are vacant seats for a week at a time in many schools.

Just a common cold is not a simple matter for more reasons than one. It is no longer considered quite natural and perfectly normal for first one and then another member of a family to have a cold all winter long.

Colds are not to be trifled with, first, because they predispose to so many other diseases. They weaken the body and decrease its resistance, making it easy for ordinary colds to "run into" pneumonia, grip, bronchitis, rheumatism or even tuberculosis. Again there is danger of the cold organism getting into the blood stream and causing fever and other complications.

To prevent colds is more or less a matter of personal hygiene. Keep cool and avoid people with colds are probably the two most general and safest rules one can adopt. Temperance in eating and drinking is also effective.

As much of a cause of colds as are chilling and wetting they are not to be compared with overheating. To prevent colds, keep out of badly-ventilated rooms. Rather than stand in a badly ventilated room, get out on the porch.

Dusty air causes colds. Avoid it. Keep the body warm and dry, keep out of hot places, keep out of foul air and your chances of catching cold are very much lessened.

RELIGION MAKES MEN

(By Rev. Charles Stelzle.)

"We have spent $1,250,000 on appliances in these cars to secure your safety," reads a poster in every subway car in New York.

And still they have accidents.

No wonder that they have added the line:

"Won't you help us by being careful?"

Same story with the doctors and sanitariums and chemists and all the other experts who have been working to make us healthy—but chiefly to keep us from getting sick.

"Won't you help us by being careful?"—they are beginning to say to us.

There's a point where these experts must stop—where it's plainly up to us—because after they've found out what's perilous for us and warned us to keep away from danger, their responsibility and principally their power ceases.

They cannot keep us healthy and free from accidents if we do not fight in our own way to avoid the causes of sickness and accidents.

The fight on diseases is chiefly a fight for character.

It's in the development of one's mind and in getting a grip on one's self that the average man will be healthy and free from physical weaknesses.

Because of this religion plays a big part in downing disease and in building up mind and body.

No man can long have a healthy body if his mind is weak and diseased.

And no man can have a healthy mind if his heart is weak and diseased and impure.

Fundamentally, it's a man's heart that makes or destroys him.

The greatest motive power in heart development is religion and all that it stands for.

Therefore, religion is the biggest single factor in making men.

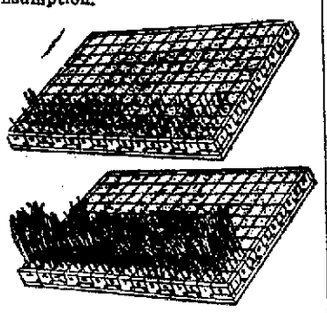
NEWS AND VIEWS OF THE FARMER

Do You Want Poor Crops? Then Plant Poor Seed

By V. W. SHOESMITH.

For the use of the beginner in picking out seed-corn, perhaps the best rules that could be given are as follows:

Select ears of medium size for your locality. The small-eared types which do not utilize the entire growing season will not produce a maximum yield. The large-eared types which are so late that they cannot mature a hard, solid ear also fail of maximum production and yield a product which is inferior both for the market and home consumption.



SEED TESTER.

No. 1, Sand Tray showing corn seven days after planting.
No. 2, Sand Tray showing corn twelve days after planting.

Select ears that are very heavy for their size. The yield seems to be more closely associated with weight of ear than any other quality.

Select ears of bright, healthy color. Ears of a dull or pale color are usually immature or have been exposed to the weather; their seed condition is apt to be poor and the vitality of the plants low.

Select ears with grains of uniform size and shape. Aside from its indication of trueness to type, uniformity of grain is of considerable importance in getting an even distribution of seed and a uniform stand.

To test seed corn for germination is essential to modern methods of corn-production. The poor stand of corn is largely responsible for the low average yield, and it is impossible to get a good stand without good, strong seed.

No one can identify and discard all the ears of poor germinating qualities without the aid of a germinating test.

A familiarity with these points may be had by going over the seed-corn several times and studying one quality at a time. Notice how great a variation may be found in each quality and decide what types should be used as a practical standard.

As a means of selecting the best seed-corn, doubtless the adaptability, maturity, seed condition, amount of grain and uniformity of grain are among the important qualities.

ACTIVITIES OF STABLE FLY MAY BE CONTROLLED BY PROPER CARE OF STRAW STACK

This Tormentor of Live Stock and Carrier of Diseases is Known to Have Caused $25,000 Damage in Just One State In One Year—The Loss In Reduction In the Milk Supply In the Same State May Reasonably Be Placed at $10,000 More and Other Losses Even Surpass These Two Items.

By F. C. BISHOPP.

Besides literally worrying cattle, mules and horses to death and killing them by extracting their blood, the deadly fly also transmits disease from one animal to another. A tropical sickness known as surra is undoubtedly transmitted thus. Fortunately this does not occur in the United States at present, but unless great care is exercised in importing stock it may be introduced at any time and the deadly fly given a chance to spread it. A related disease of cattle, horses and sheep, known as souma, and a malady of hogs and cats are also carried, at least in part, by this same insect.

Investigators consider the fly to be an agent in transmitting glanders, while a disease known as infectious anemia or swamp fever of horses is thought by some to be carried by this fly. A number of years ago it was found to act as a transmitter of a species of roundworm that infects cattle.

Animals weakened by loss of blood are more prone to contract other diseases. "Texas fever" in an acute form often attacks live stock that has become less energetic in fighting with stable flies. The joints of both horses and cattle sometimes become so swollen from standing in water where they sought protection from flies, that they can hardly walk.

Man Not Immune from Attack of Stable Fly.

Even man may be inoculated with disease by this pest. Septicemia (blood-poisoning) is considered to be carried by it and demonstrations of famous physicians have pointed to the possibility of the transmission of infantile paralysis in the same manner. Thus it will be seen that the transmission of a formidable array of diseases is chargeable to the stable fly.

The stable fly is one of the most widely distributed of insects, being common in both tropical and temperate regions where domestic animals are reared. In regions bordering on the Tropics the flies are of importance throughout the entire year. In the extreme southern part of our country there is no month during the year in which flies are not annoying to horses and cattle. In the northern states, the fly is particularly injurious and abundant in the late summer and fall.

Investigations made during recent years showed clearly that the vast majority of stable flies bred in straw stacks. It was also shown that while the fly breeds in pure horse manure, it favors a mixture of this substance with straw.

The fly was found to be breeding in much greater abundance in oat straw than in wheat straw. Rice straw was also found to furnish suitable breeding conditions and there is little doubt that barley and rye also serve as food for the immature stages of the insect. The development of this insect is somewhat slower than that of the house fly and it is therefore quite necessary that the eggs be deposited in rather large quantities of material for it to breed out successfully.

How To Control This Pest.

As with most insects, the destruction of this one when it is actually doing the injury is what is most desired by those concerned. With this species, as with many others, this is the most difficult time to accomplish the desired result.

During a recent outbreak in Texas many different substances were tried with a view of repelling the flies from live stock. Although some materials gave a measure of protection for a time, none had a lasting effect. In addition to the temporary value of these substances, injury was sometimes produced by their application. Many malodorous mixtures, particularly of an oily nature, have some value, but in preparing these care should be taken that they are not made too strong, particularly when animals are being worked in the hot sun. If they are made too strong they are likely to cause overheating of the animal and produce shedding of the hair.

An Effective Mixture To Repel the Stable Fly.

A mixture of fish oil (1 gallon), oil of pine tar (2 ounces), oil of Pennyroyal (2 ounces), and kerosene (½ pint) was found to be very effective in keeping the flies off live stock when

Proper Care of Straw Stacks the Most Important Steps.

Since straw stacks have been found to be the principal breeding places of this insect in the grain belt, the proper care of the straw is by far the most important step in control. The straw should be stacked more carefully than is ordinarily done, by making the sides of the stack nearly vertical and rounding it up well on top in order the better to shed the rain.

All straw not required for winter feed should be disposed of immediately by burning or by scattering it over the land soon after threshing and subsequently plowing it under, or by burning the stacks. The plowing under of the straw is the most advisable method of procedure, as by this practice large amounts of humus are added to the soil.

All stacks not consumed by stock during the winter should be promptly disposed of in the early spring. This may be accomplished in the same way as has been suggested for the fall.

Heavy rainfall on freshly threshed straw, produced an unusual outbreak of flies by rendering the straw largely unfit for food for live stock and thus offering breeding places. In such instances their immediate destruction by burning or scattering is necessary to relieve the condition. The work should be done thoroughly, and when the stacks are scattered all the straw should be completely exposed to the influence of the elements.

It is best to plow under the scattered straw soon after it has become well dried out. In sections of the country where headers instead of binders are used, the straw is much more easily disposed of. The general adoption of the field threshers would completely solve the question of the straw stack. It is reported that this machine reduces the expense of harvesting from 14 to 2 cents per acre and the straw is left standing in the field. The chaff is scattered over the ground and the entire refuse turned under at plowing time.

The use of poisons to destroy immature flies is neither practical nor advisable.

Typhoid Fly Facts.

1. Where do young flies live? In filth and manure.
2. Where do flies first dirty their mouths and feet? In every kind of filth imaginable.
3. Is anything too dirty or bad smelling for flies to eat? NO.
4. Where does the fly go when it flies from the vault, the manure pile or the spittoon? (a) It may wipe its feet upon the clean lips of your sleeping baby; (b) It may carry germs into the open wound on your hand; (c) It may track over the butter, the meat, or take a bath in the milk.
5. Is the fly merely a nuisance? NO. It is very dangerous.
6. Why is the fly considered dangerous? It is man's worst pest. It is more dangerous than rattle snakes or tarantula. It carries deadly infectious diseases.
7. What diseases does the fly carry? It carries typhoid fever, tuberculosis, and various intestinal diseases.
8. How does the fly carry disease germs? The germs stick to its legs, mouth-parts, hairs, wings and feelers.
9. What is the correct name of this human pest? The TYPHOID FEVER FLY.
10. Has it ever caused anyone's death? It killed more American soldiers in the Spanish-American War than all the weapons of the Spaniards. It has killed thousands of soldiers during the present European War.
11. Why is typhoid fever so prevalent during the summer and fall? Because flies are most numerous during those seasons.
12. Why is typhoid fever common in one community and not in another? Largely because the common house-fly is abundant in one locality and is controlled in the other.
13. Where are flies most abundant? Where there is most filth.
14. How shall we kill the fly? (a) Destroy all filth about the house and yard; (b) Put lime into the vault and over the manure; (c) Trap all flies before they enter your home by using wire fly-traps; (d) Kill all flies, large or small, with a "swatter;" (e) Use sticky fly paper or fly poisons around the house or store; (f) Pour a borax solution over manure, filth or other places where the fly may rear its young.

The Fly a Peril in Cities.

In the fight against the deadly house fly the public should understand the odds against which it contends to rid cities of this pest and the vigilance necessary to obtain even a modicum of safety where the insects exist.

Each female fly lays 120 eggs, which hatch in eight hours. Ten days later the new generation is in flight, carrying on the work of death. It is estimated that the progeny of a single pair in one season is ONE SEXTILLION, or, in figures, 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000.

Manure, garage, and other filth are the breeding spots of flies. The department of agriculture in its experiments has found larvae and puparia enough in a pound of horse manure to make 1,200 house flies. A single ill-kept stable will supply house flies for a large territory.

There is hope of greatly lessening the pest in cities if the authorities will enforce good ordinances on the subject of removing manure and garbage promptly. The increase in automobiles and auto trucks has already aided in exterminating flies. Horse owners can help the crusade by mixing chloride of lime with the manure in the ratio of a quarter of a pound of the former to eight quarts of the latter. A still cheaper and more effective destroyer of the larvae is kerosene, a pint of which sprayed upon every eight quarts of manure will kill the maggots.

So far as the dwelling house is concerned there are a number of effective ways of destroying the flies. Carbolic acid is one. Twenty drops of this on a heated shovel or anything of the kind will kill the insects by its vapor. But as this is a dangerous thing to have in the house where young children are, it would be better to get something harmless and yet effective.

Buy one dram of bichromate of potash at a drug store. Dissolve it in two ounces of water, add a little sugar, and place the mixture in shallow dishes about the house.

Another good remedy is formalin or formaldehyde. A spoonful of this in a quarter of a pint of water will kill all the flies. As this is a poison, it must be placed where children cannot reach it.

When a room is found full of flies they may all be instantly destroyed by the use of pyrethrum powder. Close the doors and windows and pull down all the shades except one, which leave up about a foot. Take into the room a tablespoonful of the powder on a hot shovel. The fumes will drive the flies in their death struggle toward the foot of light at the window. There they will fall dead and may easily be swept out.

There are various kinds of sticky fly paper, traps, etc. The papers should be burned when they have done their work.

Screen every window and door of your house and keep the screens on till you start up your furnace.

Have separate screen covers for food which must be exposed in pantry and kitchen.

Let Cleanliness, and Cleanliness, and yet more Cleanliness be your motto all summer long.

Important Don'ts.

Don't dine at a hotel, boarding house, or restaurant where flies are tolerated.

Don't allow flies in your house.

Don't permit them near your food, especially milk.

Don't buy food where flies are permitted.

Don't allow them in a sickroom.

Don't let them crawl over the baby or the nipple of its nursing bottle.

Horned Larks Destroy Many Insect Pests

By W. L. McATEE.

Horned larks are small but hardy birds which frequent the open country and never live in forests. They range over practically the whole United States, and are easily recognized by the conspicuous black mark across the breast and the small pointed tufts of dark-colored feathers behind the eyes. These are often erected and cause the appearance referred to in the common name. These birds nest early, often before all the snow has disappeared, and they have a joyous flight song in the mating season.

The food of horned larks, exclusive of those of southern California, consists of 20.6 per cent of animal and 79.4 per cent of vegetable matter. Not quite a sixth of the vegetable food is grain, mostly waste, though some sprouting grain is pulled. This is the most serious charge against the birds and is sustained, but it must be admitted that practically all the complaints were made years ago, when broadcast sowing was the rule. Recent correspondence shows that drilled grain is practically safe from injury.

Weed seeds are by far the largest single component (63.9 per cent) of the food of horned larks, and over 10 per cent of the 1,154 birds examined had eaten them, no fewer than 206 individuals having fed on them exclusively. Conspicuous among the weed seeds eaten are those of the foxtail grasses, smartweeds, bindweeds, amaranth, pigweeds, purslane, ragweed, and crab and barn grasses. Horned larks are among the most efficient weed-destroying birds.

The insect food of these birds includes such pests as May beetles and their larvae, the white grubs, leaf beetles injurious to strawberries, cabbage, melons, and sugar beets, clover-leaf and clover-root weevils, potato-stalk borers, nut weevils, bill bugs, and the chinch bug. Grasshoppers are a favorite food; cut-worms are eaten freely.

EARLY HATCHING BRINGS WINTER EGGS

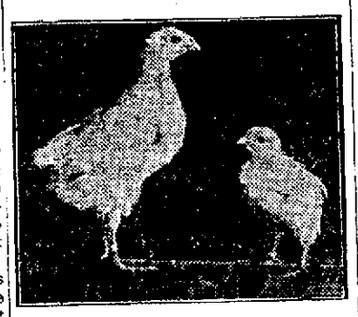
A Simple Way For Poultry Owners to Profit From High Prices in Fall and Winter.

Early hatching is the secret of winter egg production. The pullet that is hatched early matures early and is ready to lay eggs in the fall when the supply is scarcest and prices highest. Chickens that are expected to be revenue producers for their owners later in the year should be out of their shells by April 30th, at the latest. If they are properly cared for thereafter they will begin to lay eggs at the very time that eggs are most wanted.

To a great extent the poultrymen of the country have overlooked this simple fact. For one thing, birds hatched later in the spring or summer are not inclined to become broody until late the following season and thus an unprofitable circle is formed. Each year pullets mature too late to produce in the fall and winter, and they sit too late for their offspring to do any better. The poultryman who wishes to get really good returns from his flock must break this circle.

The growing use of incubators has made this comparatively easier. There is no reason why incubators should not be filled in March and early April and the hatching over before May 1st. If no incubator is available it may be possible to secure broody hens in the neighborhood. That they will repay the trouble and expense necessary to obtain them, is indicated by results at the government poultry farm in Maryland. There it is not unusual to get a daily average of one egg for every five hens throughout the fall and winter, and in some pens the average has been as high as one egg for three birds. If anything like this percentage could be obtained on farms, the ordinary poultry farmer would derive real benefit from the high prices which eggs invariably bring for a period of several months.

The question of the use of incubators resolves itself into this: Do you want the maximum of profit from the number of fowls which you keep? If so, an incubator is a necessity. If the amount of profit is of no importance, then there is no real need for a machine. March and April are the two most profitable months for hatching, and not enough hens will become broody before the last of March to satisfy the demands of the average farm flock. The incubator enables the owner to control the date of hatching and maturity of his chicks—a very important item in the success of the business.



Two White Wyandottes. Both same age and raised, fed and brooded in same way. An example of proper and improper methods of selection and breeding.

One difficulty in setting eggs in spring at selected dates if the natural system of incubation is followed is in finding broody hens at the proper times. If natural incubation is depended upon exclusively it probably will be best for the poultry raiser to disregard dates and make settings whenever broody hens are available. A good nest for setting is made of wood, 15 inches square and about 15 inches high, with a top. The front is open except for a board 6 inches high. Three or four inches of damp earth should be placed in such a nest and on this straw, hay, or chaff should be firmly packed. The hens should be dusted thoroughly with insect powder. It is a good plan, also, to sprinkle a little of the powder in the nests.

KINDNESS.

The farmer, who regards his dairy cattle as dirty machines that thrive on abuse, will never make any money in the dairy business, while the cattle owner who appreciates good dairy cows and treats them with kindness will like farming and will prosper on the returns from his cows.

The automobile and suburban electric lines now bring the farm near to town, where city and village life can be a part of farm life.

FIG TREE COMMON.

The fig tree is common in Palestine. Mount Olivet was famous for its fig trees in ancient times, and they are still found there. "To sit under one's own vine and one's own figtree" was an expression among the Jews to denote peace and prosperity.

Plan your garden so it can be tilled with horse-machinery.

The demand for municipal distribution of milk is steadily growing.

Corn Pests May Be Controlled By Proper Plowing

After the corn-root louse, rootworm, grubworm, and wireworm have attacked the corn field, it will be too late for effective control measures. Remedies for these pests must be applied during fall and winter. These insects feed below ground and are most effectively controlled by fall or winter plowing, clean culture, and crop rotation.

The root louse winters as the egg in the nests of the small corn field ant. By winter plowing these ant nests are broken up and the ants, as well as the louse eggs, are destroyed. The eggs of the northern rootworm are deposited by the beetle during fall in corn fields and since the grub on hatching the following spring will feed only on the roots of corn, apparently crop rotation is entirely effective. Some of the grubworms and wireworms require two or three years to mature. They winter in the soil where winter plowing will destroy many. They breed largely in sod. Therefore, if a field of sod is to be used for corn in the spring, plow it in late fall, if possible. Should dry weather permit before freezing weather is over, winter plowing will eliminate a great many of the insects which ordinarily attack corn in the spring.

BEES MUST BE WELL FED.

Sufficient food is essential. Every colony should have at least thirty pounds of honey. White clover honey is best, although any white honey is good. Dark honey should be used sparingly; and honeydew honey not at all, on account of the waste it contains. Bees never deposit fecal waste in the hive, but retain it in the large intestine, where it causes dysentery unless soon passed out. In attempting to rid themselves of this, the bees fly forth on cold days, become chilled and never find their way back.

COLD RAINS INJURIOUS TO COLTS.

The exposure of young horses to the short spells of severe weather which occur frequently during the fall, causes a shrinkage in live weight and is a hindrance to rapid and economical development. Older horses seem to stand this sort of treatment with less loss. It is doubtless true that animals become accustomed to winter weather, but frequent changes from fine fall weather to bad storms retard gains in colts without shelter.

KILLING GROUND SQUIRRELS.

The extermination of ground squirrels from approximately 200,000 acres of Government land was accomplished last year by the Biological Survey.

An Apple Pest

The dock false-worm is the larva of a sawfly found all over Europe and in Canada and the northern part of the United States, from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The larva is a green, wormlike creature, which feeds on dock and related plants; frequently, however, where conditions are favorable, it finds its way at maturity into apple trees, where it bores into the apples to hibernate, making them unsalable.

The dock false-worm has four generations annually, each generation occupying roughly a month, except the fourth, the larvae of which hibernate and complete their development the following spring. Only the larvae of this last generation are known to bore into apples.

A number of parasites have been reared, both from the egg and from the full-grown larva, and while these are valuable in partially controlling the false-worm, probably they will never control it absolutely.

TESTING SOIL.

The most common test for determining if soil is acid or sour is by means of blue litmus paper, which can be obtained at a very small cost from nearly every druggist. A small quantity of moist soil from the field is compacted into a ball, the ball broken into halves, a strip of litmus paper laid across one part and the parts pressed firmly together again. After an hour or so the ball of soil should be again broken apart and the paper removed. If the paper shows a decided pink color the sample of soil is acid. If a deep-rooted crop such as alfalfa is to be grown it will be well to test samples taken from both the surface soil and the subsoil.

THE SOY BEAN.

In 1915 the United States imported more than 3,837,000 pounds of soy beans, valued at approximately $87,000; nearly 6,000,000 pounds of cake, valued at $64,000; and over 19,000,000 pounds of oil valued at nearly $900,000.

Don't plant more than enough apples to supply home use, unless they can be well taken care of.

Chinch-Bugs Are Waiting for Corn and Wheat Crops

The chinch-bug is primarily a pest of grass-like crops. It winters in dry rubbish such as large clumps of grass in fields and along waysides, in leaves, straw, and similar material. The adults fly to wheat fields or other crops in the spring to feed and lay eggs for the spring brood of bugs. These are nearly mature when wheat is cut and will migrate to corn or other green crops where they feed and lay eggs for the fall or winter-over brood. Mr. Haseman of the Missouri College of Agriculture suggests that all favorable wintering places be burned as the best control measure. During summer, dust, tar, or oil barriers can be used to keep the swarms from reaching the corn. The bugs must not be allowed to reach the corn field before the barriers are used.

The best time to use fire control is in the fall when the rubbish in which the insects winter is dry. Farmers have generally neglected to apply the torch, but effective work may still be done, if the weather is dry enough to permit burning winter quarters of the insect. Obviously the most effective control can be had by co-operation and community action.

CARING FOR THE DAIRY HERD.

In winter, when cows are stabled the greater part of the time, they should be watered two or three times a day unless arrangements have been made to keep water before them at all times. The water should, if possible, be 15 degrees or 20 degrees above the freezing point, and should be supplied at practically the same temperature every day. When water well above freezing temperature is stored in tanks and piped directly to the cow, there is probably little occasion for facilities to warm it. When it stands in a tank on which ice often forms, it usually pays well to warm it slightly. This can be done by a tank heater, by live steam, or by hot water from a boiler. If a boiler is used for running a separator or for heating water to wash and sterilize utensils, steam from it can readily and cheaply be used to warm the water.

POTATOES.

Irish potatoes and most other vegetables and fruits tend to make the body tissues and fluids alkaline, so correcting the tendency of meat, eggs, fish and similar foods to create acid conditions. Since the body performs its work best when it is neutral or slightly alkaline, this function of fruits and vegetables is important, especially to the hearty meat eater.

The farm buildings ever require something done in the way of repairs.

BAND PROTECTS TREES FROM WORMS

To Most Effectually Prevent Damage By Various Pests, Trees Should Be Banded In Early Spring.

Elm and hackberry shade trees may be banded during February to protect them from measuring worms later in the season. The bands prevent the wingless female moths, which are the parents of measuring worms, from climbing the trunk. According to T. J. Talbert of the Missouri College of Agriculture, the moths begin to emerge from their resting stage in the ground, during the first warm days of February and early March. For banding to be effective the work must be done early enough to prevent the wingless female moths from climbing the trees to lay their eggs.

The best results in banding trees is usually secured by placing around the trunk of the tree a strip of cotton batting about four or five inches wide. The cotton is used to fill the cracks and crevices in the rough bark and prevent the moths from crawling under the bands. A band of stiff paper like building paper eight or ten inches wide is then placed over the cotton band and the surface of the paper should be smoothly covered with some sticky substance like pine tar, printers' ink, coal tar or tree tangle foot. The best sticky substance to use, however, is tree tangle foot as it will stay sticky longer than the other substances and is not so stiff. These sticky mixtures may be applied to the bark of the tree but they may disfigure the trees badly for several years. It may be necessary to renew the bands from time to time with the sticky material especially if the tangle foot becomes hard or stiff or covered over with the bodies of dead moths.

The use of bands is especially recommended on very large rough barked elm or hackberry trees that it would be difficult and expensive to spray. Maples and oaks are not badly attacked by the pest.

An apple insect pest (a green worm) which in its attack on the fruit somewhat resembles the codling moth may be controlled by tree-banding. The insect is known as the dock false-worm, and feeds upon certain succulent plants such as the docks, knotweeds, and bindweeds. When these occur in an orchard the worm makes its way up the trunk of the tree and burrows into the fruit, causing it to rot. There can be little or no danger from this insect in clean-cultivated orchards or in orchards where its food plants do not exist. However, where a perennial cover crop such as alfalfa is grown, other control measures must be taken.

Efficient protection may be secured by banding the trees with cotton batting or with some sticky substance. In experiments by the Department of Agriculture an 8-inch strip of cotton batting was placed about the trunk of each tree and tied with a cord about the middle. The upper half of the cotton band was then rolled down over the cord. Good results also were obtained by applying to the trunks of the trees a band of a commercial sticky substance one-eighth inch thick and three inches wide. The lower limbs of the trees should be kept well up from the ground, and any props used also should be banded. Bands should be put on in the latter part of August and left on until after the fruit is harvested.

SHOULD OBTAIN IN ALL STATES.

Compulsory spraying is applied on the Pacific Coast. No matter whether a man "believes" in spraying, or whether he is too lazy to spray, or whether he lives in some distant state and cannot be on the job, his trees must be sprayed. The law requires

And the law goes still further in some sections and makes it hot for the man who attempts to market codling moths or San Jose scale in the guise of apples.

The garden requires constant care, but it is worth it.

BEES DIE FROM LACK OF PROTECTION.

Lack of protection does not kill directly and this fact has caused some beekeepers to imagine that bees needed no winter protection. Lack of protection causes a loss of heat, consequently more heat must be generated by muscular exertion and more food must be eaten to supply the energy. This overeating causes dysentery and other intestinal disorders harmful to the colony, which may die or come through the winter too weak to produce much surplus honey.

The reserve force is what tells.

"APRILE FOOL" EDDYTORIUL

Being as Aprile 1st (or in uther wds., "All Fools Day") falls on the holy Sabbath this yr. whitch is today, Bingville folks selebrated yesterday (Satterday) as Aprile Fool Day ruthern wait until Monday whitch is termorrer.

Aprile Fool Day was quite a sucksess in our midst according to what we have heerd and quite a number of our most respeckted citizens was made fools of during the day by a few of our pracktikal jokers who aint got no respeckt for age or ennythink else we mite say.

Wes Woodruff our expert hunter & trapper foold Cy Hoskins turrible and Cys maddern a wet hen about it too. Erly yesterday morning Wes he went to Cy and told him that he had happend to be down Snake Bend way on Friday (whitch was the day before) and had happend to see Malachi Wilkins and that Malachi had told Wes to please tell Cy Hoskins when he got back to Bingville that he desired to borry $1000 from him and would give him a mortgage on his farm as securitty and also that he needed the munny so bad that he would pay Cy 10 perct. intrust on the $1000 whitch as ennybuddy who has enny head for figgers kin calkilate up would amt. to $100 per annum whitch certingly is a handsome rate of intrust.

Well, when Wes told Cy that Cys eyes begin to sparkel and he started in to rub his hands in anticipashion and thankd Wes kindly for delivering the message and said he would make a rangements to get down to Snake Bend before sunset that day or bust fer fear Malachi mite git outen the noshion of paying sitch a big rate of intrust. Cy said it was a opportoonitty that he couldnt aford to miss being as a rule he diddent git moren 7 or 8 percent intrust on morgages, altho he allus got all he could squeeze outen them as he held morgages aginst.

Everybuddy knows that Cy Hoskins has made every cent he has in the world by jest foreclosink morgages on widders & orfans and others who was at his mercy. Everybuddy also knows that Cy Hoskins has the 1st doller he ever ernt in this world and that he will hang onto it like grim deth until he passes into the next world. Cy is so stingy that he begrudges a duck a drink outer the crick whitch runs thru his pastchure.

Well, Cy's old bald-faced mare happend to be sick and being as this mare is the only horse he has poor Cy had to go and hire a horse from Enoch Smiley who charged him a doller for the use of it altho Cy he beat Enoch down to this price from a doller and a haff. Cy hitched up the horse (or ruther mare) to his buggy and he driv licketty split down to Snake Bend and hunted up Malachi and told him that he would be willin to lend him the thousand dollers he wanted perviding Malachi would give him 1st morgage on his farm and pay him 10 perct. intrust as he had told Wes Woodruff he was willin to do.

Malachi lookd at Cy with his mouth open and wanted to know whot in Sam Hill he was talkin about being as it wassent clear to him. Then Cy explained what Wes had told him and Malachi begin to laff right in Cys fase and told Cy that being as he haddent saw hide nor hair of Wes Woodruff for at least a munth he calkilated that Wes was jest putting up a leetle Aprile Fool joke on him. When Cy reulised this was moren likely he got mad, so Malachi says, and shuk his fists and swore somethink awful, altho Cy is a stanch piller in the Bingville Church and goes evry Sabbath and contributes to the collecksion plate all the Canadian dimes and coins with holes in em whitch he happens to git in the course of bizness.

Mrs. Seth Dewberry wife of our lion hearted town constubble fooled Seth like everythink jest after midnite on Aprile Fool day morning.

Mrs. Dewberry happend to wake up jest after midnite and it ockurd to her that it was Aprile Fool day and she thort she would fool Seth if possibil who was a layin there beside her in bed sound asleep and snorin his fool head off and makin sitch a turrible racket that she couldnt git to sleep agin and she thinks that whot woke her up in the 1st place, so she thort she would not only fool her husband, but also put a stop to his snoring so she give him a sharp nudge in the ribs and Seth he rubd his eyes and set up in bed with his hair all standin on end and desired to know what Mary Jane wanted—that's his wifes name—Mary Jane.

Then Mary Jane told Seth to for goodness sake git up and go down and anser the front door becuz sumbuddy was knockin and was probly in distress so Seth he gits outen bed haff asleep and without stopin to put on his pants he starts down the stairs when he happens to think it mite be a burglar wanting in at that hour of the nite so he come back and got his six shooter revolver and snuk down stairs and opend the door with one hand and the revolver in tother but of course there wassent nobuddy there and Seth closed the door in disgust and started up the stairs in the dark and stubd the toe of his bare foot and fell and the revolver whitch was cocked went off and the bullet went so clost to Seths bare foot that he sed he felt the splinters hit agin his heel!

When he got back up stairs he told Mary Jane that if there had been ennybuddy there they had got scairt and run afore he opend the door, then she hollerd "Aprile Fool!" and begin to screem and laff.

Seth got turrible mad. He told Mary Jane purty plain that he diddent see enny joke in beink woked up outen a sound sleep in the middle of the nite and that in his opinyun she was a bigger Aprile Fool than he was. Mary Janes a purty smart woman and when her own husbind cald her a fool she lost her temper rite there and stopd laffin. Hauling off Mary Jane hit Seth a belt acrost the mouth with her hand that made him see stars and loosened two teeth. Seth diddent retallyate becuz he knows Mary Jane well enuff not to do that.

All Seth tride to do was to crawl back into bed agin meek as Moses and he was willin to let bygones be bygones as we mite say, but Mary Jane wassent becuz she hit him another clout and told him that she wouldnt be saw sleepin in the same bed with a husband that cald his wife a fool and not only that but to git outen the room and find somewheres else to sleep than with her.

Poor Seth knowd that whot Mary Jane said was law so he drest and went down stairs and slep till mornin on the floor with the dog.

There is several other instantces of others being Aprile Fooled in Bingville, but we persoom these two as give above will soofice.

Local Squiblets

There was a very slim congergashion in church last Sunday morning owink to the almost impossibul condishion of the sts. The mud and slush was over shoe top deep in some places and not moren knee deep in others. As a result Rev. Moore our beluvved paster preechd to Sim Hines the jannitter who bilds fires in the church and Deacon Snodgrass who lives jest back of the church and was abel to clim a fence and git to the church door without gittin his ft muddy. By the time Rev. Moore was haff thru with his sermon both Sim and the Deacon was asleep, so Rev. Moore slamd shet the Bibel and left the church in deep disgust also left Sim and the Deacon still asleep. Sim woked up 1st about 2 p. m. and hurreed home to dinner. The Deacon diddent wake up until most 3 o'clock and he sed he thort the sleep refreshd him purty nigh as mutch as the sermon would of if he had of heerd it.

Mrs. Martha Tucker sent our wife a delishus skwash pie tother day made outen some skwashes whitch she cand last ottum and the pie was whot we mite say perzactly whot the Dr. orderd. It certingly did tetch the spot under our eddytoriul belt. We et three quarters of said pie at one setting whereas our wife et only one quarter, but then we ete a good eal fastern our wife do.

The sleddin seems to be most gone hereabouts. This is largely due to the absents of snow and the presents of mud a ft or two deep. Bige Barker diddent reulize that the sleddin was so poor until Friday mornink when he hitchd up to his bobsled and started with two hosses pullin it to the co seat. He got as fur as the foot of Teck Hill when he stuck in the mud and the hosses couldnt budge the sled a intch further so Bige had to git two more hosses from Ab Snyder and hitch on to git his sled out and turned around tords home. Ab said the langwidge Bige used on this ospishus occashion was almost sinful to lissen to.

Rheumatism is "pain only." Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop drugging. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil" right into your sore, stiff, aching joints and muscles, and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacob's Oil" is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappoints and can not burn the skin.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" at any drug store, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. "St. Jacob's Oil" has cured millions of rheumatism sufferers in the last half century, and is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains.—Advertisement.

The fondness of raccoons for green corn leads them into frequent danger, for, when bottomland corn tempts them away from their usual haunts, raccoon hunting with dogs at night becomes an especially favored sport. Raccoons are remarkably intelligent animals and make interesting and amusing pets.

MAGNATE HEADING A PATRIOT'S LEAGUE

Rich Men Too Old to Go to War Aid Families of Warriors.

Los Angeles, March 24.—A group of rich Americans too old fight, headed by E. L. Doheny, "Oil King," has organized the Practical Patrolts' League in this city. The purpose of this organization is to encourage enlistment in the Naval Reserve of California.

At the first meeting of this remarkable association, held at Doheny's palatial home here, a fund of $110,000 was donated for the support of families of men who belong to the naval reserve and who will fight in case war is declared.

For the present the Practical Patriots' League is centering its efforts on the naval reserve, because it believes the navy will be the nation's first line of defense in the event of hostilities.

In contributing to the fund of this league no money is accepted from men physically able to fight. Only those barred by age or other infirmities are permitted to subscribe.

According to President Doheny, practical preparedness is the aim of the league. He quoted from an eminent English nobleman, who said the soldier is voteless, voiceless and penniless.

"It is our duty," said President Doheny, "to see that he is not penniless and that his family will at least be cared for in the event that he must pay to his country the full measure of devotion."

The famous oil man subscribed more than $50,000 to the fund, and announced that he would meet dollar ofr dollar the total donations of all other members of the league.

E. L. Doheny is one of America's most picturesque financiers. His career has been fully as adventurous and been - udo a,a-gld4oHrs cmfwyp mf romantic as that of the famous "Lucky" Baldwin. His oil interests in both America and Mexico are greater than those of any other individual oil man. He is many times a millionaire.

On the last presidential election the patriotic oil king won half a million dollars on a single wager, and said it was a very small matter. "Had I lost," he said, "it would have caused me no more concern than the matter of winning has—which is no concern at all."

Other men conspicuous in the work of organizing the Practical Patriots are President George F. Bovard, of the University of Southern California and Captain Williams, U. S. A., commander of the battleship Oregon.

In a speech before the league Captain Williams pointed out the terrible cost of unpreparedness to the United States in the past. He also mentioned the shortage of seamen and officers in the navy at present.

"If an effort were made to arm all vessels in the navy properly," said Captain Williams, "there would be a shortage of 100,000 men."

Practical work, such as the league is bringing about, is what is needed, the captain stated, to encourage men to go into the navy.

"We must come back to see that when men come back from serving their country they will not find their families in want and every avenue of employment closed to them."

"THREE FATES"—THREE SCHEMING WOMEN BEHIND FALL OF THE ROMANOFFS.

(By Mary Boyle O'Reilly.)

New York, March 24.—There are Three Fates behind the Russian revolution—three women, the ex-czar's nearest and dearest, who played upon their victim's known weakness to enhance their own power and who succeeded in bringing down the very dynasty for which they intrigued.

Marie Feodorovan, dowager empress of Russia, and mother of the czar, was the most powerful political personage in the empire.

When, in 1905, the world's protest against horrors like Kischenef and Odessa startled the czar into an hysterical wish for reform, the astute empress mother induced her son to receive two "extraordinary astrologers." These men, primed for their task, produced diagrams to prove that Nicholas II. would triumph over all his enemies about 1916; but they did not produce the gold given them by the czaritsa for influencing the ruler of Russia.

Czarina Alix is known all over Russia as the Empress of Bad Luck. Few queens have been more unhappy.

The Cinderella of the Russian court, capricious and harsh-tempered, with a Prussian capacity for calling a spade a spade, soon gave cause for offense.

Determined that none but grand dames above reproach should be received at her court, Alix, of Hesse, inaugurated a social spy system to unearth long forgotten scandals.

Petrograd society boycotted the palace, was warmly welcomed by the dowager empress, and war to the tongue's edge followed.

Mother of four unwanted daughters and constantly longing for an heir to the throne, Alix sought comfort in the occult.

Presently Elizabeth, Grand Duchess Serge, now a nun in a Moscow convent, sent to her imperial sister the monk Gregory Rasputin, warning the neurotic empress that so long as Rasputin consented to remain at Tzarskoe Selo she and her children would be safe. Elizabeth had shrewdly installed an intrepid German agent behind the imperial throne; a hundred million moujiks recognized that menace.

Last, but not least, of the Three Fates is Grand Duchess Xenia, Czar Nicholas' elder sister—a second edition of her Danish mother, married to her cousin, Alexander Michaelovitch, an intriguer of morbid intelligence. Husband and wife were past masters in the art of controlling the czar.

Alexander Michaelovitch, owner of vast forests in Siberia, insisted it was his imperial prerogative to supply the Trans-Siberian railway with sleepers and fuel at his own price. In 1903 he sent the minister of the interior a new contract with prices doubled. M. Witte returned the document unsigned. Alexander rushed to the emperor denouncing Witte's "revolutionary behavior." In three days the great minister was dismissed; his successor signed.

Not content with her husband's Siberian graft, Grand Duchess Xenia determined to induce her brother to approve the exploitation of immense tracts of land near Yalu in Korea, and to finance a company. Nicholas II. hesitated. But Xenia raised the shade of their ancestor, Alexander II., conqueror of Turkey, to advocate the scheme.

"Nickie," entirely convinced, promptly subscribed six million roubles. The grand duchess' company as promptly erected fortifications: Japan protested, Russia cogitated, and the Russo-Japanese war followed.

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC.

Notice is hereby given by the Board of Public Works that it has determined the form in which a certain franchise to Louis J. Novitsky is to be adopted, which franchise, under an act passed by the General Assembly, approved March 6th, 1913, is herein set out:

THIS AGREEMENT, made this 22nd day of March, 1917, by and through its Board of Public Works, party of the first part and Louis J. Novitsky, party of the second part, witnesseth:

WHEREAS, The party of the second part desires to procure a sidetrack across Hanover street connecting the two side tracks now maintained by said Novitsky on his property on each side of Hanover street, now,

THEREFORE, in consideration of the covenants and agreements to be performed and complied with by the party of the second part as hereinafter provided, consent, permission and authority are hereby granted and given by the party of the first part to the party of the second part, to construct, maintain and operate, or cause to be operated, a single track railroad just immediately north of the right of way of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railway company and connecting the two sidetracks now maintained by said second party on his own property on each side of said Hanover street all as shown by a blue print attached hereto and made a part hereof and marked and indicated by white dotted line marked "A". No car or cars to be operated upon said track between the hours of 8 o'clock p. m. and 6 o'clock a. m.

It is understood and agreed that the consent, permission and authority herein given and granted are upon the following terms and conditions:

1. The party of the second part, if it desires to avail itself of the benefits of the consent, permission and authority herein granted, shall cause the complete construction of said track within nine months from the date hereof, and in the event that it so avails itself of such grant, permission, consent and authority then it shall cause the complete construction of said track within sixty days from the time it commences work thereon and within the period of nine months as above stated, and shall at no time in the construction of said track, occupy for such purposes any of the streets above mentioned for any length of time in excess of five days, but in the event that party of the second part is prevented from complying with any of the above conditions by reason of any judgment of any court, then said Board of Public Works may grant a reasonable extension of time as to any one of the above provisions.

2. Said track shall be submerged in cinders, leaving only a small portion of the top of the rail protruding, and shall not be elevated above and shall be constructed and maintained so as to at all times conform with the established grade of the streets and alley hereinbefore named, as such grade shall from time to time exist, and in such manner as to in no way be an impediment to the ordinary and proper use thereof for all purposes by the public in passing along upon and across said track at any point thereon. That said track, and the rails thereof, shall conform with the grades of the streets and alley now established, or to be hereafter established, by said city and subject at all times to be taken up and relaid by said party of the second part, at its own expense, for the purpose of regrading, paving, repaving, and repairing such streets and alley, and for the purpose of constructing or repairing sewers, laying or relaying water mains or other pipes, or for any public improvement. And in case it becomes necessary, in the opinion of said Board of Public Works, to take up said track for any of the purposes above enumerated, or in case said track shall not conform with the grade of said streets or alley as above provided, said Board shall notify said party of the second part that it is, in the opinion of said Board, necessary to take up said track for any of said purposes, or that said track does not conform with the grade of said alley or streets, as the case may be, and said party of the second part shall take up said track for such purpose, within such time and for such length of time, as the said Board may in said notice require. In case such notice is as to repairs or improvements as above stated, or shall make such track conform to any such grades within thirty days' time from receiving such notice, in case such notice is as to the grade of such streets or alley, and upon failure of second party so to do said Board of Public Works shall have the right to take up such track to make such improvement or repair, or to make such track conform to such grade, and charge the cost thereof to said second party, and in case said second party shall fail to pay such cost or expense within thirty days from the time said Board shall have rendered a bill therefor, the said city shall have a right of action to recover such cost or expense against said second party, together with a reasonable attorney fee for the collection thereof.

3. If said streets, or said alley, or crossings, or any of them, are hereafter paved said second party shall pay for so much thereof as lies between the rails of said track, and for a space of one foot on both sides thereof, and in case any of such pavements are constructed said tracks shall be removed and relaid to conform with the grade of such streets or alley as paved and a foundation laid, at the expense of second party, under the ties of such track of six inches of concrete. That second party shall repair said parts of said streets and the alley in the manner, and at such times, as the Board of Public Works may desire, and shall at all times keep said portions of said streets and alley in good condition of repair.

4. That said party of the second part shall not at any time haul, or allow to be hauled, to exceed two (2) cars over and along any part of the track herein authorized to be laid nor at any greater speed than five miles an hour, and shall not load or unload any cars or leave the same to stand upon any of said tracks along the line of said track. No steam railroad locomotive shall be used in said alley. If cars are run backward the second party shall cause a bell to be constantly rung while moving at the front end of the first car. The motive power shall be equipped with suitable and effective air appliances so arranged that the same can be attached to the air brake apparatus on the cars.

5. In case hereafter the east and west tracks of said Railroad company, shall be elevated through said city, then, and in that event, the grant and permission herein given shall terminate, and party of the second part shall cause at its expense, the removal of said track, and place said streets and alley in as good and safe condition for travel and of the same material as the remainder thereof, unless said second party at its expense, cause said sidetrack to be elevated according to plans and specifications prepared by and under direction of the engineer in charge.

6. The party of the second part shall so construct and maintain its said track in such a manner as to not in any way interfere with the drainage of the surface waters on said street and alley, and shall, when constructing said track over and across said streets do the same under the direction of said Board of Public Works and in the manner required by said Board.

7. The party of the second part further agrees and binds itself to keep and hold said city free and harmless from any and all liability from any and all damages that may accrue to any person or persons or property on account of any injury to their persons or property growing out of the construction, maintenance or operation of any cars thereon by any person or corporation, and in case suit shall be filed against said city on account thereof said party of the second part, upon notice to do it by said city, shall defend said action, at its own expense, and in the event that judgment be rendered in said action against said city, the party of the second part shall pay such judgment with all costs and hold the city harmless therefrom, and said second party shall execute to the party of the first part a bond with sufficient surety, to be approved by said Board of Public Works payable to said city, in the sum of ten thousand dollars conditioned for the faithful performance by said second party of all the conditions and provisions contained in this contract to be performed on its part, and will from time to time, whenever desired by said Board of Public Works renew said bond.

8. It is further agreed that if second party fails to comply with and perform any of the provisions of sections one, two, three, four, six and seven of this contract, the consent, permission and authority herein granted shall at once terminate and second party shall forfeit all rights hereunder, and shall cause the removal, at its expense, of all track that may be laid hereunder and place said streets and alley in as good and safe condition for travel, and of the same material, as the remainder thereof are.

9. It is further understood and agreed that this contract, and the provisions thereof, shall be binding on the successors and assigns of the party of the second part.

10. The consent, permission and authority hereby granted shall continue for the period of twenty-five (25) years from the date hereof.

WITNESS our hands and seals.

Does Command from Adjutant General Mean Recall of Companies?

Military circles are astir in Fort Wayne. A general order bearing the number 15 was received asking for the immediate preparation and retention in the company files of enlistment forms, reports of physical examination and other records. These are called the mustering in papers and if they have been kept will save much time.

Does this order from the adjutant general mean that Company H and Battery D are to be recalled to federal service soon? This is the question which has caused much discussion.

Every office of the national guard in Fort Wayne has received a copy of the order. It is understood that both companies have set about making out the necessary papers which were not saved.

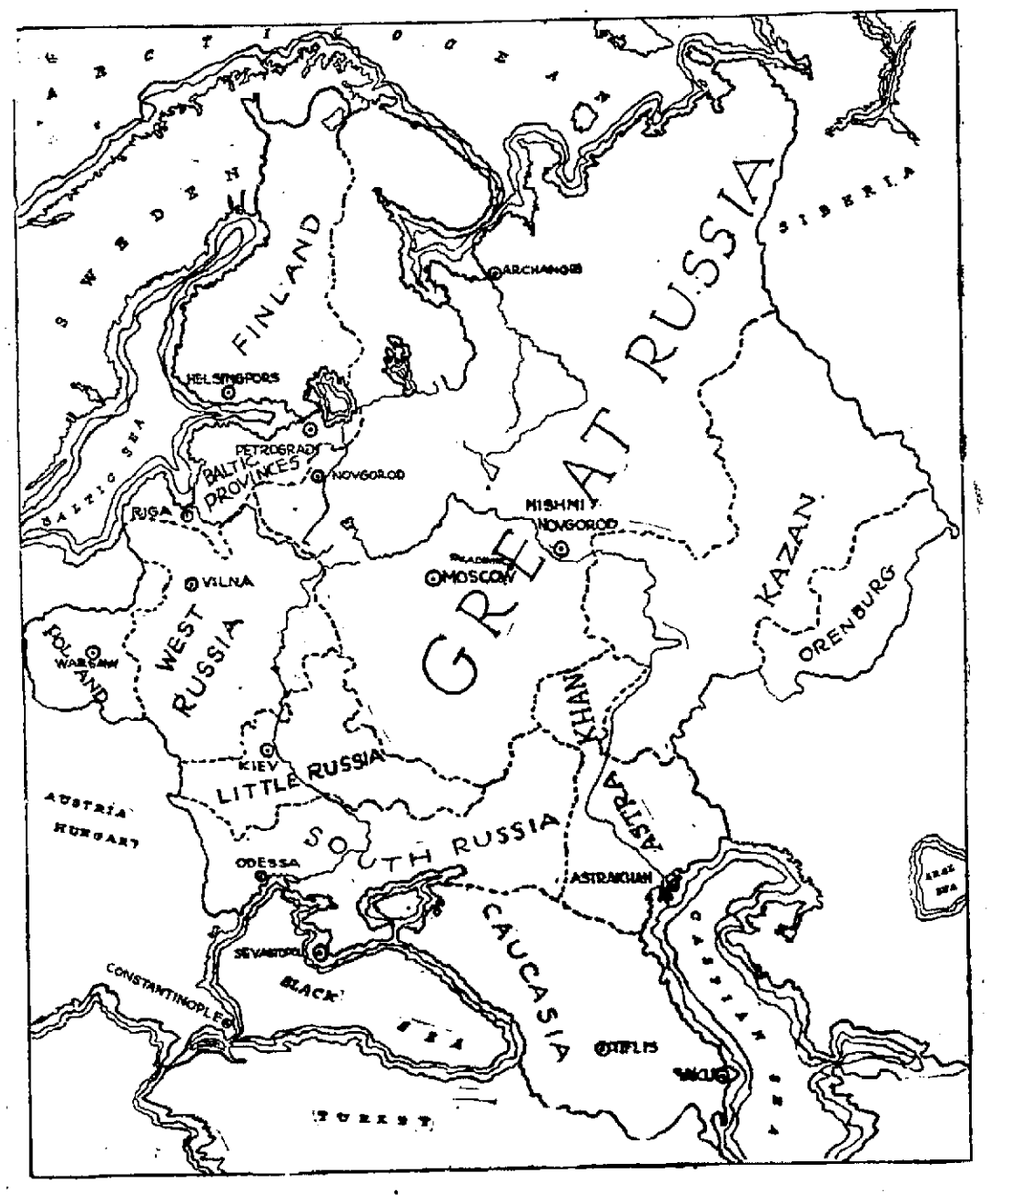
WHAT IS RUSSIA?



(This mape of Russia includes only Russia proper, the European part of the empire. Asiatic Russia, including Siberia, embraces nearly three-quarters of the empire, but contains only about one-sixth of the people. European Russia, including the Caucasus, covers 2,254,301 square miles. The total extent of the empire is 8,647,657 square miles.)

Russia, the newest democracy, is a nation of contradictions; "an Asiatic section of Europe," it has been aptly called.

With a past bathed in mystery, and at present that is more understandable to the oriental than to the European or American, it now has thrown over a centurys-old autocracy and taken its place among the modern democracies of the west.

Believing its readers will wish to know more about this new giant in the family of virtual republics, The Sentinel will present a tabloid history of the Russian empire. The first chapter appears today on page 4.

MARKETS LIVELY AND CHANGES ARE SCARCE

Saturday's Business in Wholesale and Retail Divisions is Good.

Business on the local markets was better than it has been for some time Saturday and trading was active during the entire morning, in many cases the dickering continuing well into the afternoon. Wholesale dealers came in for a big share and several of them could not take time to tell what prices they were paying or anything else, except that they were "rushed to death."

Changes in prices were about as plentiful as the proverbial hen's teeth. One company dealing in wholesale poultry advanced its quotations a cent or two all through its list and oats were reported as weakening. Potatoes and eggs remained about the same as they have been for the last few days and wheat continued in the price set yesterday of $1.90@1.92.

A medium day was reported on the city scales, twenty-eight loads having been received and weighed. Seventeen loads of hay brought $11.00 and $12.00. Corn sold at one price throughout the morning, five loads going at $1.15. The weakening oats price showed up here when six loads of the grain brought from 61 to 63 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, March 24.—Prospects of increased co-operation of the United States in supplying foodstuffs to the entente nations tended today to lift wheat prices. Initial quotations, which ranged from ½c to 1½c up, with May at $1.90½@1.91¾ and July at $1.61½@1.61¾, were followed by moderate reaction and then a decided general advance.

The close was unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 2¾c higher, with May at $1.90¾@1.91 and July at $1.63@1.63¾.

Corn rose chiefly in response to dispatches indicating likelihood that Argentina would declare an embargo on grain exports. After opening unchanged to ⅞c higher, the market scored a sharp upturn all around.

The close was firm at ⅞c to 1½c net advance.

Oats ascended with corn and wheat.

Higher quotations on hogs and corn strengthened provisions.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, March 24.—Rails were the conspicuous features of today's active opening, yesterday's advances in that division being substantially supplemented. Among the strongest issues were Chicago & Northwestern, Norfolk & Western, Southern Railway preferred, Erie and Lehigh Valley, all at gains of a point or better, with fractional advances in St. Paul, Northern Pacific and New Haven. Union Pacific and Reading were heavy, however, losing 2¼ points and 1 point respectively. Shippings kept pace with the stronger rails but prominent industrials, including United States Steel, were irregular.

WOULD NOT TREAT HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW RIGHT

James Williams Used Partiality and Gets County Road Sentence.

James Williams, 23, paid his mother every cent she asked for keeping him and his wife shortly after their honeymoon a year ago, the wife told in police court Saturday morning. But when the couple went to live with his mother-in-law the husband neglected to deliver the monetary equivalent of several weeks' board and room, Mrs. Redonna Williams said.

The husband also "blew" his job, which was paying him $3 a day, in a local factory and he has not been contributing towards keeping his 7-weeks-old baby, the wife testified. James was short on excuses. He was fined $10 and sentenced to sixty days at labor on Allen county highways.

Paid Too Much.

When Robert Cook was tried on a charge of child neglect it was found that he had paid in even more than the court had ordered last November. Receipts show that Cook has contributed $107 towards keeping his three children. The wife had not collected the entire amount, her tallies showed. The case was dropped.

Other Police Court Cases.

James Riley, 45, could not give a good reason for being unemployed, on Friday afternoon, when he was found "just loafing" on Calhoun street. He was fined $5 and costs.

Tears and promises of "never again" did not cause Judge Kerr to release Henry Kruse, several times convicted on intoxication charges. Henry was fined $100 and sentenced to thirty days at the state farm. Other cases of public intoxication were: Pat O'Keife, fined $10 and costs Charles St. Clair, $1 and Albert Gordon, $1.

An old black sock, or stocking, is the very best thing to use when one is sponging off a garment of dark woolen goods with any cleaning fluid. There is no lint from it, and it is absorbent and soft.
